FAVORITISM FOR ASTOR CHARGED TO ROOSEVELT

Senate Votes to Air Mitchell Claims.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Charges that President Roosevelt authorized a contract which benefited his yachting companions, Vincent Astor and Kermit Roosevelt, and their associates in the shipping business to the extent of $1,720,000 at the expense of the taxpayers will be investigated by the commerce committee of the senate.

The committee voted today unanimously upon motion by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] to start the inquiry tomorrow with testimony by Ewing Y. Mitchell, author of the charges, who last week was removed by the President from the office of assistant secretary of commerce. The committee also invited Secretary of Commerce Roper, who is likewise under fire, to appear for questioning.

Blamed for Catastrophes.

Mitchell accuses Roper of responsibility for lax and inefficient administration of not only the merchant marine but of air commerce, to which is attributed blame for the aircraft crash that killed Senator Cutting, and of steamboat inspection, which is held accountable for the Morro Castle disaster. Joseph B. Weaver, director of navigation and steamboat inspection, reported to the senate committee that there are 160 vessels, chiefly plying inland waters, that are fire traps. Weaver declined to give THE TRIBUNE a list of the ships.

The influence of Mr. Roosevelt's cronies in the shipping business on the ship subsidy legislation he has asked of congress also will come in for an airing when debate opens on the measures now pending in both houses.

The senate ocean mail committee reported today that ship subsidies have provided a "saturnalia" by interests intent on "robbing the taxpayer" and recommended government ownership and operation of merchant vessels, or, alternatively, government ownership and private operation with subsidies for operation where necessary.

Going Into Roosevelt Angle.

When asked whether the committee would go into Mitchell's charges that President Roosevelt directed the contract for the laying up of the steamship Leviathan and that it constituted a grant of $1,720,000 to Vincent Astor, Kermit Roosevelt and other owners of the United States Lines, Senator Vandenberg replied:

"Absolutely. We are going into all the charges he has made."

The committee voted 13 to 5 in favor of confirmation of the appointment of John Monroe Johnson of South Carolina, whom the President named to replace Mitchell. Senators Vandenberg, Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], and Wallace H. White Jr. [Rep., Me.] voted in the negative, not because of objection to Johnson, but because they thought action should be postponed pending the outcome of inquiry into the Mitchell charges.

Frequently Guest of Astor.

From time to time stories of government favors obtained by Astor and Kermit Roosevelt have been ventilated in congress. The President has frequently been the guest of Astor on his yacht, the Nourmahal. Several vacations from official cares the President has spent entirely aboard the Astor craft, the guest list generally including Kermit Roosevelt, the only one of the Oyster Bay Roosevelts who has been in good standing at the White House from the beginning of the administration.

At one time there came to light radiograms sent to Astor while the President was his guest on the Nourmahal regarding concessions and other favors which the shipping interests with which Astor is identified desired to obtain from the government through the President's influence. Subsequently, Astor was questioned by a congressional investigating committee regarding these messages, but he denied he ever sought any favorable consideration of any matters by the President either on the Nourmahal or elsewhere.

Backer of Magazine Today.

Astor, a multimillionaire, is the "angel" of the weekly Today, the organ of the Roosevelt administration. Its editor is Raymond Moley, No. 1 brain truster ex-officio. Today recently published an article by Secretary Roper advocating the ship subsidy policy of the administration which

KANSAS FELONS REVOLT; HOLD 9 AS HOSTAGES

BULLETIN.

Lansing, Kas., June 19 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Squads of Kansas penitentiary guards armed with guns and tear gas descended into the strike-locked prison coal mine early today behind a smoke screen blown by reversed ventilator fans to rush 347 mutinous convicts.

Lansing, Kas., June 19 [Wednesday]. —(AP)—A maddened mob of 347 mutinous convicts sent up word early this morning from the Kansas penitentiary coal mine, where they struck for a new prison physician and better food, that "we'll stick it out until we die if we have to, but these nine guards must die with us."

The strike began at 6 a. m. Tuesday when they descended into the mine.

Pausing in the midst of spreading fires and tumbling timber supports, the mutineers about midnight released two of eleven guards held as hostages to carry the word that "we can stay here until Friday—or Monday for that matter."

"The mine is almost a wreck right now," Will T. Beck, member of the board of administration which met to consider the convicts' demands, was told by Robert Murray, mine superintendent. Murray was one of the two hostages released.

Rock Falls in Tunnels.

"The rock has fallen down in the tunnels and almost completely covered 60 cars."

Murray said some of the convicts were armed with knives.

Asked what steps should be taken, Murray replied:

"As long as the men are wrecking the mine the only thing to do is to go down there after them. We will have to go down to rescue the guards and extinguish the fire."

Murray and Joe Studdard, a guard, were permitted to emerge by way of the main shaft controled by the rioters, but the convicts placed gasoline at the bottom and told them if attempts were made to send guards down that shaft the fuel would be ignited.

The two men released said the convicts had secreted food in the mine in preparation for the strike, but found that the meat had spoiled.

Guards Are Unharmed.

"The guards haven't been harmed so far," Murray reported.

Before Murray and Studdard were sent up the shaft the convicts ignited a small portion of the gasoline. Then they extinguished it—"just to show we mean what we say."

R. D. Payne, secretary to the warden, said an attempt would be made to rush the strikers and rescue the guards. Hose was lowered down the air shaft for use in fighting the fires.

Cooks had been ordered to stand by to prepare a meal for the convicts. They had not eaten since they entered the workings between 6 and 7 a. m. Tuesday.

An earlier fire burned itself out after consuming hay in the mine mule barn on a level 730 feet underground.

Halt Advance of Guards.

The mutineers started the first blaze to prevent the advance of heavily armed prison guards, who started down the lower level from the fortified gun cage at the entrance to the air shaft.

Choking, the guards themselves then retreated back to the cage. Several of them were brought to the surface. They were replaced by fresh guards.

In telephone conversations Warden Lacy Simpson and Dr. James M. Scott, vice chairman of the board of administration, here considering the demands, pleaded with the mutineers to come out and "talk it over."

Threaten to Tear Up Mine.

Warden Simpson told the mutineers the board would "treat you square." He insisted, however, that the men emerge for negotiations.

"Nothing doing," the spokesman retorted hotly. "And we'll tear up your damn mine if you don't do something right away."

Deputy Warden A. J. Graham, who

THE NEW DEAL—CLUBS ARE TRUMPS

Somewhat to the surprise of State's Attorney Courtney and his staf, the grand jury was reported yesterday to have voted a true bill charging Robert M. Sweitzer with withholding public funds from his successor in the office of county clerk. He held the office for 24 years.

The prosecutors were surprised because they had not finished presenting their evidence to the grand jury. When Prosecutors Leslie V. Salter and Marshall V. Kearney appeared before the jury yesterday morning with Clarence Walker, state's attorney's auditor, who was to be a witness, they were asked to wait outside.

After a conference of an hour the grand jury was reported to have voted a true bill and to have fixed Sweitzer's bond at $10,000. The two prosecutors explained to the jurors that it was their purpose in the case to build up a complete record and to get all witnesses under oath before the jury.

Testimony After Bill Is Voted.

The jurors assured them that they were willing to hear more evidence, but that they had heard enough already to convince them that an indictment should be returned. Walker testified before the jury later in the day. Other witnesses will be heard.

So anxious were the grand jurors to make a return in the case that under the leadership of their foreman, John Bremner, biscuit manufacturer, who, incidentally, is a close friend of Sweitzer, they remained at the Criminal Court building until midafternoon in the apparent hope of returning the indictment.

The work of drafting it had not been finished, however, and it is expected that it will be returned today before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court. The indictment, it is understood, will consist of six counts, five of them charging failures by Sweitzer to turn over to County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, his successor, specific sums of money, and the sixth covering the whole default, which was fixed by auditors at $414,129.

A Chance to Post Bond.

State's Attorney Courtney said that Sweitzer probably would be given a chance to surrender and post bond before a capias is served on him.

When that bond is posted, possibly by Friday, Sweitzer will be arraigned and required to plead to the charge against him. At the same time Chief Justice Sullivan will assign the case to one of the associate justices for trial. Under the present procedure of speeding criminal trials that judge will probably fix a date for trial early next week.

The criminal prosecution is but one of three legal cases arising out of the shortage in the county clerk's office. Still to be prepared and filed is a civil suit by the county against Sweitzer and the surety company which bonded him to recover the shortage.

Sweitzer already has filed quo warranto proceedings against Joseph L. Gill, who was chosen county treasurer by the Cook county board on June 6, after the board had ousted Sweitzer. That case is set for hearing on June 24.

CHICAGO FAIR, AIRPORT BILLS WIN APPROVAL

House Group Backs Kelly Measures.

Act on Chicago Bills

DRIVERS' LICENSE: Removed from "postponed" status, then reburied in house appropriations committee.

WORLD'S FAIR: Approved by house municipalities committee.

LAKE FRONT AIRPORT: Approved by house municipalities committee.

HANDBOOKS: Received by senate from house and sent to second reading, making passage possible Thursday.

PARK DISTRICT REFUNDING: House amendments concurred in by senate, removing emergency clauses; measures then being sent to governor.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 18.—[Special.]—The house municipalities committee this afternoon approved Mayor Kelly's permanent world's fair bills, the lake front airport authority, and several other bills backed by the Chicago city administration.

Later Chicago's pegged levy bill, fixing the city's corporate levy for 1935 at 36 millions, was passed by the house, completing progress through both chambers by the vote of 79 to 31. On second reading the measure was shorn of increases designed to restore salary cuts to city employés. Levies for the Chicago Public library, the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, and the Chicago park district also were fixed.

Bars—the good old wooden kind or those shiny, modernistic things, as well as all stages of counters in between—were legalized at night when the house passed the Ward senate bill repealing that section of the liquor act which prohibited sales over counters. The vote, accompanied by a singular absence of debate, was 100 to 11.

Argue Over Lake Front Fair.

As to the world's fair bills for Chicago, most of the day's hearing before the municipalities committee was taken up with arguments from representatives of Chicago civic organizations against the fair bills. The objections were varied and included the prediction that another Coney Island, replete with fan dancers and peep shows, would be set up along the shores of Lake Michigan.

But the committee chose to believe Charles S. Peterson, vice president of A Century of Progress Exposition, who envisioned the permanent fair as "the greatest recreation center in the world, bringing money, business, and visitors to Chicago." He insisted that objectionable concessions would not be tolerated.

Victor Elting of the Chicago Civic federation and bureau of public efficiency argued that the provision in the park authority permitting appointment of commissioners by the mayor, and "staggered" over ten years, would lead to a political setup controling the fair. Miss Harriet Vittum of the Chicago Federation of Settlements insisted that free access to the parks for the poor would be denied them by the permanent fair in Burnham park.

Minister Hits Project.

The Rev. Philip Yarrow, veteran reformer who spoke today for the Chicago Church federation, declared that the churches were against the fair "until the vile First and Second wards are cleaned up. And if you want evidence of vice in those wards come to my office," Yarrow added.

In vain Representative Bernice T. Van Der Vries of Winnetka, one of the few Republicans present at the hearing, tried to have a referendum clause attached so that the voters could register their approval or disapproval. The Democrats voted the proposal down, 15 to 5, and that vote stood as the final roll call on all the city administration's bills.

Amendment Is Offered.

When the lake front airport bill was called for consideration Representative George Garry Noonan [Dem., Chicago] offered an amendment which he said was backed by Gov. Horner, to place control of the proposed island landing field in the hands of the state

Four Day Rain in City Nears 2 Inch Total

Rains that began late Saturday and have continued at frequent intervals gave Chicago a total of 1.88 inches of precipitation up to 8 o'clock last night. There was additional rainfall during the evening, accompanied by thunder and lightning, and with the official forecast indicating that similar conditions would prevail for several hours longer it was regarded as likely that within the four days ending at 8 o'clock tonight the total of precipitation would exceed two inches.

The skies, overcast almost constantly since Sunday morning, will clear this afternoon, according to the weather forecaster, and the temperature, which reached a maximum of 75 degrees late yesterday, will fall to the vicinity of 60 under the influence of fresh northwest and north winds.

Rainbow Relieves Clouds.

There were brief breaks in the clouds yesterday afternoon and one of these, coming a quarter of an hour before sunset, produced a splendid rainbow that was viewed by thousands throughout the city.

The official rainfall mark for June now stands at 2.43 inches and that for the period since Jan. 1 at 18.70 inches. Since normal precipitation up to June 18 is 15.02 inches, the excess thus far in 1935 is 3.68 inches.

These figures furnish a great contrast to the weather records of the corresponding period of 1934. Up to June 1 the total 1934 rainfall was 4.56 inches. Between June 1 and June 18 there was an additional .38 inch. The total of 4.94 inches was less by 13.76 inches than the amount that has fallen so far this year.

Changed Conditions: New Problems.

Expressing it another way, rainfall to date in 1935 is more than three and a half times that in the corresponding period of 1934; or, the 3.68 inches of excess this year is contrasted to a deficiency of 10.08 inches in 1934.

Farmers who saw their crops shrivel and waste last spring and summer in drouth and heat are now confronted by new and different worries. In the rich bottomlands of Illinois, Missouri, and Indiana stand flood waters. Streams in west central Illinois were reported out of their banks yesterday.

The present rainy spell has been general in all parts of the country east of the Rocky mountains. Bloomington, Ill., has had 5½ inches in four days; Carbondale has had rain each day for nine days. Precipitation yesterday at Charles City, Ia., was 2.10 inches, and at Davenport, Ia., 1.94 inches.

The contrast with a year ago in rainfall is not much more striking than the contrast in temperature. May of 1934, the records show, produced seven days when the maximum temperature in Chicago exceeded 90 degrees. On June 1 the mercury climbed to 102.

So far the maximum temperature for 1935, reached only twice, once in April and once in June, is 84 degrees. As a result Chicagoland beaches, usually thronged before mid-June, are deserted and the life guards who started work for the city this week find little to do.

EXPECT TO RESUME TRAFIC ON MICHIGAN AT OAK ST. TONIGHT

If weather conditions are favorable, normal trafic will be resumed on Michigan avenue at Oak street at 6 o'clock tonight, Robert A. Black, Chicago park district engineer, announced yesterday. Due to breaking of the pavement on Michigan avenue at Oak street, for the construction of a pedestrian subway by the Underground Construction company, trafic has been detoured since Sunday morning.

Under the contract with the park district the construction company is allowed to reroute trafic for 200 consecutive hours with a $25 penalty for each additional hour and a $25 bonus for each hour less than the specified 200.

"It appears the work will be completed in less than 100 hours, in which case the construction company's bonus will be approximately $2,500," said Black.

HOLDUP 'VICTIM,' 73, GIVES 'YOUNG PUNKS' A LESSON

John McVey, 2316 West 51st street, attendant in a gasoline station at 5057 South Western avenue, is 73 years old, 5 feet tall, and weighs 135 pounds. But the old fight is still in him.

Last night two robbers whose combined ages equal about half the total of McVey's years, drove into the station. One sat at the wheel while the other, pistol in hand, stepped out and ordered the attendant to hand over his money.

McVey went into action. He seized the pistol and wrested it from the astonished robber, who jumped back in the car and was driven away by his confederate.

"I'd have shot him," McVey explained later to the police, "but I couldn't work the gadgets on this newfangled gun. If any of these young punks want my money or the station's money they've got to fight for it."

Reds Reward Rumania with King's Skeleton

CONSTANZA, Rumania, June 18.—(AP)—Nearly 300 large crates containing miscellaneous war-time properties, which soviet Russia returned to Rumania presumably in gratitude for this country's recent recognition of the soviet republic, arrived here today.

Rumanian authorities quickly threw platoons of soldiers around the piles of "valuables" to protect them from thieves.

Find Human Skeleton.

They hoped to find:

1. Rumania's crown jewels, worth $50,000,000, which were sent to Moscow for safekeeping when the Germans threatened to overrun Rumania in 1916.

2. The country's national treasure of gold, amounting to $105,000,000, sent to the Russian capital at the same time.

They found:

1. A human skeleton in an ancient coffin.

2. Several tons of musty archives, books and documents, largely valueless.

3. A few thousand faded old Rumanian bank notes, now worth about 40 cents.

Plan to Return Other Bones.

The skeleton, it was discovered, was that of King Cantemir, who ruled Moldavia in the eighteenth century and who died at Petrograd in 1810.

It was learned that the soviets intend to return still other skeletons to the Rumanians, among them probably the bones of the Rumanian princess who ruled Wallachia and Moldavia 150 years ago and died in Russia.

The missing crown jewels include three of Dowager Queen Marie's ropes of pearls, clusters of diamonds, and heaps of rubies, emeralds, and sapphires.

aeronautics commission instead of with the city which would have jurisdiction under the terms of the measure.

"As I understand it," said Chairman H. V. Teel [Dem., Rushville], "the governor feels that since there is a state body which has control of aviation the airport should be under its jurisdiction, too."

"What's the use of passing this bill if control would go right back to the state?" asked Daniel A. Roberts [Rep., Chicago].

"I move the amendment be tabled," said John P. Ryan and his motion prevailed.

Liquor at Navy Pier.

Another measure sent to the house floor would permit sale of liquor in government buildings where no part thereof is used for governmental business. Navy pier in Chicago would be one building to which the act would apply.

Mayor Kelly's bill to license and regulate handbooks came to the senate from the house and was sent to second reading without comment. It can be advanced to third reading tomorrow, and be called for passage on Thursday.

Mayor Kelly arrived here tonight and is expected to be present in the senate tomorrow and Thursday when, barring upsets, the measure is expected to be approved. Tonight the mayor attended the house session. The city's "pegged levy" bills are on third reading in that body.

Measures for Park Refunding.

Concurrence by the senate in house amendments striking the emergency clauses from the bills embodying the Chicago Park district's 117 million refunding program and cutting down the Chicago board of education's "pegged" levy bill from 51 to 49 millions sent those measures to the governor.

Senator Williams was forced to withdraw another of his measures from consideration when an insufficient numbers of votes were recorded for it. This bill, in effect a mortgage moratorium, would permit the courts to stay foreclosures of mortgages and payment on mortgage judgments until July 1, 1937.

The senate passed a bill regulating employment agencies after its sponsor, Peter P. Kielminski [Dem., Chicago], said it had been amended to suit the agencies and the state department of labor. Another Kielminski bill passed would transfer the assistant chief clerk of the board of election commissioners from the county to the city pay roll so he would come under the new election board pension act.

Other Senate Actions.

Digressing from its own bills later in the day the senate passed house bill 936, introduced by John M. Bolton [Dem., Chicago]. This bill would put ticket "scalpers" out of business, providing penalties for selling tickets for baseball, football or hocky games, theaters, or other amusements for a price more than printed upon the face of the ticket. The bill now goes to the governor.

Among other bills passed by the senate were the following in which the house will be asked to concur:

No. 384—Richey V. Graham [Dem., Chicago]—Provides $500 license fee for alcoholic liquor distributors and $150 for beer distributors. Provides one year limitation on actions for damages to persons injured by intoxicated persons against one who sold the liquor or leased premises to one who caused the intoxication.

Some Stores Excepted.

Package stores selling liquor not to be consumed on premises unless sold to certain classes of persons are excepted from damage provisions. The bill contains a "fair trade practice" act permitting manufacturer to contract with retailer as to retail price, with penalties provided for violating advertised and contracted price.

No. 163—Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet]—Provides that judges and clerks of election in Cook county would receive $1 an hour, not to exceed $4, for work after midnight. Outside Cook county they would receive not to exceed $5. They would also receive $2 a day and 5 cents mileage for returning ballots to county clerk.

No. 636—John W. Fribley [Dem., Pana]—Licenses the renting of safety deposit boxes at $10.

The senate took up the proposed new insurance code. Over thirty amendments were offered to it, bringing objections from senate proponents of the bill and from Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance.

"Many of these amendments would compel a rewriting of the code," said Palmer. "That cannot be done in the short life left to this session, thus virtually killing the code.

"I don't believe these amendments are necessary."

IERC EXTENSION, 45 MILLION BILL VOTED IN SENATE

Commission Measure Is Received in House.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 18.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner's forces in the senate were successful today on their second trial in obtaining passage of the administration bills appropriating 45 millions to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission and continuing the commission in power until March, 1937.

Earlier in the day the roll had been called on the appropriation bill alone. When the tally showed the bill defeated by a vote of 21 to 11 Senator Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton], who introduced the measure, had consideration of both postponed. Before the roll was called the second time the governor's men energetically went to work, corraling votes.

Measure Sent to House.

Little discussion attended passage of the bills. Arguments for and against extending the life of the IERC and condemning or extoling its rate of expenditures had been voiced freely during the morning session.

The relief commission bill was sent across to the house later in the day and placed on the order of second reading without debate. Thus, it is in a position to be advanced to third reading tomorrow and passed Thursday.

"This looks like a flip-flop on the part of the senate," said Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, Republican minority leader. "The senate condemned the present form of administering relief in the report of its investigating committee. Now the senate is giving a new lease on life to the subject of its criticism."

"I was told," said Senator Noah M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], who also voted against the IERC, "that the Democratic senators in caucus were promised that the relief administration would be changed if they voted for an increase in the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent (the Hopkins) bill. They did, but apparently the promise to them is not to be kept."

Democrats Urge Caution.

"The state cannot continue to spend money at the rate it has been spent," warned Senator Rollo M. Shaw [Dem., Lawrenceville]. "We have to get people off the relief rolls faster than at present."

The vote on the appropriation bill in the later afternoon session was 29 to 7. On the extension of the IERC the tally was 31 to 11. Several of the Republicans voting against continuing the IERC remained silent on the appropriation bill, which was called first, not wishing a negative vote to be construed as an effort to withhold money from those on relief.

Senator Williams was the chairman of the senate relief investigating committee, which reported its findings several months ago. Comments in that report have been quoted frequently to plague the senator for his present stand in favor of the IERC.

Mason Scores IERC.

"I searched everywhere for words sufficiently strong to indict the IERC," said Senator Mason, "but found them only in reading the Williams report.

"In that report the IERC is condemned as complicated, cumbersome, unwieldy, dilatory, and slow to give relief. It recommends county directors appointed by the governor, provisions that the Hickman bill we recently passed contains. On that basis, I vote no."

"That report was made some time ago," Williams replied, "and the conditions it disclosed are being corrected. I'm satisfied that the Hickman bill cannot pass the house, and so we must continue the IERC."

There was no party division on the first roll call, some of the Democrats being as vehement against the measures as those Republicans who were in opposition. A division did show, however, along party lines in the defeat a little later of the bill by Senator Searcy that would make it a felony to use relief rolls for political purposes.

Searcy Supports Bill.

"It is my belief," said Senator Searcy in support of his bill, "that the people on relief are entitled to vote as their consciences dictate, without being coerced."

Roll call on the passage of biennium appropriation for the University of Illinois brought the relief situation back into the picture momentarily. The bill, introduced by Senator W. E. Clifford [Dem., Champaign], appropriates $12,288,900. The administration unsuccessfully favored a budget totaling only $11,659,900. The higher amount passed by a vote of 36 to 5.

The budget includes $400,000 for library stocks and an addition to the mining laboratory. Included also is $294,000 for faculty additions and the restoration to those in the lower salary grades of one-half of the pay cut that they had been taking.

Rushed across to the house, the university appropriation was approved by the appropriations committee and sent to the calendar. The committee also voted to increase the state distributive school funds from $10,500,000 annually, which the governor proposed, to $15,500,000, the latter figure being suggested by Leo D. Crowley [Rep., Peoria].

This action was not quite clear inasmuch as the committe refused, a minute before, to approve the suggestion of Thomas A. Bolger [Dem., McHenry] that the sum be $11,500,000.

LILY DAMITA TO BE WED TO NEWCOMER IN PICTURES TODAY

Hollywood, Cal., June 18.—(AP)—Lily Damita, colorful and tempestuous French screen actress, and Erroll Flynn, a newcomer to Hollywood, announced tonight they would fly to Yuma, Ariz., tomorrow morning and marry.

The name "Damita" was bestowed upon Lily by the former king of Spain, Alfonso. It means "Little Lady."

Flynn was a member of the British Olympic team at the 1928 Olympic games at Amsterdam. He was in the heavyweight boxing division.

After the games he spent several years prospecting for gold in Australia and in the lonely islands near by. Later he went to Tahiti, "to try my luck at beach combing." Friends there induced him to join a motion picture company producing a film on the island. That started his career. He returned to England and made several pictures before coming to the United States five years ago.

Lily once was engaged to marry Louis Ferdinand, son of the former German crown prince. This will be her first marriage.

Wife Wins Second Divorce from Atty. W. W. O'Brien

Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti yesterday granted Mrs. Zoe O'Brien, 6842 Paxton avenue, her second divorce in ten years from W. W. O'Brien, well known criminal lawyer. The decree was by default. Mrs. O'Brien charged her husband deserted her in 1933, seven years after their second marriage. Their first divorce was in 1925. A property settlement was made in lieu of alimony yesterday and Mrs. O'Brien was awarded custody of her son, William Jr., and $15 a week for his support.

BREWERS FIGHT U. S. CONTROL FOR INDUSTRY

More than 600 of the leading brewers of the United States meeting yesterday in the Congress hotel, unanimously adopted two resolutions rejecting any form of federal control or regimentation for their industry.

The brewers endorsed a proposal for voluntary state organizations in the industry which would seek to maintain those provisions of NRA codes that were proved by experience to be "sound, wholesome, and to make for stability and to serve the public interest." At the same time they rejected the principle of voluntary national regulation.

A second resolution instructed Herbert Charles of St. Paul, chairman, to notify the ways and means committee of the national house of representatives that the conference was "unalterably opposed to any federal statutory regulations of the industry."

A house bill is now pending which would license, by permit, all breweries.

ON RELIEF; PAYS CAR FINE FROM ROLL OF BILLS

John Barkas, 40 years old, 4828 West 32d street, appeared yesterday before Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green in Fillmore street court on a charge of driving an automobile bearing 1934 state license plates. Under questioning by Judge Green, Barkas admitted he has been on the relief rolls for a year and a half, although working in a restaurant and owning the automobile.

Neighbors of Barkas testified he owns the restaurant, but this he denied. Judge Green fined him $25 and $10 costs on the license charge. Barkas immediately produced a roll of bills and paid the $35. Judge Green then requested the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to investigate the case and said he would issue a fraud warant against Barkas if the commission asked it.

HOUSE REVIVES DRIVERS' PERMIT BILL; BURIES IT

Heated Debate Marks Day's Session.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 18.—[Special.]—Heated debate on the merits of a drivers' license measure dragged the bill from the graveyard of postponed business today only to have the proposal reburied in the cemetery of the house appropriations committee.

Representative Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island] opened the discussion with a direct attack upon Speaker John P. Devine [Dem., Dixon].

"We've dodged the issue long enough," said Sinnett. "If the speaker continues his refusal to put the question, let's get somebody else up there. I demand a roll call on my motion to suspend the rules to recall house bill 47 for consideration of amendments on second reading."

"Consultation Postponed."

"You know and so do I that if the drivers' license is not taken up today, it's dead for another two years," Sinnett retorted.

"It will take all of the session to settle the controversy and there won't be any more business conducted before the session dies on July 1," said Devine.

"There's no reason to get technical," Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago] spoke up as Gov. Horner's floor leader. "Let's have a roll call on the motion to suspend the rules."

Speeches Prolong Roll Call.

The roll call was prolonged by speeches for and against the license.

"The assumption that it will save lives is unfounded," said F. W. Lewis [Dem., Robinson]. "It will bedevil the entire motoring public and create a bureau costing taxpayers hundreds of thousands."

"We shouldn't quibble on a move to save human lives," said Edward P. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago], author of the bill.

The motion was carried, 85 to 39. Frank Holten [Dem., East St. Louis], then moved to strike the enactment clause and there was another roll call with more speeches.

"The present licensed drivers, the chauffeurs, are the most dangerous on our streets today," said Holten.

"It's the only means to curb accidents," said Sol P. Roderick [Rep., Chicago].

Lewis quoted from THE TRIBUNE that 93 per cent of Chicago's traffic deaths are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

This move to defeat the bill was lost by a vote of 85 to 39.

Two Amendments Accepted.

The house then disapproved several proposed amendments and accepted others, including two from Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] removing the requirement for an examination except where the secretary of state suspects from the written application that the applicant is not qualified for a license.

"There's an amendment appropriating $750,000 to the secretary of state for administration expenses," Devine spoke into his voice amplifier. "This hasn't been passed upon by the appropriation committee. The bill is therefore referred to this committee and the house stands adjourned."

"That's the graveyard," Adamowski commented after adjournment.

NEW YORK TAX LOAD $85.28 PER CAPITA; RELIEF COSTS EXTRA

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—The government of New York City costs an average of $85.28 a year for every man, woman, and child, Harold Riegelman, counsel to the citizens' budget commission, said today in an address before the Lions club at the Astor hotel. His estimate did not include relief expenditures.

He said the cost of New York City's government was 70 per cent greater per capita than that of other cities. The per capita cost of Chicago's government, he said, is $34.82; of Buffalo, $73.27; San Francisco, $55.65; Boston, $72.41; Cincinnati, $30.18, and St. Louis, $35.68, or an average of $50.33.

"Do we," he asked, "get 70 per cent better recreation parks or education? Do we get 70 per cent better police, fire, and health protection? Do we get 70 per cent better housing? Does our city government minister 70 per cent more for the wants of its citizens than the governments of those other cities?"

He criticized the expansion in recent years of the city's pay roll, both through the increase in number of employes and the increases in pay.

HOUSE O. K.'S BILL HITTING MALICE COUNT IN DEBTS

Springfield, Ill., June 18.—[Special.]—The house today passed the Bolton bill to make it impossible for creditors to send debtors to jail merely by charging malice.

Malice, or a refusal of the debtor to deliver his estate to creditors, or a presumption of fraud, would have to be proved at a hearing before a jail sentence could be imposed.

Much controversy attended passage of this measure and F. W. Rennick [Rep., Buda] served notice after the vote was announced that tomorrow he would move that passage be reconsidered.

UNION OFFICIALS HELD TO JURY IN SLUGGING CASE

Prosecutor to Press for Indictments Today.

Two of the six union officials arrested after the slugging of two Oak Park florists last Wednesday were held to the grand jury in $5,000 bonds each by Justice of the Peace Martin H. McGrath of Oak Park yesterday.

The two are Fred Bohlman and Larry Monahan, business agents of the Excavating, Grading, and Asphalt Teamsters' union, a unit of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Bohlman and Monahan are accused of assaulting Peter Javaras, 1145 North Harlem avenue, Oak Park, in downtown Oak Park last Wednesday, for his refusal to join the Florist Drivers' union. Monahan's bond was set at $5,000 on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and Bohlman's at $2,500 on a charge of assault and $2,500 on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Case to Grand Jury Today.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty, who presented the evidence at yesterday's hearing, said that he would lay the case before the grand jury today and would insist on a speedy trial of the two men.

On his motion, assault charges against Edward J. Rogers, secretary of the Excavating Teamsters' union, and E. H. Gale, business agent of the Liveried Chauffeurs' union, were not pressed. Javaras was unable to identify either Rogers or Gale as his assailants in the slugging.

Bohlman, Monahan, Rogers, and Gale had been arrested on state charges of assault. Later in the day Justice McGrath continued for a week, at the request of the prosecution, village charges against two other union officials accused of attacking Gus Poulos, a partner of Javaras, several hours after the downtown slugging. These two are E. J. Price, secretary of the Florist Drivers' union, and William Bibby, business agent of the Garage Helpers' union.

Oak Park Courtroom Crowded.

The Oak Park police court was crowded for the hearing of the cases of Bohlman, Monahan, Rogers and Gale. Among the spectators were H. Wallace Caldwell, county commissioner; James A. Howe, village president of Oak Park; Thomas Hungerford, president of the Oak Park Chamber of Commerce; several members of the chamber, and representatives of women's organizations.

Policeman Frank Kerber of Oak Park was the first witness called. He told of finding a loaded revolver in Bohlman's car after Bohlman was arrested. Javaras then identified Bohlman as the man who had, at the point of a pistol, forced him to leave his automobile just before he was slugged and kicked.

Javaras also pointed out Bohlman and Monahan as the men who had beaten him with a blackjack and kicked him after he left his automobile.

Lieut. Egan Called to Stand.

Prosecutor Dougherty then called to the stand Lieut. Charles Egan of the Chicago police, head of the labor detail which is under orders of Capt. Daniel Gilbert, head of the uniformed division of the Chicago department. Lieut. Egan told of the organization of the labor detail to guard against strife between the A. F. of L. unions and members of the "outlaw" teamsters' unions.

Sergt. Andrew Carroll was then called. Carroll is head of a labor detail squad, which, according to the Oak Park police, interceded for the union men at the time of their arrest. Carroll denied that he or his men had interceded, saying that he had been detailed to guard Bohlman and Monahan against kidnaping by union enemies. He and his squad went to Oak Park, Sergt. Carroll said, upon receiving news that Bohlman and Monahan were in trouble.

Mr. Dougherty then moved to nol pros the charges against Rogers and Gale, which was done.

Bohlman and Monahan Held.

"As for Bohlman and Monahan," the prosecutor said, "I recommend that they be held to the grand jury. These men are menaces to society. Their offenses are the greater because they were committed while they were being guarded by policemen. It is men of their type who harm the union movement. The state intends to press the charges against them with the utmost vigor and to make examples of them for other aspiring sluggers."

Justice McGrath then formally ordered Bohlman and Monahan held to the grand jury and fixed their bonds. The two union men were locked up in the Oak Park jail. Three hours later Jerry Donovan, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen, and Helpers' union, appeared with $10,000 and posted the bonds. Bohlman and Monahan were released.

Later Mr. Howe called attention to the fact that the Oak Park policemen who had made the charges of Chicago police intercession had not been called as witnesses at the hearing. He said he would demand that the Oak Park policemen be allowed to testify before the grand jury.

Prosecutor Dougherty said that the testimony of the policemen had not been required at the hearing, which was in the nature of an arraignment. He said they would be called before the grand jury today.

DUCK LAW PUTS JOHN P. HARDING IN HOT WATER

John P. Harding, chairman of the civil service commission, hotel owner and restaurateur, has found himself in a dispute with the federal government over a matter of ducks, it was learned yesterday.

On Monday Mr. Harding and James S. Osborn, 5810 South Hermitage avenue, a florist, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on fugitive warants seeking their return to East St. Louis. They were permitted to sign individual bonds and a hearing was set for June 28.

The game warden of East St. Louis accuses both men of shooting wild ducks after 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Jan. 13, 1935, in violation of the game laws.

"I did not shoot the ducks after the legal limit of 3 o'clock," said Mr. Harding yesterday. "It didn't happen in January, anyway, and besides I was waiting for an automobile and not hunting when the warden saw me."

'G MAN' WILL BE FIRST WITNESS AGAINST PIQUETT

Jury Is Chosen to Try Gangsters' Lawyer.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

R. C. Coulter, a government agent who had a good deal to do with the slaying of Homer Van Meter, Dillinger gangster, in St. Paul on Aug. 23, 1934, will be the first witness for the government today in its second effort to convict Louis Piquett, gangsters' attorney, on the charge of concealing and protecting criminals.

That Mr. Piquett does not like "G men" and is particularly apprehensive of the campaign by the United States attorney general's office against "lawyer-criminals," and the effect of such movie productions as "Let 'Em Have It" and "What Price Crime?" was evident yesterday in the selection of the jury—a task which took all day in Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court.

Quizzed on Movie Going.

The question of whether the prospective jurors had seen these pictures or had read a magazine article by Attorney General Cummings on the subject of crooks and lawyers was put to each man in the box by the court at the request of the defense. Each man who looked as though he might be a stern law enforcer at heart was excused by the defense.

Mr. Piquett looked worried and was in constant conference with his attorneys, John Elliott Byrne and Edwin T. Peifer, over the jurors. Even the group of faithful adherents who look upon him as a victim of "persecution" by the government failed to cheer him up.

The government has fifteen witnesses to present in getting before the jury the story of Piquett's alleged harboring of Van Meter in Chicago during the latter part of June, 1934. Two of these will be the doctors who performed facial operations on John Dillinger and later on Van Meter at a north side residence which Piquett visited. This was at the height of the federal hunt for Dillinger and Van Meter.

Defense Outlines Plan.

Defense Attorney Byrne made it apparent to the court at the close of the session that he will object throughout the trial to the bringing in of the same evidence that was used in the trial of Piquett several months ago on the charge of harboring Dillinger. Piquett was acquitted in this case.

The defense, according to Mr. Byrne, still clings to its "res adjudicata" theory, to wit: that Piquett cannot be placed in jeopardy twice for the same conspiracy on the same set of facts.

Brian McMahon, special assistant to the attorney general who is heading the prosecution, indicated that he was ready for battle on this issue.

CONFESSES PLOT TO BOMB MOVIE UNION'S SCHOOL

Kohler Names Six Others as in Conspiracy.

Thomas Kohler, 38 years old, confessed yesterday to state's attorney's police a plot to bomb the school for motion picture operators maintained by the International Movie Operators' union at 404 North Wells street. His confession implicated six other men in the conspiracy, investigators said.

The statement of Kohler added another chapter to the long record of violence in the affairs of movie operators' unions in Chicago. Kohler is a member of the newly organized Independent Motion Picture Operators' union which was headed by Clyde Osterberg before he was shot and fatally wounded by a gang of gunmen on the night of May 13 at 18th and Laflin streets.

Murder of Maloy Recalled.

The Independent union grew out of the rebellion of Osterberg and other operators against the domination of Thomas E. Maloy, late head of the Moving Picture Machine Operators' union. Maloy was shot and killed last February on the outer drive near 24th street. After this his union was taken over by the international organization headed by George E. Browne and since then it has been known as the International Movie Operators' union. At the same time Osterberg formed the Independent union.

Kohler's confession yesterday revealed that the bombing of the International union's school was set for the same night that Osterberg was shot and that the shooting apparently upset the explosion plot. Kohler also confessed that the conspiracy had included a plan to bomb the National theater at State and Harrison streets.

Six Named by Kohler.

The six men implicated by Kohler in his confession, according to Lieut. Thomas Kelly, chief investigator for the state's attorney, are:

GEORGE R. HALL, official of the Independent union, who was with Osterberg when he was shot.

MASTON POTTS, 212 South Hoyne avenue.

DUANE LAKE, brother-in-law of Atkinson, who is alleged to have furnished the dynamite.

Arrest and Story of Kohler.

The arrest of Kohler and his subsequent confession came about through a routine investigation by the police automobile detail of an auto repair shop at 5637 South Halsted street last Thursday.

A dynamite bomb, with percussion cap and fuse, was found in a car left in the shop by Kohler. The police waited until Kohler returned and turned him over to Lieut. Kelly and Assistant State's Attorneys Mal Coghlan and John Phillips for questioning.

The plot grew out of Atkinson's fear that old members of the International union were to be replaced by stage hands trained as operators in the union school, according to the stories told to Lieut. Kelly.

Hall and Osterberg agreed to get a man to bomb the school, Kelly said, and Hall offered Kohler $75 to do the job. Late in April Atkinson is alleged to have told Hall to meet Lake at 41st and Halsted streets. Hall did so, according to the police, and received a package containing 15 sticks of dynamite in return for $20.

Making of the Bomb.

Nothing more was done until the night of May 12. Then, according to Lieut. Kelly, Hall and Kohler drove to 3245 Grenshaw street and met Pete Cunniff.

From there the trio drove to a rooming house at 212 South Hoyne avenue and got the dynamite, which had been left with Potts, a friend of Cunniff. Then, Kohler said, he, Cunniff and Hall drove to 3238 Grenshaw street, the home of Edward Cunniff.

The two Cunniffs selected two sticks of dynamite, affixed the percussion cap and fuse and gave detailed instructions as to how the charge should be set off, according to Kohler's confession. Kohler was ready to take the bomb to the union school, he said, when he learned of the shooting of Osterberg. Frightened, he gave up his plan and returned the bomb to Hall.

Kohler said that he accepted the commission to bomb the National theater after talking again with Hall. The latter explained, Kohler said, that three men of the Independent union were employed in the Joyland theater, which adjoins the National. Kohler said that Hall told him the police would believe that the bomb was intended for the Joyland and would "make trouble" for the international union.

Kohler apparently lost courage to carry out this bombing, too, and his arrest and confession followed.

Mrs. Marguerite Chadwick.

It mattered not to a magistrate in Paris, France, yesterday that Mrs. Marguerite Chadwick, 26 years old, a Chicago widow, was not in court to answer a charge of carrying a revolver. Under French law he sentenced her, despite her absence, to two months in jail and fined her 50 francs [currently $3.50], according to cable dispatches.

Mrs. Chadwick was reported last night to be in seclusion with friends in Chicago. At the Webster hotel, 2150 Lincoln Park West, where she formerly lived, attendants said she had not been seen since her return from France.

"On the night of Dec. 3, 1934, Mrs. Chadwick was involved in a dispute outside a Parisian café. There were several versions of the episode, during which Mrs. Chadwick was said to have belabored an orchestra leader with the butt of a revolver, and a gendarme accidentally shot a spectator while attempting to untangle the disputants.

Statuary Is Stolen from Fraternity House at N. U.

Evanston police yesterday were hunting the thief who stole a $300 piece of statuary from the Wranglers fraternity house on the Northwestern university campus. The statuary, showing two boxers, done by Marcie Bouraine of the modern French school, was the gift of the parents of Donald Schulte and Charles Bounds, presented in memory of the two, who were freshmen football stars and who were killed in an automobile accident last fall.

Pushes Shotgun Trigger with Toe and Ends Life

Frederick Noffs, 44 years old, shot and killed himself yesterday in his home at 611 25th avenue, Bellwood. He used a shotgun and police investigators said he apparently had placed the muzzle against his chest and pushed the trigger with one of his toes. Members of the family said that Noffs, formerly a clerk for a railroad, had been unemployed and in ill health for several years.

ARDOR OF 'BRIDE' TOLD IN SUIT FOR $650,000 ESTATE

Parties with 'Common Law Husband' Described.

The elderly Mrs. Fannie B. Henderson once referred to herself at a roadhouse party as a bride, according to testimony presented yesterday in Federal Judge John P. Barnes' court in the suit of Lionel R. Barbour, Detroit. The same witness testified she displayed wifely affection for Barbour.

Mrs. Henderson, a wealthy Aurora widow, died in 1931 at the age of 77 years. Barbour, who is claiming a common law marriage to the widow in Detroit in 1925, is "at least 43 years old," according to his attorneys, although his age has been a matter of dispute.

"They will have Barbour in rompers before we get through," commented Harry Hershenson, one of his lawyers, at yesterday's hearing. William George, former Aurora bank president and executor of the $650,000 estate, is the principal defendant in the suit in which Barbour is seeking to break the will leaving it to charity.

Continuing efforts to prove there was a common law ceremony in Detroit, Barbour's counsel placed on the witness stand C. E. Murray of Geneva, who was a partner of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Earle in a photographic studio in Aurora until 1928. Murray said he and the Earles visited with Mrs. Henderson in her home and at their studio.

Tells of Drinking Trip.

After the supposed marriage in Detroit, Murray told of a trip to a Lyons roadhouse with the Earles, Barbour, and Mrs. Henderson.

"Mr. Barbour was driving and he stepped on it," said the witness. "We all looked at each other, he was going so fast. Fannie looked around and said: 'He does everything fast—that's the reason we got married.'

"Fannie must have been at the roadhouse before because she knew the waiter. She and Barbour had highballs and after the second highball Mr. Barbour suggested that she drink no more. She didn't take the drink and told him 'I suppose you don't want to take a drunken bride home.' He didn't have enough money to pay the bill and she gave it to him."

Murray testified that in the middle of the summer of 1925 Mrs. Henderson showed him her "trawseau, or what you call it" and said she and Barbour would be married on their next trip to Detroit.

When she returned she bounced into the studio one day and said: "Well, I got him," Murray testified.

Hoarded His Pictures.

On another occasion Mrs. Henderson had Murray take pictures of Barbour but had him print only four, the photographer declared, because she said she didn't want him "to have a lot of them to pass around to girls."

"When they traveled around over the country she told me they sometimes registered as man and wife and other times under separate names," Murray said. "The whole thing was to cover up the marriage from Will George. She said she was afraid he would muss up everything.

Barbour, attired in gray with blue bow tie, sat through the proceedings with the appearance of bland restfulness. George sat listening glumly as Murray described Mrs. Henderson's alleged ardor for the young man whom she put through law school.

"I never saw a woman think more of a man, just by looking at him, in all my life," Murray said.

"Were they affectionate?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes, especially her," said Murray.

A previous witness, Mrs. Annie Benson of Cobourg, Ontario, a second cousin of Mrs. Henderson, testified Mrs. Henderson brought Barbour to Ontario on visits, introducing him as her "boy friend."

Attorney John J. Newhall, representing Barbour, had introduced letters which Barbour had written Mrs. Benson relative to the estate, but Mrs. Benson maintained she did not remember contents of these letters.

ANALYSIS UPSETS DRUG THEORY IN M'GIVNEY DEATH

A chemical analysis completed last night by Dr. Clarence W. Muehlberger, coroner's chemist, disclosed that Mrs. Margarette Ford McGivney, 25 East Delaware place, had taken no narcotics before her "party" death Friday, as was first reported. The analysis revealed, however, according to Chief Deputy Coroner Victor Schlaeger, a quantity of alcohol sufficient to have caused "moderate intoxication."

Deputy Schlaeger said, however, that there was nothing in the analysis on which to base a finding of death due to alcoholism and that he would confer this morning with Dr. Samuel Levinson, coroner's physician, to determine the exact cause of Mrs. McGivney's death. Dr. Levinson performed the autopsy, but his general findings were withheld pending the chemical analysis made by Dr. Muehlberger.

Mrs. Lucille Fleigelman, 27 years old, drug addict, and Lissell Leix, shoe salesman, Mrs. McGivney's companions on the fatal party were held in bonds of $10,000 Monday in Felony court on manslaughter charges. Their hearing was continued until June 26.

Meanwhile Mrs. Fleigelman's husband, Robert, 42 years old, alleged drug peddler, who was taken into custody Monday, was held for questioning by the government. He will be arraigned today before United States Commissioner E. K. Walker.

DUCE FILLS JAILS IN CAMPAIGN TO SILENCE CRITICS

Hundreds Are Arrested on Mere Suspicion.

Mr. Darrah, Rome correspondent of The Tribune for seven years, was expelled from Italy on June 12 because some of his dispatches were objectionable to the Fascist government.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 18.—Mass arrests of intellectuals in north Italy have been followed by more wholesale arrests in the southern end of the peninsula, according to information reaching France and printed in today's French newspapers.

The "O. V. R. A."—secret police—organization has been arresting not only people who object to the projected Ethiopian war openly but also all those whom they merely suspect of being able to raise any opposition to Premier Mussolini's African adventure.

It was pointed out that Mussolini himself, as a former Socialist, was arrested in 1911 for a speech he made against former Premier Giolitti's sending of Italian soldiers to fight the Turks in the war in which Italy took Tripoli [Libya] from Turkey.

Army Mutiny Reported.

According to the extreme left papers here today, Italian soldiers in a garrison at Pescara, Italy, staged a riot against their officers in a courtyard. Shots were fired, and two soldiers were hauled up before a military tribunal.

Another announcement that throws light on conditions in Italy and illustrates how unemployment is rampant despite the mobilization of men and the sending of them to Africa came from Bologna.

The intersyndical committee of that town has forbidden the use of all reaping machinery in the coming harvest so that the work may be dragged out longer and more men employed. Apparently the only tool which may be used to cut the grain will be a scythe.

Duce Extorts Syndicate Taxes.

The Fascist syndicates, to which every one must belong if he wants to get work, are finding it difficult to collect membership dues. Even if a man does not belong to a syndicate he must pay dues to it. Such dues are arbitrarily deducted from his pay.

Recently another devise was hit upon. Collecting syndical or membership dues of Fascist professional associations was turned over to regular tax collection authorities.

In Italy today taxes are farmed out. That is, the government certifies to an authorized collection organization the amount of taxes which such and such a person ought to pay. The collection organization turns over that amount of money immediately to the government, after which it seeks to reimburse itself from the taxpayer.

To this organization has now been turned over the collection of syndical dues. For instance, I was arbitrarily listed for 300 lire [about $25] as a contribution to the fascist syndicate of professional men to which Italian newspaper writers are supposed to belong. My lawyer pointed out that it was illegal for a foreigner to belong to the Fascist professional syndicate.

Fascists Ignore Objection.

The authorities were obdurate. They made me pay $4 per month dues, even though I did not and could not belong to the syndicate. The reason was that they had already been forced to pay to the government that amount.

The whole machinery of the corporative or guild state which Mussolini ordered put into operation last year, and which is supposed to put all productive activity in twenty-two divisions, is a hollow and expensive show and without any effective value except as a further instrument of policing workers, according to the comments which I have frequently heard.

Such expressions of criticism are, of course, made carefully. Should they be overheard by a member of the "O. V. R. A.," here is what would happen, and which does happen daily, to the critic:

He would hear a knock at his door some night and find secret policemen there who would tell him to come over to police headquarters. There not a judicial body, but a commission, on which there is a policeman and a Fascist official, would question him. In perhaps half an hour they would decide that he was guilty of damaging the régime. And off he would go for a period of from one to fifteen years' banishment to the prison islands.

CANCEL DATE FOR GRACE MOORE TO SING IN BRUSSELS

BRUSSELS, June 18.—(AP)—Grace Moore, the American singer, who was scheduled to sing a command performance before the king and queen of the Belgians and the diplomatic corps Thursday, telegraphed from Paris today that she was unable to appear.

The singer's manager said she canceled the engagement on doctor's orders, because she was "very tired."

Leaves for Vacation.

PARIS, June 18.—(AP)—Grace Moore, who doesn't "expect to have another vacation in three years," is leaving at once for her villa at Grasse. Expressing surprise at rumors the concert was canceled because of difficulties over their majesties' acceptances, Miss Moore said she had merely postponed her appearances until next year, when she will start her European tour at Brussels.

ETHIOPIA ARMS 500,000 TROOPS TO FIGHT ITALY

Prepares to Resist Invasion.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 18.—That Premier Mussolini has a tougher nut to crack in Ethiopia than he apparently imagines was indicated today by the diplomatic correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, who revealed interesting details of Ethiopia's fighting resources.

According to information "from trustworthy independent sources in Ethiopia," the war is now regarded at Addis Ababa, Ethiopian capital, as inevitable, he said.

Apparently, however, the Ethiopians do not share Italy's view that they will be wiped out by their modernly equipped adversaries.

Set Army at 500,000 Men.

Most reliable estimates, according to the correspondent, place the total of Ethiopian soldiers armed with rifles at 500,000. Of this number 100,000 have modern rifles and 15,000 could be described as "well equipped." The total of machine guns probably does not exceed 200, supplemented by a number of automatic rifles.

From Massaua, Italian port of Eritrea, it was reported that great difficulty is being experienced in clearing large shipments of supplies arriving for the Italian troops. This, it was said, has been a contributory factor to the discomforts from which the Italian troops are suffering.

Evacuate Italian Civilians.

Mussolini already has begun the evacuation of women and children from the Italian colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland. Dispatches from Rome today said several hundred members of the families of Italian officers and civil officials arrived at Naples from Massaua aboard the steamer Gange. The reports said that within a month all civilians will have been evacuated from the Italian colonies. The word has gone out to them that the food and water they use and the space they occupy is needed by the Italian army.

Mussolini is preparing for a diplomatic shakeup, according to Italian dispatches. Numerous foreign envoys, it was said, will be shifted from their posts within a few weeks.

About 2,000 more soldiers sailed today to join Il Duce's war machine in Africa. They sailed from Naples aboard the steamer Colombo.

SPEECHES IN U. S. CAUSE FASCISTS TO EXPEL WRITER

High Handed Treatment Is Told by Chicagoan.

George Dewey Blomgren, 5302 Lakewood avenue, a writer on economics, told yesterday of being deported from Italy last February because of speeches he had made previously in this country criticizing Premier Mussolini's policies.

GEORGE DEWEY BLOMGREN.

While Blomgren was traveling through Europe and sending occasional articles to a New Jersey newspaper, Fascist officials took him from a train at Trieste, Italy. They questioned him for three hours and then summarily sent him across the nearest border into Jugo-Slavia.

Blomgren's experience was similar in some respects to that of David Darrah, foreign correspondent for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who was deported from Italy last week after his stories printed here had aroused the ire of the Fascist government. In both instances the Italian officials disclosed that they had complete dossiers on the men seized. Moreover, the dictator's men did not deny the truth of the information disseminated.

Describes Fascist Inquisition.

"Just after I entered Italy, while I was on a train at Trieste," said Blomgren yesterday, "two black shirted men came up to me and told me I would have to go to the police station. They took my suitcases and accompanied by four detectives we went to the station.

"There a man who seemed to be the chief inspector picked up a huge black bound book, thumbed through it to the B's and started reciting my history. They knew that I was from Chicago, although my passport gave my last residence in the United States as Minneapolis.

"With twenty Black Shirts standing about me, I was grilled for three hours. They asked me the reason for my activities against Mussolini in America. I replied that I was entitled to free speech in a free country and I believed it was within my rights to attack the dictator's drastic methods.

"The Black Shirts searched by suitcases and my person but could find nothing incriminating. I asked the inspector why he was holding me and what he was going to do with me. He responded only that a train was waiting outside to take me across the Italian border to Jugo-Slavia."

Blomgren and his luggage were placed promptly on the train, he said, and were rushed out of the country.

"I was forced to go more than a thousand miles out of my way," he declared. "It was not until I reached Vienna that I felt free to speak to any one."

Before he was arrested in Trieste, Blomgren had snapped a photograph of the railway station, with two Black Shirted officials in the foreground.

"The police inspector failed to examine my camera for some reason or other," he remarked, "or I might have been held as a spy—and there's no telling what might have happened to me."

OLD UNDERGROUND TOWN DISCOVERED BY FRENCH SEWER DIGGERS

VIENNE, Isère Department, France, June 18.—(AP)—Sewer diggers have discovered a medieval underground town 100 feet below the present city of Vienne. Many skeletons and powdered wood have been found. Archeologists estimate the town's age as 800 to 900 years. Three long galleries and a network of passages connect big stone rooms some of which are 33 feet long, 20 feet wide and 13 feet high. The subterranean town has a chapel with frescoed walls.

FRANCE RELEASES 100,000 SOLDIERS IN ECONOMY DRIVE

PARIS, June 18.—(AP)—The French government today began saving money by orders to release 100,000 conscripts from army service and to cut its railroad deficit.

The soldiers, who completed their year's service in April but were held on duty because of the rearmament in Germany, will be mustered out July 6. The railroads' expected losses for 1935 will be about 4,500,000,000 francs. A coördination of rail and automobile trafic is expected to save 1,250,000,000 francs.

Premier Laval faces a deficit of 6,500,000,000 francs in the budget in addition to the 4,500,000,000 francs deficit on railroads.

CHINESE GENERAL FIRED TO PLEASE JAPANESE ARMY

Report Chinese Bandit Raid on Gold Field.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 18.—The Nanking national government today dismissed Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan as governor of Chahar province and appointed Gen. Chin Teh-chuan, civil commissioner of the province and acceptable to the Japanese Kwantung army, to take his place. The 132d Chinese division was ordered to evacuate the province.

Almost at the same time the Harbin correspondent of the Rengo [Japanese] news agency reported that 400 "Chinese bandits" had raided the Tayuchang gold field near Ningkuta and had escaped with $8,000 worth of gold. Several guards and employés of the Manchurch Gold Mine company were reported killed, and 10 Japanese and Manchukuans killed during the ten hour battle.

Meet Later at Kalgan.

Despite earlier Japanese denials that they had demanded Gen. Sung's ouster or the removal of troops from Chahar, these actions were part of the agreement settling the "Changpei incident," source of the army's wrath at Chahar. A week ago four army officers traveling without passports were detained and questioned by a Chinese magistrate at Changpei, near Kalgan.

Gen. Chin, the new Chahar governor, participated in the conference with army chiefs at Tientsin, which reached the settlement. Maj. Gen. Kenji Doihara, head of the special service department of the Kwantung army and known as the "Lawrence of Manchuria," said a final and formal agreement would be reached later at Kalgan. The principal terms are believed to include an apology by China and punishment of responsible officials.

Japanese militarists at Tientsin announced that the Sino-Japanese crisis in north China had "reached a stage of amicable negotiation." The Nanking government confirmed the appointment of Gen. Sang Chen as commander of Tientsin Chinese garrison and acting mayor of the city. He replaces Gen. Yu Hsueh-chung, who has until June 26 to get all of his troops out of Hofei province.

Jap Troops Begin Return.

Showing confidence in their position in north China, the Japanese today began sending back to Japan troops which had completed a year's tour of duty at Tientsin garrison. This leaves the 800 replacement troops which came a week ago. Also new troops are in the garrisons along the railway from Shanhaikwan [at the sea] through Tientsin and Peiping and leading to Kalgan, Chahar province, and Inner Mongolia. Chinese troops are behind restraining lines ten miles from Japanese garrisons in large cities and seven miles from the railway.

Kwantung army officials said the concentration of Japanese troops along the Great Wall would continue, but denied that any "drastic measures" are contemplated. Other troops will remain at Shanhaikwan until the situation is completely quiet. Three military planes are observing the withdrawals of Chinese troops.

Gen. Sung's Action Uncertain.

Chinese are uncertain of the full meaning of Gen. Sung's dismissal from Chahar. Some believed he could retain control of Chahar affairs with the army, 300,000 strong, which he inherited from the notorious "Christian General" Feng Yu-hsiang. Nanking said "another military post awaits Gen. Sung which has not been decided." The new governor, Gen. Chin, once was chief of staf under the "Christian general" and formerly was connected with the Shantung provincial government.

North China will get in closer touch with the Japanese puppet state, Manchukuo, on July 1, when telephone service will be inaugurated between Tientsin, Peiping, Mukden, and Dairen.

Policeman Lincoln Smith to Retire After 43 Years

After 43 years in the department, the last 37 at the Cragin station, Policeman Lincoln A. Smith, 70 years old, 4821 Newport avenue, will retire on July 1. Because of his work as juvenile officer at the station for the last 21 years, the veteran has been known as "Judge" Smith. Commissioner Allman termed him "one of the finest characters in the department."

POLISH WORKERS RIOT IN 2 FRENCH CITIES; 30 HURT

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 18.—France's policy of expelling foreign workmen today led to two serious riots in front of the Polish consulates in Paris and Lille in which ten policemen and twenty rioters were injured.

The trouble started when a crowd of Polish workmen from the Paris suburbs marched on the Polish consulate and insisted that the consul intervene in their behalf and get some of the expulsion orders canceled, and that other cases where expulsion could not be disputed not be kept lingering but that the workmen involved be granted prompt repatriation to Poland with adequate unemployment doles while waiting.

The consul received a delegation and promised to use his influence, but the crowd gathered in the Place de Wagram near the consulate was not satisfied and suddenly attacked the police with showers of bricks and bottles.

The police succeeded in protecting the consulate but only with nine casualties, one of them serious. Sixteen Polish rioters were arrested and will be expelled after serving jail terms.

The same situation caused a smaller scale disturbance at Lille in the heart of the French industrial region of the north where, in spite of wholesale repatriation in the last two years, thousands of Polish immigrants still live. The Polish Counsul Lara at Lille had to call on the police to protect him against his own compatriots. In clearing the premises, one policeman was severely injured and several rioters.

As a result of these incidents, the last in a series which has lasted for months, several members of parliament were disturbed over what police methods were used in expelling unemployed foreign workmen and asked for an explanation of the situation.

The minister of interior is expected to explain to the chamber of deputies the necessity of expelling aliens when half a million Frenchmen cannot find work.

BRITAIN DEFIES FRANCE; GRANTS HITLER BIG NAVY

Germany Wins Right to Build Submarines.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 18.—Great Britain took a determined and independent stand today and, completely ignoring the wishes of France, which hitherto has been a dominant influence in British foreign policy, concluded a vitally important naval agreement with Germany which ends Anglo-German naval competition.

The pact, which was described in an exchange of notes between the two governments as "permanent and definite," acknowledges Germany's right to build a fleet up to 35 per cent of the tonnage of the British commonwealth of nations.

Parity in Submarines.

In addition—and this is a particularly sore point with France—Germany is entitled in certain circumstances to attain parity with the British empire in submarine tonnage, provided this does not lead to the total strength of its navy exceeding the 35 per cent ratio laid down. Submarines were forbidden Germany under the Versailles treaty.

In any case the British stretched a point and granted Germany the right to build up to 45 per cent of the British submarine tonnage. Germany consented not to exceed this figure unless special circumstances arise. In that event Germany agrees to notify the British government and to enter friendly discussions before exercising the right to build up to parity.

As expected, the agreement caused an uproar in France. The French government sent a stiff note to Britain expressing its irritation that Britain should have taken upon itself the sole responsibility of defining the size of the navy Germany may possess.

Britain Defends Pact.

The attitude of the British foreign office is said to be that the agreement is the best bargain that could be obtained under the circumstances. It was pointed out that Germany obviously could and would build a big navy, and that nobody could prevent it. The new pact at least puts a limit on Germany's construction.

The foreign office believes that when the French have had time to cool off a bit they will realize there is a good deal to be said for the new agreement. Capt. Anthony Eden, minister for league of nations affairs, is going to Paris Friday.

Considerable importance was attached in British circles to Germany's concession that it will adhere to its ratio irrespective of the construction undertaken by other countries. This means that should the British government decide to ignore the expansion program undertaken by any other government, Germany would not be entitled to increase its own fleet.

New British Policy Forecast.

It is understood, however, that the German delegates were assured that Britain would be obliged in practice to increase its own fleet in response to any expansion by a foreign power. This British expansion would automatically entitle Germany to make a proportionate increase in its fleet.

The new agreement is likely to have two important consequences.

FIRST—A thorough revision of British naval policy to conform with the situation created not only by Germany's rearmament at sea but also by the greatly increased naval strength of the other powers of Europe and the far east. A substantial increase in British naval armaments is predicted.

SECOND—The restoration of the North sea as a strategic area of great importance. Russia is expected to take note of this especially.

May Reopen Naval Bases.

At present Britain possesses no active naval base in those waters. The Rosyth, Scotland, dockyard and the fleet base at Scapa, Orkney Islands, long since closed, may be reopened.

The British naval tonnage at present totals about 1,200,000. If the German government builds up to the 35 per cent maximum, it will have about 400,000 tons. This still will leave France, which has about 650,000 tons, with a superiority of 30 per cent above Germany. Germany's eventual submarine fleet under the agreement may be thirty-six U-boats, or ten more than Germany possessed in August, 1914, according to one forecast.

CZECHS OFFER FRIENDSHIP TO GERMAN NATION

Called Chief Aim of Foreign Policy.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 18.—(AP)—Czechoslovakia, through Foreign Minister Eduard Benes, today held out an unexpected olive branch to Germany.

Addressing the Foreign Press association of Berlin, now touring Czechoslovakia, Benes said:

"We have no more earnest desire than to enjoy friendly and neighborly relations with Germany. In fact, an understanding with Germany is one of the chiefs aims of our foreign policy. One of the most important traditional problems of Czechoslovakia is what to do with the Germans within her gates."

Offsets Pact Fears.

His statement was interpreted as an effort to offset fears engendered in Germany by the recently concluded Russo-Czech mutual assistance pact.

"Twenty-three per cent of our population is German," Benes said. "Germans are an important factor in our economic structure.

"Although Germans and Czechs have long been at loggerheads, we are still convinced that democracy supplies the foundation, and the only one, on which a modus vivendi for these two races can successfully rest.

Affirms Faith in France.

"We do not want to argue with authoritarian states as to the merits of our respective systems. Let each nation choose the form of government it deems best. The social and humanitarian democracy which we enjoy is the proper one for us. It is also to the advantage of racial minorities for it gives them all an opportunity to operate on equal bases."

The foreign minister then reaffirmed his faith in France's friendship for Czechoslovakia, in the league of nations, and in collective pacts which, he said, "I still consider superior to bilateral pacts."

Benes said his recent visit to Russia, when he signed the mutual assistance pact, was most satisfactory.

REMAINS OF INDIAN EARTHQUAKE VICTIMS BURIED AND BURNED

QUETTA, India, June 18.—(AP)—This city, devastated 18 days ago by an earthquake, resembled a vast burial ground today as troops, wearing gas masks and disinfectant pads, dug graves for the Christian victims.

Roads in many villages were littered with bodies. Europeans were buried in graves 50 at a time, while the bodies of natives were burned in huge fires. In this city 26,000 were killed, while it was believed more than 40,000 died in the entire region.

While the burials went forward, other infantry units gave chase to marauding hillsmen.

Because of the danger of an epidemic, all persons are forbidden to enter Quetta. Barbed wire fences have been built around the city.

Phone Caller Threatens Life of Ontario Premier

TORONTO, Ont., June 18.—(AP)—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn received a telephone call several nights ago threatening his life, he revealed today. The premier said he was not being guarded by police but he always had with him Edward Wooliver of St. Thomas, who looks after his private business.

NAZIS AIM RAIDS AT BIBLE SOCIETY FOUNDED IN U. S.

BERLIN, June 18.—(AP)—Secret police raided bookshops and newspaper stands today, confiscating all pamphlets by J. F. Rutherford, head of the "Watch Tower and Bible Tract society" of Brooklyn, on the ground they contained treasonable charges.

The Nazis are trying to wipe out the "Society of Bible Researchers," explaining the religious society cannot be tolerated because it defies the Hitler dictatorship, acknowledging only the rule of God.

In Darmstadt thirteen members of the Bible society, which is now forbidden, were sentenced to four months' imprisonment for "the distribution of treasonable propaganda."

Paraguayan Chamber Ratifies Chaco Truce

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 18.—(AP)—The Paraguayan chamber of deputies today ratified the Chaco peace protocol signed at Buenos Aires last week and sent it to the senate. Quick ratification in the upper house was expected. Bolivia's congress will begin study of the measure tomorrow. A formal truce in the three year war will begin as soon as the document is ratified.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 18.—Loel Guinness, Conservative member of parliament and only son of Benjamin Guinness, banker, was reported today to be petitioning for a divorce from his wife, the former Joan Barbara Yarde-Fuller, eldest sister of Lord Churston. Prince Aly Khan was cited as co-respondent. The suit is not defended.

GERMANY HAILS NAVAL PACT AS STEP TO PEACE

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 18.—"The first great practical step toward the necessary cooperation of European nations has been taken in the Anglo-German naval agreement," a spokesman for the German government said tonight. He said the agreement was an "important cornerstone for the whole future structure of the European continent and England."

The spokesman added that the German government would rejoice if this achievement were followed by "steps leading to the pacification not only of Europe, but the whole world."

Eliminates Naval Rivalry.

"The agreement," he said, "eliminates once and for all the rivalry between the fleets of Germany and England. A new chapter in the history of these nations has started which we hope will prove the foundation for Anglo-German friendship."

The spokesman praised the "vision and foresight of Reichsfueher Hitler and the understanding shown by the British government which made the agreement possible."

The newspaper National-Zeitung of Essen, with which Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air, is affiliated, said:

"England and Germany have done their share and pointed the way. Now it is up to the other nations to act for the healthy readjustment of conditions in Europe and for the reduction of armaments."

The paper believes that the new pact "avoids the mistakes made in the Washington naval agreement, which set definite figures for tonnage. The German proposals open the path for a far going reduction in armaments. England gave in to the forceful logic of the German demands and proposals."

Near Pact on Austria.

While Hitler's representatives were negotiating the naval agreement in London, diplomats have been working on one of Europe's sorest problems, Austria.

As the matter stands today they are hopeful, believing that the main contenders, Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy, are close to a compromise which would insure at least temporary peace. Hitler has offered to agree to a five year pact guaranteeing nonintervention in Austria. Just what the term "nonintervention" means is a source of anxiety for the diplomats, who are working on a formula to which Italy, Germany, Czechoslovakia, and France can agree.

Mussolini, who at first turned a cold shoulder to the proposition, is so busy with Ethiopia and internal problems that he has signified his willingness to agree to a "suitable pact."

Bitter resentment has been aroused in Austria against Mussolini in recent weeks. The Italian dictator is drafting young men from south Tyrol, separated from Austria by the treaty of St. Germain, and sending them to the parching heat of Africa for his Ethiopian expedition. This resentment also has served to cool off Mussolini's interest in Austria and to increase his willingness to agree to a temporary truce in Danubian matters.

ROOSEVELT EARMARKS 200 MILLION FUND FOR RELIEF IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Cal., June 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has earmarked 200 million dollars for works projects in California under his public works program, according to a message received here today from Herbert C. Legg, chairman of the county board of supervisors, now in Washington, D. C.

Legg declared that since the money is to be expended in accordance with the unemployment case load, Los Angeles county can ask for practically half of the state allocation.

Frank Y. McLaughlin, SERA head in California, will be in charge of the works program in the state, Legg said.

BIG SLUG OF GIN PUTS NEW LIFE IN THE OLD DOE

South Yarmouth, Mass., June 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles Boma today saw a doe struggling feebly in the waters of Nantucket sound, apparently having just fallen short of negotiating a 14 mile swim from the island of Nantucket or Martha's Vineyard.

She plunged in and brought the deer ashore, but the animal was unable to stand and appeared on the point of expiring.

Mrs. Boma rushed into her cottage and returned with a stout ration of gin. The restorative acted so quickly that the deer sprang up and, describing a zigzag course, vanished in the woods.

Martial Law Is Retained; Cars Will Run.

Omaha, Neb., June 18.—[Special.]—The Omaha street car strike, the bloodiest labor trouble in the history of the city, was believed to be near an end tonight following Gov. R. L. Cochran's announcement that the negotiation deadlock was broken and that all cardinal points of the dispute will be arbitrated.

The governor said that the city, now controled by 1,300 National Guardsmen, will be kept under martial law until the arbitration award is formally made, but that street cars ordered off the streets yesterday by a military edict will resume operation immediately.

Third Man Is Chosen.

Soon after making his announcement the governor called to his headquarters the chosen arbitration representatives of the two factions. They failed to agree on a third member and the governor named John J. Ledwith, a Lincoln attorney.

The other representatives are Sam Reynolds, American Legion leader and Omaha business man, who will act for the Omaha and Council Bluffs Street Railway company, and Ernest Bowerman, secretary of the Central Labor union, delegate of the striking members of the Tram Workers' International union.

The prospects of ending the bitter strike, which resulted in the death of two persons and injury to more than 150 others, was received with acclaim on all sides. It had been feared the brief deadlock, which had been in effect since last night, might not be broken soon, thereby necessitating the retention of martial law and the presence of the troopers indefinitly.

Counter Proposal Rejected.

Negotiations struck a snag last night when the governor vigorously rejected a counter arbitration proposal offered by the company. The chief executive had demanded unconditional arbitration. His ultimatum had been fully accepted by the strikers, but officials of the company proposed arbitration with reservations.

Cochran bluntly refused as unreasonable the company's statement that it could not arbitrate seniority, reemployment of 68 of the 269 strikers and the closed shop. Though he made no reference to the subject today, it was believed the governor included seniority and reëmployment in his "cardinal points" which he asserted would be arbitrated.

Second Power Strike Ends.

Toledo, O., June 18.—[Special.]—Toledo today rapidly was returning to normal conditions as full crews reported to the Acme Power plant and other stations of the Toledo Edison company this morning as the 106 hour strike, the second in three weeks, officially came to an end.

Office workers, who also had been on strike, also returned to their jobs. They accepted an arbitration proposal similar to that agreed upon by the electrical workers at a meeting last night. The electrical workers voted 311 to 48 to return to work and the office workers by a vote of 92 to 9 favored resuming their duties and letting the controversy be settled by arbitration.

Both groups accepted a proposition which calls for a probable 5 per cent increase in wages with arbitration of the balance of the 20 per cent demanded. Both groups also agreed, it is understood, that arbitration will become a definite practice in the future to avert any tieup of the power industry in this section.

2 SLAYERS GET 99 YEAR TERMS; SHOUT WITH JOY

Two paroled convicts, colored, staged a joyful demonstration yesterday after receiving sentences of ninety-nine years each in the penitentiary on charges of murder in Judge William V. Brothers' Criminal court. The defendants are Hampton James, 33 years old, and Willie Black, 31 years old.

They pleaded guilty to the murder of John Breen, a watchman at the Kidwell Florist shop, 3530 South Michigan avenue, during an attempted robbery on April 22. Both James, who was paralyzed by a bullet from Breen's gun and was wheeled into court in a chair, and Black testified that "Chow Chow" Smith, colored, third member of the gang, who is a fugitive, was the actual killer.

Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle recommended the prison sentence instead of death in view of the guilty pleas. When Judge Brothers imposed the ninety-year sentences Black leaped up and embraced the prosecutor, while James bowed and smiled from his chair and thanked every one in the courtroom for "saving his life."

STRIKERS RIOT; BATTLE POLICE; MANY ARE HURT

Officers Stoned; Tear Gas Used.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 18.—(AP)—Bloody street rioting broke out here today when police tried to scatter a crowd of 1,000 striking longshoremen and their sympathizers who attempted to march onto the Ballantyne pier.

A barrage of tear gas bombs broke among the seething ranks of the marchers, including women, and the fighting soon spread over a wide area.

Royal Canadian mounted police broke through the struggling masses to rescue a group of city police surrounded by strikers.

Eight policemen and at least nine civilians required hospital treatment for injuries received in the three hour mêlée, and scores of other persons received minor hurts or were affected by the tear gas. Ambulances raced to the disorder to pick up the more seriously hurt.

Officers Knocked Down.

Rocks, sticks, and other weapons were used by the strikers. Police were knocked down and their uniforms torn to ribbons.

Small groups of officers detached from the main police body suffered severely.

The opponents battled two hours and then the rioting began afresh over an area of several blocks reaching out from the Ballantyne pier district.

The trouble followed efforts of the longshoremen to obtain permission for a delegation to visit the dock to talk to men of another union working ships there.

March Precedes Battle.

Permission was refused and about 200 men marched to the pier, where they were joined by hundreds of others.

Royal Canadian mounted police, guarding the pier, retreated when the crowd approached, and when it ignored commands to halt unleashed a tear gas barrage.

About 60 "mounties" charged into the disorganized ranks of the strikers and drove them into downtown streets. About 100 city police joined the charge.

Many persons were arrested as the main body of marching strikers and their sympathizers was broken up, but the rioting continued in small groups in alleys and in streets.

PRISON GUARDS BATTLE CONVICTS IN KANSAS MINE

led the frustrated advance of guards upon the strikers, said he did not believe any of the men were wounded in the gunfire.

Shortly before 8 o'clock last night an unidentified spokesman for the men telephoned to Warden Simpson, repeating the demands.

Simpson replied that the board had decided it could not deal with the case until the men emerged.

"We'll call you again," the convict said. At 8:30 came the stubborn reply, "Nothing doing."

Enters Mine by Air Shaft.

Graham gave a graphic account of his descent into the mine through the air shaft—the only entry not commanded by the rioters.

"I took along eight armed men," he said. "When we reached the gun cage at the bottom of the shaft, I took six of the men and proceeded into the mine for a couple of hundred feet.

"On the way, we tied some rails across the mine tracks so the convicts couldn't crash the gun cage by running three electric locomotives in their possession into it. As we approached the mule barn we saw hands reach out and set fire to the hay.

"In a minute the place was filled with hot smoke. We had to turn back but we blazed away about a dozen times on our way to the gun cage. I didn't hear anybody yell, so I suppose we missed."

Gas Forces Five Back.

Five convicts, last of the 347 to enter the mine, were repelled with tear gas when they attempted to obtain command of the gun cage, occupied by O. N. Johnson and three other guards. They succeeded in capturing other entranceways and telephones. Johnson gave the warning.

Graham praised Johnson's work in preventing the snarling convicts from jamming the air shaft cage, used in taking guards down into the mine.

Mr. Beck said the convicts' complaints were the first he ever heard directed at Dr. David F. Parker, the prison physician, adding:

"As for food, the board has been supplying them with the best it is possible for us to provide."

Officials would not comment on the prisoners' grievances against the physician, but Dr. Parker himself discussed the recent deaths of two Negro convict miners, George Lee and Tom Kelly.

He said Lee, who died of peritonitis, had disregarded orders and left his bed too soon after an operation, and that Kelly, whose death was ascribed to the same cause, had refused to permit an operation until it was too late.

Prison authorities said each miner is expected to dig nine tons of coal a week. Prisoners who complain of illness may be excused from mine work.

State Police Help.

Lansing, Kas., June 18.—[Special.]—Shortly after the convicts' strike a force of state highway patrolmen was rushed to Lansing and assigned to patrol the walls in armored cars. Additional tear gas guns were supplied by the federal prison officials and officers of both the United States penitentiaries tendered aid.

Extra guards were posted along the area over the mine to keep the convicts from breaking into open ground and escaping if such an attempt is made. The mine shafts are at the northwest corner of the penitentiary walls. High wire fences surround outside shafts, where coal is dumped into cars.

It was reported that cell house rumors were current last night that there would be mine trouble today. Some prisoners avoided going down this morning. Among them was Ronald Finney, forger and swindler of the Kansas state treasury, who was let off from going down in the pit when he said he had a toothache.

The prison population is 1,978. There are 205 lifetime convicts in the penitentiary, most of whom were working in the mine, which is the source of coal for state institutions. Rule violators and dangerous characters have to dig coal at the mine face with fixed tasks or they are deprived of full rations.

Despite prison officials' denials of any previous indication of the outbreak, confidential sources reported that the convicts have been unruly and hard to handle since a minor disturbance occurred in the mine several months ago following repeated protests over food.

The penitentiary has been the scene of many previous mutinies, riots, and escapes. The most sensational break occurred on Memorial day, 1933, when 11 convicts, including the notorious Harvey Bailey and other desperadoes, fled with Warden Kirk Prather and two guards as hostages.

DR. ANGELL WARNS OF FORCES TRYING TO WRECK AMERICA

New Haven, Conn., June 18.—[Special.]—President Angell told graduates of three Yale divisions today that they were faring forth into a world where "shrill and raucous voices" were assailing the foundations of American government.

He urged the departing seniors to battle to preserve "the priceless heritage which our fathers have bequeathed to us—the heritage of a great, free, self-governing people, devoid of caste, loving peace, and resolved at whatever cost to secure equality of opportunity for every citizen."

"Some of our friends have been solicitous lest Yale had become a nursery for communism, with a consequent sapping of our traditional loyalty to the nation. To one who knows the living spirit of Yale, this fear is so groundless as to be almost grotesque," Dr. Angell said. "Students properly wish to understand the ideals and theories on which other governments are based; they are ill educated unless they do; and freedom of thought, together with informed and temperate discussion upon such issues, is of the very essence of a university, to say nothing of a democracy.

"Suppression of such free discussion results in intellectual obscurantism, in moral stultification, and ultimately invites volcanic revolutionary upheaval. It is not wise to tie down the safety valve, if you would not have the boiler explode. Democracy without freedom of thought and speech and press becomes forthwith autocracy."

GENERAL STRIKE IN SOUTH BEND PLANTS AVERTED

South Bend, Ind., June 18.—(AP)—Threat of a general strike in the city's major industries ended tonight when employés of the Oliver Farm Equipment company accepted an agreement submitted by officials of the plant.

The company's declaration of policy, which included recommendations of an arbitration board which settled a strike at the plant last January, was accepted at a joint meeting of the Oliver Federal Labor union and the Central Labor and Trades union.

The action came eight hours before the projected general strike, affecting some 20,000 workers, would have gone into effect. The Oliver plant employs 1,200 workmen.

RIOTING FELONS' MENU FEATURES STEAK, GRAVY

Lansing, Kas., June 18.—(AP)—Here is the menu for today in the Kansas state prison, where 380 prisoners mutinied, demanding better cooked food:

Breakfast—Side meat, hominy grits with milk and sugar, hot buns, bread, and coffee.

Lunch—Baby lima beans, hot corn bread, bread, and coffee. [Prison officials said the luncheon usually sent down to the mine crew might vary slightly from this.]

Waukegan Gets New Police; Has 21 Cents to Buy Guns

Three new policemen will start their duties in Waukegan next Saturday, but the city has no money at present with which to buy them pistols. Ald. Emery Bozarth, chairman of the police committee, said last night that the police fund had only 21 cents left. "In addition," he said, "the semi-monthly pay day for all city employés falls due June 25, but we haven't any money." Ald. Newton Finn, chairman of the finance committee, however, said that within a month Waukegan may get money from the sale of tax warants.

CITY PLAN BOARD MOVES INTO NEW FIELDS OF VISION

Prepares to Meet Needs of Present and Future.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Some of the details of a new Chicago Plan were discussed yesterday by Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the Chicago plan commission, which is to hold its annual meeting on Friday.

The plan can be called new in details only, Col. Sprague said, because Daniel Burnham and Charles H. Wacker, fathers of the original plan, had a broad and magnificent vision. The general function of the plan commission has been defined as "the integration and harmonization of all projects for the development of Chicago."

That definition was as true yesterday, when Eugene Taylor, manager of the commission, gave it, as it was in 1909 when the plan commission was established by an ordinance passed by the city council. But with the scientific progress and industrial growth of more than a quarter century Chicago's problems have changed and many new problems have arisen. By keeping up with those problems the Chicago Plan may always be said to be new, Col. Sprague said.

Problem of Air Terminals.

It was not until two years after the original plan was born that Chicago saw its first air show on the lake front in Grant park. Then the airplane was only a scientific marvel. Today it is an important factor in the nation's transportation system, and if Chicago is not to lose its place as the crossroads of America its plan must give consideration to proper air terminals.

In 1909 the automobile was little more than a toy of the wealthy. During its growth the Chicago Plan has had to accommodate itself to a complete revolution in the business and recreational habits which the automobile has wrought in the city.

Not only boulevards and bridges have been affected, but parks and forest preserves, and the automobile has been an important contributor to that "blighted area" about the central business district with which planners now have to contend in Chicago, as they do in every other metropolis.

Many Dreams Already True.

Many of the dreams of Burnham and Wacker have come true. Chicago has its lake front development, its other parks, its forest preserves. It has the Michigan avenue link bridge and more than a hundred miles of widened streets and boulevards. In all of these the plan commission has been an adviser, "integrating and harmonizing," as it has been on the Union station, the Illinois Central electrification, the Chicago river straightening.

To facilitate the commission's work on the problems which still remain, and those which will arise in the future, the commission will be asked to pass on an amendment to the by-laws, proposed by Col. Sprague, at its meeting Friday.

The executive committee of the commission consists of the chairman, who is appointed by the mayor; the chairmen of eight city council committees, and eighteen members appointed for indefinite terms by the chairman.

A Plan for New Ideas.

Under the proposed amendment the eighteen appointive terms would be for three years, so arranged that a third of them would be filled annually. This, Col. Sprague believes, would infuse new blood into the affairs of the Chicago Plan, and make the work of the commission less a one man job for the chairman.

Also in the offing is the question of a merger with the Chicago regional planning board. Chicago's problems, Col. Sprague pointed out, do not stop at the city limits. Many of them must be solved in terms of the metropolitan area.

It is interesting to note in this connection that the University of Chicago, which is making a broad social survey of the area, is working not on the basis of Chicago, or even Cook county, but of fifteen counties in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana.

Some of the Problems.

But these are changes merely designed to insure more efficient function of the commission in dealing with Chicago's problems. Some of those problems, which Col. Sprague and Mr. Taylor listed, not particularly in order of importance, follow:

ELEVATED HIGHWAYS—In 1928 a committee of the commission recommended the Avondale superhighway, to run from the loop to the northwest side where it would connect with a number of important state and federal highways. There was a general recommendation for other elevated highways, including either two or three running directly west from the loop. "This problem should be restudied as to location and number of highways," said Mr. Taylor. "I don't believe, in view of changing conditions, that anyone can say and prove just what route is best today."

Eliminating Grade Crossings.

TRACK ELEVATION—Elevation of tracks is the most feasible method of eliminating grade crossings in a metropolitan area, Mr. Taylor pointed out, and the studies of the commission and the city council on track elevation should be a valuable aid in allotting that portion of the $4,000,000,000 federal works fund earmarked for such purposes in the Chicago area.

THROUGH STREETS—Col. Sprague pointed out that there are many streets in Chicago which, except for blockades of a block or two, could be opened to through traffic, thus lightening the load on present arteries.

RAILWAY TERMINALS—The river straightening was the first step toward clearing up the south side railroad area and opening streets south from the loop. The Illinois Central railroad is already pledged to build a terminal to accommodate the fifteen railroads using three south side terminals, which under the latest plans would be located at Randolph street east of Michigan avenue.

Harmonizing Work Necessary.

LAKE FRONT DEVELOPMENT—While the major work on the lake front parks has been done, it is necessary that water filtration plants and other projects be harmonized with the plan so as to increase rather than decrease the beauty and utility of the parks.

BLIGHTED AREAS—This is the term applied to the belt, approximately two miles wide, running around the loop almost from lake shore back to lake shore, which has degenerated into a slum area. Housing projects give hope of solving part of the problem. Much of the area should probably go into parks, planning experts believe, both because parks in such spots will be of maximum utility, and because other uses for the land will be hard to find.

WEST SIDE HEALTH CENTER—This is really part of the "blighted area" problem. What is probably the greatest concentration of hospitals and medical education facilities in the world is now set in the midst of a slum area, grimy and beset by vice.

FIXED RIVER BRIDGES—With the attendant problems of trafic and barge transportation for industry.

Harbor and Waterway.

CALUMET HARBOR—A vast development needed to complete Chicagoland's participation in the Lakes-to-Gulf waterway shipping.

NAVY PIER—If Calumet harbor becomes the major port, this pier may be expected to have less importance to shipping. It has been suggested that the commission study its possibilities as a recreation or convention center.

STREET LIGHTING—"About two-thirds of our automobile accidents occur after dark, when two-thirds of the cars are off the streets," said Mr. Taylor. "Study might show that improved lighting on important trafic routes would cut the motor death toll."

REZONING—The percentage of Chicago's area zoned for industrial and commercial use is now about three times the average so zoned in other cities, while the percentage of residential zoning is only about a third as great. This has an important influence on deterioration of residence properties, for owners tend to hold them for speculative purposes, if they are in a commercial zone, rather than improve the neighborhood for residential purposes.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED.

Final estimates of the saving to be gained by consolidating precincts for the judicial election of July 1 placed the figure yesterday at $175,000 or $200,000.

Only 624 of the 3,127 regular polling places in Chicago will be open. In the country towns there will be only 75 polling places doing business instead of the normal total of 512. In other words there will be 2,940 polling places closed. As the initial cost of each polling place is $50—$10 for rental and $40 for judges and clerks—the saving here alone is $147,000. In addition, the costs of printing, of distributing, and gathering up equipment, and of extra employés will be reduced materially.

Consolidation of polling places was initiated by Mayor Kelly under the statute permitting that economy where there is only a single ticket in the field. In this case there is only the "false coalition" ticket in the Democratic column.

140 MOTHERS AND CHILDREN REACH CAMP ALGONQUIN

Begin 2 Weeks' Outing in Country.

A North Western train carrying two cars filled with mothers and children, some joyous and some solemn, sped through train yards, past factories and warehouses, through suburbs and finally through green countrysides yesterday to Camp Algonquin. It was the season's first group of 140 mothers and children from the city's poorest districts arriving for a two weeks' vacation at the summer camp largely supported by TRIBUNE readers.

Despite gray skies and dripping grass and trees, Camp Algonquin's welcome to the novice campers was distinctly cheerful. Families of six and seven, young mothers with babies in arms and shy youngsters who never before had experienced a train ride and older brothers of 8 and 9 who carried the family's pasteboard suitcases with an air of responsibility, piled off the train at Cary with expectant faces.

Trucks in Waiting.

Mrs. Astrid Save, tireless superintendent of the camp, directed them into waiting trucks. The first truckload consisted of 14 babies carried by their mothers or older sisters. In front, next to the driver, rode a young Negro mother and her dimpled, smiling infant.

Next came the little children who could not walk, looked after by camp counselors. A boy of 3 gave a manlike hitch to his faded gray breeches, folded over and pinned with safety pins at the waist in a vain effort to make them fit, and strode after an older brother, apparently the former wearer of the voluminous pants.

The trucks made their way through the rolling country of the Fox river valley, past the Camp Algonquin farm, cultivated for the first time this year, where young corn, radishes, lettuce, and turnips were seen, and up through the 43 acre wooded camp grounds to the big dining room. Here two great log fires blazed, one at either end, and children and mothers were given all the savory vegetable soup and fresh milk and fruit they could eat.

Games Are Organized.

Twelve babies, 2 years old or under, were placed in the nursery, bathed in the gleaming baby tubs with which it is fitted and put to sleep in cribs. After the girls and boys and mothers and little children were assigned to various dormitories and cottages, in many of which wood fires burned, they assembled again in the dining room. Here they were divided into small groups. The little ones listened to stories and played ring around the rosie. The big girls went to another building and had a marshmallow toast. Recreation counselors organized boys' games, and the mothers sang about a piano and played games.

Most of the campers appeared already to have undergone a subtle transformation since their arrival. A thin little boy, the eldest of three, declared rapturously, "Ain't it se-well!"

Nine dollars will send either a mother or a child to the camp for a full two weeks. The camp cares for 2,000 mothers and children each summer. They are selected by United Charities and largely supported by TRIBUNE readers. Contributions to the Camp Algonquin fund may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

Barrett and the late Mr. Barrett, former Republican leader, was gowned in the traditional white satin with a flowing veil of tulle. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies. Miss Barrett became the bride of Stephen P. Glennon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Glennon of Jersey City, N. J.

The service was read at a high nuptial mass at 10:30 o'clock at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church by the Rev. Msgr. Joseph A. Casey. Charles V. Barrett Jr. gave his sister in marriage and small Edward Barrett, another brother, assisted Msgr. Casey at the altar. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Barrett home at 541 Hawthorne place.

$500,000 RAISED IN EPISCOPALIAN CENTENARY DRIVE

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Nearly 800 Episcopalians of the diocese of Chicago last night closed a one day celebration signalizing the halfway point in the campaign for one million dollars to mark the 100th anniversary of the church in Illinois. They also observed three anniversaries important to the church in this area. The occasion was a dinner at the Hotel Sherman under the sponsorship of the Chicago Church club.

The three anniversaries recalled were the organization of the Episcopal church in Illinois by Bishop Philander Chase 100 years ago at Peoria, the fiftieth anniversary of the founding in Chicago of the Episcopal Women's auxiliary by the late Bishop William McLaren, and the fifth anniversary of the consecration of Bishop George Craig Stewart as head of the Chicago diocese.

Bishop Stewart Honored.

The celebration of Bishop Stewart's anniversary centered earlier in the day at St. Luke's procathedral in Evanston, where the original service of consecration was repeated before a throng which filled that edifice. The Most Rev. James D. Perry of New York, presiding bishop of the church, officiated.

Tribute was paid to Bishop Stewart by Bishop Warren L. Rogers of Cleveland, who characterized the Chicago prelate as a leader who offers a "practical demonstration of Christian faith" in these days when "crass materialism is rampant."

Praises Bishop's Leadership.

As the chief speaker at last night's dinner, Bishop Perry also praised Bishop Stewart's leadership, which he said is being felt throughout the nation by churches of all creeds.

Referring to charts which showed contributions of nearly $500,000 to the centenary fund during the last few weeks, Bishop Perry declared he could see "a sunrise through these dark and troubled days."

KILLED IN ACCIDENT.

Coldwater, Mich., June 18.—[Special.]—Anthony Schweitzer, 61, Jonesville farmer, was killed late last night in a trafic accident on U. S. route 112. His wife is in a critical condition.

FOREIGN TRAVEL

MANY FAMILIES PACKING UP FOR EUROPEAN TRIPS

Summer Travel Season Is Near Peak.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

Though summer's official debut doesn't take place until the last of this week, the summer travel season already is reaching its peak load. Last week's closing of schools and colleges was the signal for numerous Chicagoans to pack up their duds and their families and get ready to sail for Europe.

Following the world war so many new nations came into being that students of geography and history had difficulty in learning all the names. Now, with the air once more filled with rumors of wars, Americans are going over to get a look at the continent before its map is changed all over again. But they are not going with the expectation that they will run into actual warfare. Lloyds of London are reported to be gambling, 20 to 1, that there will be no war in Europe in 1935. What the odds are in regard to Ethiopia is not reported.

Find World Holding Together.

Henry Thoreau used to leave his shack in Walden woods and visit Concord village to find out if the world would hold together much longer. Travelers today are doing the same in Europe. They may have read a lot about military maneuvers, and soldiers entraining for distant lands, and dictators preparing to subjugate minority peoples, but when they get there they see only peaceful cities and countrysides. The cathedrals, museums, theaters, and concert halls haven't yet been blown up by the enemy.

Albert Sherer, Chicago advertising executive, left with Mrs. Sherer last week to join their daughter Linda, who was graduated from Smith college Monday, and their son Albert, a student at Yale. The four are sailing today on the United States liner Manhattan for a tour of England and France.

Judge Donald S. McKinlay is another Chicagoan who believes in family travel. With Mrs. McKinlay and their sons Donald and Edward, he sailed on the Cunard-White Star's Georgic last Saturday. Donald joined the party in New York after a year at Dartmouth. The four took their auto and will motor through Ireland, England, and Scotland. After a visit with relatives in Scotland they will tour Holland, Belgium, France, Switzerland, and Italy.

Family Party on Normandie.

The French line's new Normandie, which is to leave New York Saturday on its second eastbound voyage, was selected by Mrs. Cecelia M. McGrath for her family party. She is taking her daughter Jeane and her sons John and Philip for a two months' trip through England, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, and France. She will be accompanied by Mrs. James Kearnes.

D. F. McMahon, local display advertising manager for THE TRIBUNE, also will be on the Normandie. With Mrs. McMahon and their three children, Rosalie, Jack, and Daniel Jr., he plans an extensive tour of Europe.

Lewis Bernays, British consul general, with Mrs. Bernays and their sons Robert, William, and Peter, will sail from Montreal on the Canadian Pacific's Duchess of Atholl June 29 for a summer in England. Walter H. Hermsdorf will leave Quebec tomorrow on the Empress of Australia.

Motor Trip Through Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hough of Winnetka, who sailed Saturday on the Italian liner Rex, took along their young son Richard. Landing at Naples, they will motor north through Italy and into Switzerland and Germany.

Mrs. J. J. Wilkins, an advocate of travel as a part of education, is taking her daughter Adele abroad for the third time. The two left Saturday on the Rex.

Others on the Rex were Mr. and Mrs. Roy McWilliams, Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Mrs. E. C. Waller, and Mrs. Louise Bradstreet, all of Chicago, and Mrs. Irving W. Ott, Miss Virginia Ott, and Mr. and Mrs. August J. Luedke, all of Milwaukee.

A tour of the continent, including Norway and Sweden, will be taken by Mrs. Charles Burkhart and her son William. They left Saturday on the Champlain.

Plan Tour of Scandinavia.

When Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Berglund of Glencoe board the Majestic the end of this month they will have as traveling companions their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Berglund Jr., and their daughter Winifred. They plan to make lengthy stays in London and Paris and then tour the Scandinavian countries.

Mrs. George E. Dickson left last Friday on the American Trader with her son William, her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Faley, and her granddaughters, Margaret and Katherine Faley. They will visit a large part of the continent, mortoring from France to Austria and from Germany to Spain.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Mecklenburger and their daughters Sylvia and Frances are embarking today on the Berengaria for a sojourn in England, France, and Switzerland. On the same liner are Mr. and Mrs. H. E. A. Doree and their two small children; Mrs. Josephine Olmstead and her daughter Cordelia, and Mrs. Frances Matthews and her daughter.

Miss Geneve Huffman, who won a European trip in a prize contest, will sail today on the United States line's Manhattan.

Magnets Since Magellan's Day—The South Seas

Lost civilizations, the wavering silhouette of palm trees against blue sky and bluer sea, the smiles of brown-skinned races—these are a few of the appeals of the south seas. Those who succumb to the appeals escape the routine paths of tourist trafic and come upon scenes and peoples the like of which are to be found nowhere else in the world.

One of the steamship lines operating out of San Francisco and Los Angeles is offering this summer and fall a series of cruises to Hawaii, Samoa, New Zealand, and Australia. The ports of call have been magnets to the travel-minded ever since the days of Magellan.

Trips Out of Honolulu.

Five days on the Pacific are followed by arrival at Honolulu. After that come trips to Waikiki beach, Mount Tantalus, Manoa valley, Pearl Harbor, Kilauea volcano, Kealakekua bay, and the Kona coast. There is music by the Royal Hawaiian band upon arrival, and there are leis for the tourists upon departure.

Next comes Samoa, with its thousand year old charm scarcely touched by civilization. It looks like a great green garden lately risen from the sea. The visitors see the siva-siva dance, in which the weirdness of the melody lends fire to the rhythm of flashing bodies. They see the early morning market at Pago Pago, the blowholes of Leone bay, the jungles, and the native villages of thatch and palm leaves.

Three Civilizations Mingle.

In Fiji the telephone wires span grass huts, commerce talks of trocha shells and beche-de-mer, and the jungle come down to the edge of cosmopolitan Suva. There one day is so much like another that the thermometers have a range of only 15 degrees. Fiji is the home of paw-paws, mandarines, breadfruit, and mangoes. It is part primordial and part ultra-modern. It is a commingling of three civilizations—those of Polynesia, Piccadilly, and Bombay.

New Zealand has thermal wonders close to tropical forests, and bush life next to bustling cities. It has fastnesses suggesting South America, and countrysides reminiscent of England. It is a place of smoking volcanoes, rare tribal customs, crimson blossomed pohutukawa trees, and almost endless variety.

A Land of Paradox.

Australia was already old when other continents were still in the making, yet it remained undeveloped until comparatively recently. Only a century ago sheep and cattle roamed where skyscrapers and factories now stand. Surf bathing is virtually a national pastime. The odds and ends left behind on the trail of evolution are assembled there—the Koala bear, the striped ant-eater, the pouched kangaroo, the furred bird that nurses its young, the floral clock, and the gaudy bushland parrot. Some of the people live as they lived in the stone age. Others have a culture as high as that of the United States and Europe. It is the land of paradox and contrast.

These cruises, lasting forty-eight days and covering 17,000 miles, are made every four weeks. The minimum cost, covering first class steamer accommodations and escorted shore excursions, is $595 until Aug. 21. Thereafter it is $725.

For the name of the steamship company operating these tours, or any further information concerning them, call The Tribune travel bureau at Superior 0100, local 707 or 734, or write the bureau at 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

DIES IN STREET CAR BARN.

6 RUSSIAN GIRLS JUMP 4½ MILES WITH PARACHUTES

MOSCOW, June 18.—(AP)—Six young women, aged between 20 and 23, basked in public acclaim today for their record mass parachute leap yesterday from an altitude of four and one-half miles without oxygen apparatus.

Each received her parachute and a prize of 1,500 rubles. [A paper ruble is worth about 2½ cents on the Moscow unofficial exchange.] The prize was a sign of the government's recognition of their feat. Newspapers said the girls' courage proved how Bolshevik society has freed woman from the unjust qualification of the "weaker sex."

The women jumped one after another from a big passenger plane and landed 30 miles from Moscow. One of the girls was caught by a strong wind current at an altitude of three miles, was carried laterally for five minutes.

"On the other hand, we are informed that it is very foolish to remain in Boston or New York during the three hottest months for the very same reason; to keep alert you must go to Concord, with a mean of 68 degrees, or better yet, to Seattle, with a 63 degree average, which is just exactly right."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Six Democratic senators predicted in debate today that the New Deal's social security measure would go the way of the NRA, the Frazier-Lemke act, and the railway pension act. The bill also was assailed by southern Democrats as a socialistic measure designed to reduce the states to a system of vassalage.

Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee and manager of the bill, had hoped for a final vote today, but an amendment submitted by Senator Bennett C. Clark [Dem., Mo.] exempting private pension systems from the federal scheme precipitated a prolonged and violent debate.

The senate failed to reach a vote on the Clark amendment, but obtained a unanimous consent agreement whereby the vote will be taken at 1 o'clock tomorrow. After voting on the amendment, debate will be limited to 15 minutes on the bill and 10 minutes on other amendments, so that a final vote should be reached before adjournment.

Defend Private Pensions.

Senator Clark and Senator Walter F. George [Dem., Ga.] denounced the plan to strike down all private pension systems in the country, many of which afford greater benefits than the federal system contemplates, but they made no impression on such New Dealers as Senator Harrison, Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson, Senator Robert La Follette of Wisconsin, and Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York.

Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.], another fervent New Dealer, asked Senator Clark whether his amendment wouldn't run the risk of unconstitutionality on the ground that it discriminated against companies which have no private pension systems.

"I think it is supererogation to bring up the question of constitutionality in connection with this amendment when the bill is shot through with unconstitutional provisions," Clark replied.

Senator George Sees Flaws.

Senator George declared that no responsible lawyer who had "been in a courtroom three times" would "dare to say this bill is not subject to serious constitutional questions."

"Those who oppose this amendment," he declared, "want to put the federal government in the pension business. They want to centralize and socialize the government. It is the overwhelming desire to concentrate all power in Washington and reduce the states to a system of vassalage, wherein they must come to Washington in the rôle of humble supplicants."

Senator George contended that the pay roll taxes levied by the bill for old age annuities and unemployment insurance did not constitute a valid exercise of the taxing power because it was not taxation for a public purpose.

"Taxes for Private Purpose."

"It imposes taxes for a private purpose, to enforce the setting up of a federal pension system for a particular class of individuals," Senator George said.

"It imposes taxes for the same purpose as the railway retirement act, which the Supreme court struck down. In the child labor tax case, the court held that the act didn't raise revenue and was not intended to raise revenue. This act is not intended to raise revenue, for the taxes are to be returned to those particular individuals for whom they were paid."

Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] said the Supreme court held in United States vs. Knight that the right of the sovereign states to protect the life, health, and property of their citizens was "an exclusive right."

"It is said here," Senator King declared, "that we can pass bills when there is a question as to their constitutionality because the Supreme court will resolve the doubts. Thomas Jefferson said senators and representatives should not support legislation when there was any doubt of its constitutionality. We have taken an oath here to support the constitution."

Others Make Attacks.

Other senators joining in the debate on the Clark amendment and questioning the constitutionality of the whole bill were Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, and Huey P. Long, the Louisiana "Kingfish," who reminded his Democratic colleagues that he warned them about the NRA.

"The senator from Maryland thinks it might be possible, with the amendment he is supporting, to get at least a 5 to 4 decision on the bill, like we had in the railway pension case," Long said. "But he is mistaken about that. You wouldn't get a 6 to 3 decision. This will be another NRA. Not a single justice will uphold this bill and I will bet everything I have on that."

Favor Private Systems.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] told Senator Clark that he had been advised by employés of the packing companies of Chicago that they desired to retain their private pension systems because they were more favorable than those proposed by the government. Senator Clark replied that there were a great many private systems throughout the country "vastly more favorable than this plan."

The maximum amount that may be received under the government plan is $85 per month, even though an employé has worked 45 years and paid 3 per cent of his wages, with his employer paying the same amount, all that time.

ROOSEVELT ORDERS NRA TO MAKE STUDY OF CODE COLLAPSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Asserting there is need for counteracting "propaganda" with "reliable information," President Roosevelt today instructed the NRA to gather its own data on the results flowing from the collapse of the codes.

In a letter to James L. O'Neill, NRA administrator, President Roosevelt instructed him to appoint a five man board to direct this survey of post-NRA conditions. The President said the board should include representatives of management, labor, the department of commerce, and the department of labor, and be headed by an impartial chairman.

Mr. Roosevelt said that through such a board the work "may be coordinated with the informational services of the departments of commerce and labor and with similar services maintained by organization of employers or employés.

Such information, the President said, should be collected under such supervision that reports "can be checked, compiled, and put in form . . . with assurance that they are accurate and as comprehensive as possible. It should be emphasized that the purpose of this work is the gathering and publication of reliable information and to counteract any propaganda from private sources which may be designed to promote special interest."

DUBS ROOSEVELT 'BAN ON POLITICS' AS 'APPLESAUCE'

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—Republican State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton today branded the statement of President Roosevelt, made to forty-eight state directors of the relief program, that "politics must be kept out of relief administration" as "another portion of Washington applesauce."

"The administration becomes more and more entertaining in its tongue-in-cheek proclamations," declared Mr. Eaton in a statement issued from the Republican state committee headquarters, 54 West 40th street. "Apparently," he went on, "Mr. Roosevelt forgets all about his edict, passed along to the Honorable Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, which was aimed at ousting Commissioner Robert Moses from his post as head of the Triborough bridge authority.

"Again, the statement overlooks the use of relief moneys in New Mexico when the administration attempted to defeat the late Senator Bronson Cutting, and the relief funds used in Michigan in an effort to defeat Senator Vandenberg. The use of relief funds for political purposes has been a byword with the present administration ever since its inauguration."

ROBBED RETURNING FROM BANK.

PRODDED HOUSE GROUP REPORTS TVA COMPROMISE

New Bill Intended to Appease Critics.

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Prodded to action by frantic administration demands for legislation expanding the Tennessee Valley program, a special house military affairs subcommittee reported today a compromise bill intended to appease critics of the original measure.

For weeks the TVA expansion bill had been kept in the committee, tabled by a 13 to 12 vote in which conservative Democrats joined Republicans to stop what they regarded as a useless and wasteful extension of power to the "power yardstick" authority.

Hits Trouble After Audit.

The measure had passed the senate. It ran into trouble in the house committee when Representative Andrew J. May [Dem., Ky.] obtained an audit of TVA expenditures from the controler general which revealed squandering of funds by employés on the Tennessee project.

But last week President Roosevelt told Speaker Joseph W. Byrnes with considerable irritation, according to reports, that the TVA bill must pass at this session. Pressure was put upon the rebellious Democrats on the committee without result. The leaders then yielded and appointed the special subcommittee to consider a compromise.

The new draft would keep TVA's bond issuing capacity at the present 50 millions instead of the 100 millions approved by the senate. Chairman John J. McSwain [Dem., S. C.] said he was confident that the proposal would be approved by the full committee tomorrow.

Other Phases of Compromise.

1. Places the TVA under the strict auditing of Controler General McCarl after Jan. 1, 1936.

2. Provides that the authority cannot acquire private utility properties without first attempting to agree on a "satisfactory price." After such an attempt, condemnation proceedings could be instituted.

3. Specifies that after July 1, 1938, the agency shall not sell any surplus power or chemicals below cost of production.

4. Requires the TVA to make frequent reports on all phases of its operations to congress and also to the federal commission and state utility agencies.

5. Permits the TVA hereafter to pass on all plans for dams and appurtenant works for flood control and navigation on the Tennessee river and its tributaries.

2 KIDNAPERS' PITS FOUND IN WEST IN WEYERHAEUSER CASE

Tacoma, Wash., June 18.—(AP)—Discovery of underground pits, indicating the George Weyerhaeuser kidnaping had been planned long before it was carried out, became known today as department of justice agents prepared to lay secret evidence before a federal grand jury tomorrow.

Government agents will seek to obtain indictments against Mr. and Mrs. Harmon M. Waley, in custody on kidnaping charges, and William Mahan, fugitive ex-convict sought in the case.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the justice department's bureau of investigation, announced at Washington that Mahan, sought as the "brains" of the $200,000 abduction, had planned a kidnaping a year ago and built an underground pit near Spirit Lake, Idaho, with chains to fasten his intended victim.

Hoover said the pit had been found by citizens in June, 1934, and that a second pit was discovered near Tacoma.

George Weyerhaeuser, 9 year old lumber family heir, was held in the second pit immediately after his abduction last May 24, Hoover said.

Government agents refused to reveal the location of the second pit, and the whereabouts of a leanto, apparently near Issaquah, Wash., at which the kidnaped boy was released June 1 upon payment of the ransom.

CLERK TESTIFIES TO AIDING BARRY EMBEZZLING PLOT

Otto Van Derck, 23 years old, former clerk in the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, 111 West Jackson boulevard, took the witness stand yesterday and told how he aided Dave [Long Count] Barry, boxing referee, and Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul attorney, embezzle $55,000 of the bank funds.

Barry and Karatz are on trial for the second time on embezzlement charges before a jury in Judge Michael Feinberg's criminal court. A previous trial was halted when Barry's attorney, W. W. Smith, became ill.

Joseph Balata, ex-convict and alleged leader of a plot to loot the bank and the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield, pleaded guilty before the first trial and is serving a sentence of one to ten years in Joliet penitentiary. He has been returned to Chicago and may be used as a state witness. Van Derck is to be tried separately on an embezzlement charge.

PLAN GRASS ROOT MOVEMENT DOWN TO THE PRECINCTS

Organization to Defend Constitution Is Aim.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Plans were under way yesterday to establish the Republican Grass Roots movement on a permanent basis, and to start organizing by congressional districts and counties down into the precinct units under the "Save the Constitution" banner.

At Cedar Rapids, Ia., Harrison Spangler, Iowa national committeeman and head of the conference group, has been in long distance consultation with members from the ten prairie states. The permanent committee provided for by the recent Grass Roots conference and Lincoln pilgrimage in Springfield has not been completely formed, but an announcement of the general plan to be followed is expected from Mr. Spangler some time this week.

At the Springfield roundup, it was proposed to keep the prairie fires burning with Grass Root roundups of small units in the ten corn-hog-wheat states. The congressional district may be taken as a natural unit for conferences. According to one suggested plan, the organizing process is then to ramify into the counties, with an organization by precincts as the ultimate aim.

Retain Same Policies.

Grass Rooters held yesterday that in these gatherings the general policy of the Springfield roundup will be followed in keeping the meetings free of presidential booms and from control by old political factionalism and office hunters and of giving a good share in the proceedings to the young Republicans, the women, and the veterans.

According to leaders in the region, the Grass Roots meeting of states east of Indiana outside New England may be held in Cleveland or Columbus, O., early in September. The Grass Rooters of the ten midwest prairie states have nothing to do with the arrangements for roundups in other states, but reports at Springfield last week were that the Lincoln pilgrimage and conference has had a powerful influence on other western states.

The eight mountain states are talking of a conference at Salt Lake City possibly some time in July. The coast states are considering a meeting in San Francisco, Portland, or Seattle. One report is that all the western roundups may be held before the easterners hold their meeting.

The permanent Grass Root committee is to be composed of five members from each of the ten prairie states. Among those spoken of as possible members for Illinois are Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, former national commander of the American Legion; Jacob D. Allen, secretary of the Springfield conference; Mrs. Henry Davis of Springfield, and Justus Johnson, Republican state chairman.

Mr. Johnson, who originated the idea of the Grass Roots conference and had much to do with giving it shape, spoke yesterday before the Women's Republican club of Aurora.

"We have now the responsibility of building American ideals back into the national life," he said. "Americans gathered at the Grass Roots convention in Springfield, serious in their purpose to rededicate themselves to the restoration of American ideals."

Sign Pledges in Chicago.

Resolutions reaffirming the declaration of principles of the Springfield Grass Roots conference were adopted last night by the Republican organizations of the 15th, 28th, 42d, and 21st wards, at their regular ward club meetings. In the 21st ward George F. Barrett, committeeman, reported that pledge cards are being circulated.

"By the end of the week," he said, "we expect to have 100 cards signed up in every precinct, pledging voters to vote for confirmation of the principles of the Grass Roots convention. The citizenship is responding to the call to save the constitution."

Deneen Watson, representing the Young Republican organization on the south side, addressed a group in the Forty-second ward Republican headquarters at 753 North Clark street last night. The meeting was under the sponsorship of Charles Peace, ward committeeman.

"The issues young Americans must face," said Mr. Watson, "are individualism against regimentation, free institutions under our constitution, or a new form of government under bureaucrats, and a type of dictatorship."

Mr. Hayes, who was chairman of the Grass Roots resolutions committee in Springfield, will speak at noon today at the Republican Round Table luncheon in Henrici's restaurant. He is expected to discuss the declarations of grievances and the creed adopted by the Springfield conference.

INDIANA G. A. R. BODY FOR CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT IN U. S.

Marion, Ind., June 18.—[Special.]—A resolution pledging the support of the G. A. R. "in maintaining and perpetuating the ideals of constitutional government in the United States" was approved here today by the resolutions committee of the 56th annual encampment of the Indiana G. A. R.

The committee also approved a resolution scoring the efforts of National Commander Alfred G. Stacey of Syracuse, N. Y., to have congress enact legislation placing Confederate veterans on pension rolls.

It was believed that less than 100 Indiana civil war veterans will be able to take part in the parade to be held tomorrow afternoon. The encampment will close Thursday morning with the election of officers and the selection of a 1936 meeting place.

It appeared tonight that efforts to reelect Edward J. McClellan, Muncie, as department commander, had failed. Dr. John H. Stone, Kokomo, has the best chances of being elected to the office, it was said. Friends of Dr. Stone said he withdrew from the race last year in favor of John McKinley with the understanding he would be named this year. Commander McKinley died after serving less than six months and was succeeded by McClellan, senior vice commander.

George E. Holloway, Candy Manufacturer, Is Divorced

George E. Holloway, 330 Oxford road, Kenilworth, vice president of the M. J. Holloway Candy company, was granted a divorce yesterday by Superior Judge Desort from Mrs. Ethel E. Holloway of Milwaukee. Holloway charged desertion. The couple were married June 17, 1916, and separated in March of last year. Attorney B. J. Moser, representing Holloway, told the court a property settlement had been reached by the couple.

Arrest Ordered; Divorced by Fraud, Wife Charges

A writ of attachment for the arrest of Harry J. Lundgren, former office employé of the Chicago University Press, was issued by Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday after Lundgren failed to appear in answer to charges that he had obtained a divorce by fraud. Through her attorney, Norman Becker, Mrs. Edna Lundgren, 7827 South Shore drive, asked that Lundgren's decree, granted April 30, be set aside on the ground that she had not been served with papers in the suit. Lundgren's attorney, John Dorgan, said his client had been discharged from his job because of the publicity in connection with his former wife's petition.

FOUR BILLION DOLLARS IN THE CAMPAIGN.

Mr. Roosevelt, telling his forty-eight state relief directors what he wants them to do, said: "Politics so far as we are concerned is out. If anybody asks you to discriminate because of politics you can tell them that the President of the United States gave direct orders that there is not to be any such discriminating."

The White House has a very good way of putting over what it wants to say. The administration view very seldom fails of just about the sort of publicity desired. When the President wishes to emphasize a disinterested purpose the scene and the scribes await his use of them.

In discussing the spending of 4 billion dollars of public funds in the year preceding a presidential election Mr. Roosevelt could have said nothing else than what he did and might not have been expected to pass over the question without comment. It is also to be said that in a large sense, regardless of intent, public money cannot be spent in such amounts in the months preceding a national convention and election without political effect. There is no place it can go without conferring special favors. The time and place conspire to make this unescapable and there is nothing in the history or the instinct of political government to make it plausible that any politicians would want to escape it.

In the Democratic party old dealers and New Dealers alike wish to continue what they are now doing and to retain what they now possess. The pledges of the Democratic administration and of the Democratic party can be taken only so seriously as may be justified by the evidence of pledges given in the past and of performances in accordance with them. For confirmation of what is promised now people must look to such documents as the Democratic national platform of '32 and in the light of repudiation appraise the value of whatever may be pledged for the coming campaign.

Mr. Farley is the chief administrator of the political purposes of the administration and the party. What he intends to do in the campaign now opening may be judged by what he did in the campaign for the election of congressmen last year. No one could have been more candid in telling the various constituencies that the benefits in money they were receiving from Washington came from a Democratic administration which asked them to elect Democratic congressmen and thus get more of the benefits. Mr. Farley went as far as was necessary to put the emergency relief distribution of public funds upon a cash basis, the exchange in the barter being votes.

Mr. Farley is officially the bad boy of the administration and the party. He is a cabinet officer and he is chairman of the Democratic national committee. When somebody is to talk politics for the administration, he does. When a reply was made to the Grass Roots convention of Republicans, Mr. Farley made the reply. He conducts the campaigns, he sets their pace, and he makes their tone. He does it as a Tammany man and as distributor of federal patronage.

What Mr. Roosevelt says about the use of the 4 billion dollar fund will be judged in the light of Mr. Farley's performances and his own disregard of his preelection pledges.

THE ASSEMBLY AND THE MERIT SYSTEM.

The favorable action taken thus far on the bills to bring all the sanitary district and Cook county employés within the protection of the merit system is one of the most encouraging signs of responsible, public spirited legislation on government observable in the country. The sanitary district bill has been passed by both houses and now only awaits the governor's signature. House bill 885, which will cover county employés now not under civil service protection, has been passed by the house and is now before the senate committee on civil service, of which Senator Keane is the chairman and known to be favorable. We are confident most of the committee are of the same mind and the great majority of the senate also. In short, unless there is external, undisclosed obstruction this measure will soon be law, an added credit to the record of this assembly.

Mayor Kelly's attitude has been sympathetic, and the support of President Smith to the county bill, like that of President Woodhull for the sanitary district bill, has been a commendable recognition of the duty owed faithful and competent public servants as well as of their duty to the taxpayers and people. A safe majority of the members of the legislature also have shown their appreciation of the need for these progressive measures, and we doubt that any influence from sources of spoils politics would be successful in cheating the employés and people of Cook of the benefits of the house bill.

THE PRETENDED COAL STRIKE.

There will be no coal strike. It was never intended that there should be a coal strike. The strike call was a gesture arranged between the mine owners, the union leaders, and White House press agents to give President Roosevelt an opportunity to seem to obtain a postponement of the strike until congress would pass the Guffey bill to increase the price of coal.

The plan will work according to schedule until the higher priced coal is offered for sale. Then only such people as are either without the means or the intelligence to avoid the increased cost will suffer. Most coal users will avoid the increased cost either by change of fuels, improved machinery, or better insulation. In consequence, the demand for coal will fall off and the conspirators will be the chief losers. It will be poetic justice taken on those who would use deception and political power to impose upon their fellow citizens.

DIVIDED ALLEGIANCES.

Americans of German descent were conspicuously absent from a recent convention in Koenigsberg of the Association of Germans Abroad. Germans from twenty other countries attended, however, and pledged their loyalty to Hitler's third reich.

That kind of divided loyalty is intolerable in the modern world. In the 15th and 16th centuries, before the theory and practice of nationalism had reached their present development, it was possible for men to observe a kind of divided allegiance. In the days of Edward IV. there were large semi-autonomous foreign colonies in many of the larger English cities. At the same time the Merchant Adventurers of England had set up a similar organization in the Netherlands to sell English woolens. Their informal organization was greatly strengthened by Henry VII., who gave them the right to order their own affairs abroad as well as at home. Later, under Elizabeth, many companies of English traders were organized with similar extraterritorial rights in the countries in which they did business. The East India company, the Levant company, and the Muscovy company are typical.

Today, except in backward countries where it can be imposed by superior force, that kind of divided allegiance and loyalty is outlawed. The modern state will not tolerate it. Before the law a man is either a German or an American. He cannot be a little of each. Every one living in France must obey French law and is subject to trial in French courts. A man may change his allegiance, but he may not half change it.

This was recognized by the Americans of German descent who refused to attend the Koenigsberg conference. It was recognized also by Americans of Polish descent who declined recently to participate in a similar pledge of loyalty to Poland. The action of both groups was highly commendable.

Because America is a nation composed of immigrants from many lands, divided allegiances here would be particularly troublesome. They would tend to stultify our government in its foreign relations and at the same time would encourage foreign governments to meddle in our domestic concerns for their own advantage.

THUMBING THE DIPLOMATIC NOSE.

The British government is displeased with Mussolini's plan to seize Abyssinian territory. The British look with equal or greater alarm upon Japanese aggression in China. Our state department wishes it could do something to preserve the open door in China, but both the Italians and the Japanese are going about their business of expansion without regard to outside sentiment. The desires of Britain and America are given scant attention.

The reason for this indifference to English and American opinion is almost too obvious to point out. Italy and Japan know that what MacDonald did to the British treasury Roosevelt has done to ours. The financial power of both the English speaking nations has been undermined. Accordingly, Italy and Japan know that they can go ahead.

EVIDENCE THAT COUNTS.

[Des Moines Tribune.]

There is no need to speak only in general terms or from a theoretical viewpoint about the success of the city manager form of government.

As the Tribune has pointed out at numerous times recently, there are plenty of facts and figures to indicate that the demonstrated tendency under that system is toward efficient, economical government.

This is not to insist, let it be repeated, that every manager city is perfect, nor that every other system of municipal government is necessarily terrible. It simply hints at the relative probabilities.

One of the outstanding characteristics of city managership is that it usually handles its finances as any astute business institution does, restricting its expenditures to actual cash income rather than "estimated" or hoped-for income.

As a result, most such cities end their fiscal years within their actual revenues, and with small cash balances instead of deficits.

There are, for example, 11 manager cities within Des Moines' population group. In 1932, 1933 and 1934 [in each of which Des Moines wound up with a deficit] every one of these manager cities closed at least one year with a cash balance. Four of them —Oklahoma City, Grand Rapids, Fort Worth, and Wichita—ended all three years with an unused balance.

In 1934, which Des Moines closed with unpaid warrants amounting to $162,000 outstanding, eight of the 11 manager cities ended with balances and one has not reported. Even in 1932, the low year in tax collections all over the nation, five of them saved a part of their revenue.

And in this whole three year period none of these other cities show better tax collections than Des Moines—some of them show distinctly slower collections. So delinquencies cannot be blamed.

One can hardly contend that such figures as these have no meaning.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MANY INGENIOUS EXPLANATIONS have been given of the origin of the name Algonquin, the little city near Chicago which is now celebrating its one hundredth anniversary. But every one seems to have missed the true origin of the name. It was related to me in an unpublished contribution to the Line several years ago. It seems that the Chevalier Joliet on one of his expeditions across the wide prairies of northern Illinois in the expectation of discovering the Pacific ocean about a mile and a half this side of the thriving metropolis of Aurora camped one night on a lovely knoll looking down on the beautiful Fox river. With him, acting as a guide, was a French coureur de bois, Quinn O'Toole. They sat long before the camp fire drinking from a large bottle of whisky which belonged to M. Joliet. Finally the chevalier took such a very long drink that his companion became quite worried and, nudging him, said, "I say, chev, hand me the bottle; it's my turn now." Joliet kept tilting the bottle until it was perfectly horizontal and then putting it slowly down he said, "Shorry, but ish all gone, Quin." Two or three pioneers near the camp site overheard the remark and when the question of naming the new village came up they immediately said that the distinguished Chevalier Joliet had given the town its name—Algonquin. And Algonquin the town has been ever since. (Subscribed and sworn to before me as being the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Signed, I. B. Lacvit, Justice of the Peace.)

BOTANICAL.

From what slight seed has this white sunlight sprung
That flowers surely now around a stone?
What strange and fitful-stirring bulbs have known
These roots of wind? Upon what sepal clung
The petal sky? What ripening boll was hung
To break and spill the world? Whose hand has sown
The pointed rain, and by whose breath were blown
To being star-buds quiet aeons young?

The calm drawn sea that flaunts a sudden bloom,
Might have gone harrowless and lain untilled;
For tufted song there might have been small room
In the sleek, frugal throat of any bird,
Had God not spoken His warm, fertile Word.

I'VE JUST ABOUT given up believing that the Fourth of July will be a warm, sunshiny day this year. It will probably snow. But I still have hope of a little pleasant weather around the middle of August. Say between 12 o'clock and 1 o'clock noon Aug. 15. That may be a little too optimistic, so I'll cut it to 12 o'clock noon and five minutes after 12 on either Aug. 15, 16, or 17. But I wouldn't bet on it if I were you.

THE WAR ON INSECTS.

We are not now engaged in armed conflict with other nations of the world. We are, however, waging a relentless warfare against disease producing bacteria. Hundreds of millions of dollars are expended each year in the prevention and cure of disease.

Mankind has another foe—insect life—which attacks crops, forests, garden vegetables, clothing—in fact, most of the things that make up the material world. Furthermore, insects directly affect human life. Few of us realise the magnitude of the battle against this subtle, ever working foe. It is only within the bureau of entomology of the department of agriculture that the true facts are known. They will tell us that as the population of the country has increased so have myriads of insect enemies arisen. Based upon 1929 figures, the property loss from insects in the United States is approximately two billion dollars per year.

The spread of a single insect may be illustrated by the case of the gypsy-moth which escaped from captivity in 1868. Since that time its descendants have spread rapidly through the New England states into adjoining territory. When conditions are favorable the young caterpillars destroy forests, fruit and shade trees, and other types of vegetation.

There are a number of flies that are particularly destructive. We have perhaps said enough about the common house fly as a filth carrier, but there are other flies—deer flies, which spread the disease known as tularemia; horseflies, which can spread anthrax; and the stable fly, which can become such a disturbing element to cattle.

Every schoolboy knows that malaria, yellow fever, and dengue are spread by means of mosquitoes. Then there are fleas, lice, and bedbugs. The flea is an out and out degenerate. He cannot make his own living, hence he attacks man; and the rat flea may carry the infection of bubonic plague. No self-respecting household harbors bedbugs, yet they do persist. Lice also are parasitic and will live in the hair of those who are unclean in their habits. Under proper conditions lice serve as the spreading agent in typhus fever.

Even though certain insects do not convey disease their bites may be poisonous, for example, honeybees, wasps, and hornets. Serious illnesses and a few fatal cases have been reported following their stings.

Several years ago a beetle known as the kissing bug or black corsair was relatively abundant in the United States and gave rise to many lurid tales of its ravages. It is a large black bug with reddish marks on the back and the legs, and its bite, which resembles that of a wasp, may make the patient quite ill. The black widow spider, which is widely distributed in this country, secretes a poison as potent as many of our venomous snakes.

There are a few simple remedies that may be mentioned. For mosquito bites Prof. L. O. Howard found that the greatest relief was afforded by rubbing the swollen areas with a moistened bit of soap. The action of most of the anti-mosquito solutions is usually of short duration. Spirits of camphor, oil of pennyroyal, oil of peppermint, citronella oil, and alcohol are all helpful while they last, but they evaporate quickly. Experience has shown that a mixture which consists of one ounce each of oil of citronella and spirits of camphor with one-half ounce of oil of cedar will prove reasonably effective.

In the treatment of bee stings the sting itself should be carefully removed from the wound with the blade of a knife. Grasping the barb with the fingers will squeeze the poison sac and force more toxin into the wound. Diluted ammonia will prove of value in neutralising the poison of stinging insects.

If the symptoms caused by insect bites are general, for example, nausea and vomiting, intense pain, prostration, severe swelling, or rapid heart action, no one should attempt to treat the condition by home remedies. Call a physician without delay.

HARELIP.

S. E. writes: A harelip is said to be merely a slip in the development of the embryo. Why do some say then that this accident in development is a hereditable defect and follows Mendel's law? What causes this accident—if it is an accident—to become hereditary? Or is it not hereditary?

REPLY.

There is a number of physical characteristics that may appear in succeeding generations. One of these is cleft palate, commonly known as harelip. Another is the existence of additional fingers or toes. The cause of harelip is some fault in the development of the embryo, with a failure of closure of the two sides of some of the structures of the mouth. The cleft may involve the palate, the upper jaw and lip, or only one of these. The same tendency may show in the embryos of future generations.

There are many explanations as to the origin of cleft palate that have no scientific foundation. One is that the condition is due to fright or to some sudden shock that occurs to the mother before the birth of the child.

Some years ago the occurrence of cleft palate among animals was traced to deficient feeding of the mother. As soon as proper feeding of the pregnant animal was instituted cleft palates disappeared in later litters.

In a family where several generations were studied a male with cleft palate married a normal female. Of their children [six males and three females] only one [a male] showed the deformity. One of the females married a normal male and their offspring, consisting of five females and four males, showed the deformity in two males and two females.

VARICOSE VEINS.

D. A. R. writes: Please comment on varicose dermatitis. Is there permanent cure or relief and what is the treatment indicated? The trouble is from the knees down. The varicose veins are deepseated and not noticeable except to a physician.

REPLY.

You are dealing with two different conditions. Varicose vains is one, and dermatitis [inflammation of the skin] is another. The two may occur in the same individual at the same time, although they are not necessarily related.

The treatment of dermatitis depends on the cause. It may be due to the medication used in the treatment of varicose ulcers, to a food allergy, or to sensitivity to some toxin.

Tests should be made for skin sensitivity and the variety of food, type of clothing, or other substance that causes the irritation should be removed from the vicinity of the patient—certainly from contact with the skin.

There are as many prescriptions for dermatitis as there are leaves in the Oxford dictionary.

MORTGAGE PROPERTY.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—More than twenty years ago A, a farmer, purchased a strip of land from B, also a farmer, which he wanted for a lane, for which he paid B $75 [this is on record]. 1. Now B has turned his farm over to the man who had the mortgage on it, and A's farm has also been foreclosed by a mortgage holder. The piece of land purchased by A from B for $75, and which has always been used for a lane, was not mentioned in the mortgage given by A to the mortgagee. 2. Now the man who is the owner of B's farm claims that he owns that lane. He doesn't want to use it as formerly, but wishes to add it to his farm. If the mortgagee, who is the owner of A's farm now, cannot claim that lane for the reason [3] that it was not mentioned in his mortgage, does not the lane still belong to A? What right has the man on B's farm to claim it if it was purchased by A from B and the deed for same is on record? 4. I understand if a lane has been part of a farm for more than twenty years it belongs to that farm.

L. A.

1. You do not make clear whether the mortgage or the deed from B to A is the older.

2. Since the owner of B's farm would hardly make this claim unless the mortgage was older, we will assume that this is the case. If the general description of the farm in the mortgage was broad enough to cover the strip subsequently sold, then the foreclosure would defeat that sale.

3. We see no necessity that the strip should be separately mentioned.

4. As long as the interest payments were kept up on the mortgage, the statute of limitations would not run against the rights of the mortgage holder.

PROPERTY SETTLEMENT.

Chicago, June 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A woman obtains a divorce and asks for the home, which is owned in joint tenancy with the husband. 1. Is it necessary for the husband to sign a quitclaim deed? 2. If the court awarded the home to the wife, can she obtain clear title if he refuses to sign? A says the wife cannot get the home without the husband's signature—a quitclaim. B says if the court awards it to her, his signature isn't necessary. Who is right? M. L.

1. It is necessary in order to give her a good title. He is under no legal obligation to sign on the bare facts stated, if that is what you mean to ask.

2. If a court decree has awarded it to her, that is another way of saying that she now has the title. The attorney who handled the proceedings is in a better position to advise you than we are.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

It is generally supposed that it is impossible for any living being to live forever on this earth, and never die. This happens, however. Single celled animals, such as the amoeba, paramecium, etc., never die—unless by accidental death. When one of these tiny animals becomes full grown it splits into two animals. When these two new ones become grown they do the same thing. Thus they never die, but continue to live forever, dividing and redividing. Sponges and certain marine worms, likewise, never die.

ANOTHER FLORIST'S STORY.

Chicago, June 15.—The recent attack on an Oak Park florist by union sluggers is very similar to dealings we had last summer with members of the same union, the Florist Drivers' union. My father and I manage a floral shop; we have no employés and use a pleasure car for delivery purposes. Last July the Florist Drivers' union decided that we must contribute into the funds of the union. We asked the representatives of the organization precisely what benefits we could possibly derive from the union. Their answer was that it didn't do any good to ask questions and it would be a great deal healthier for us if we would just pay the $3 per month and forget it. They also demanded an initiation fee.

We refused to join the union and our store was picketed. When the picket line of attack failed they resorted to stopping delivery of ice, floral stock, and other incoming stock. The next move was to warn customers against entering our place of business. We then went to the North avenue police station, a police squad came and talked to the hoodlums a bit, and then went merrily on its way.

The nex morning we went to the state's attorney's office and discovered that the union officials had just left the office. We had no line of defense left and we were forced to contribute to these rodents.

We are still paying, but as yet we have not found one solitary benefit to be derived from the union. A very impressive sight, to be seen every month, is the driving up of five or six of the boys in a fine car to collect the dues. The one hope of the honest florist is that Oak Park justice will prevail in this case, because we know that under the Chicago form of law these parasites grow and prosper. FLORIST.

COLD WATER.

Chicago, June 14.—The park board has decided that it is worth $60,000 to deprive several thousand people of the facilities for keeping clean this summer. All of the shower rooms in the city's public parks are to be without hot water for the three summer months to achieve this saving.

As a resident of South Chicago I realize how many people will suffer from this action. A great number of the community's workers live in buildings which were erected long before bath tubs or showers became universal. These people have necessarily come to rely on the free park showers.

The gentlemen of the board may find it very refreshing to take an icy shower after warming a comfortable chair for a few hours. But after working in a sooty, grimy steel mill a man needs a warm bath fully as much during the hot months as in the winter. If economy is necessary it is surely possible to economize on some service which is not so essential for the health and comfort of so many people. FLORENCE WEISSMAN.

LINCOLN ON THE DRED SCOTT DECISION.

Chicago, June 15.—In the Voice of the People today a reader asked if Abraham Lincoln ever advocated abolishing the Supreme court on account of the Dred Scott decision.

In a speech delivered at Chicago July 10, 1858, Abraham Lincoln said:

"I have expressed heretofore, and I now repeat, my opposition to the Dred Scott decision . . . If I wanted to take Dred Scott from his master, I would be interfering with property, and that terrible difficulty that Judge Douglas speaks of, interfering with property, would arise. But I am doing no such thing as that; all that I am doing is refusing to obey it as a political rule . . . Judge Douglas said last night that before the decision he might advance his opinion, and it might be contrary to the decision when it was made; but after it was made he would abide by it until it was reversed. Just so! We let this property abide by the decision, but we will try to reverse that decision. We will try to put it where Judge Douglas would not object, for he says he will obey it until it is reversed. Somebody has to reverse that decision, since it is made; and we mean to reverse it, and we mean to do it peaceably."

Lincoln never advocated abolishing the Supreme court on account of the Dred Scott decision, but he did advocate abolishing the decision.

THE SCHOOLS CRITICIZED.

Menasha, Wis., June 14.—A lot of discussion of the educational system is going the rounds, mostly socialistic or economic. There are large numbers of adults asking for education from the public school systems. These adults lawfully must have attended schools until they were 16 years of age.

If the educational system of the country were manned by a practical personnel, would these adults require the further benefits of the public educational system after the ten years spent from age 6 to age 16 in contact with our present educators? Would these adults not be able to get a better and more practical education from their own efforts after reaching age 16 if they had had practical instructors when attending public schools?

Several young men who have studied economics in some of our large universities in recent years and whom it has been my pleasure to know have been unable to give me a definition of the word "entrepreneur." Some of these college men have confessed that they had never heard the word in their economics course.

Perhaps our educators should be required to prove their practicability by earning a living some other way for several years before being given the responsibilities of molding the lives of our children. R. A. STOUGH.

HOUSE APPROVES CHANGES IN AAA; LABOR BILL NEXT

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—The house legislative express continued today to roar at breakneck speed towards the much desired goal of a July 15 adjournment. With dispatch, marred only by the obvious bewilderment of many members concerning the exact meaning of the legislation they were considering, the house approved, 168 to 52 the amendments to the agricultural adjustment act restricting the powers of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in some instances, broadening them in others.

Then, under a special rule limiting debate to three hours, the third such invoked in the last few days, the lower body prepared to pass tomorrow the Wagner-Connery labor disputes bill, a measure much approved by labor and viewed with alarm by employers.

Six Hours of Speeches.

The Democratic leaders had been more generous in permitting discussion of the AAA amendments, allowing six hours of speechmaking. But, with few exceptions, alterations to the amendments proposed on the floor of the house were voted down by the majority under the instructions of Chairman Martin Jones [Dem., Tex.] of the agricultural committee.

A futile effort was made by Representative Charles L. Gifford [Rep., Mass.] to strike out the section providing that no court proceedings may be brought for the refund of processing taxes collected during the last two years of the life of the AAA.

Wallace's Power Shifted.

There was much discussion among the members concerning whether Secretary Wallace's powers are more limited under the amendments than previously. Several expressed the belief that he had been deprived of much power inasmuch as the amendments were drafted without licensing provisions in view of the Supreme court decision in the Schechter-NRA case. Others argued that the amendments merely substitute the word "order" for license. The sponsors of the measure asserted that the amendments contain provisions "intended to safeguard the exercise and prevent abuses in the application of the regulatory power conferred upon the secretary."

Orders may be issued by the secretary for marketing agreements applicable to those engaged in the handling of milk, fruits [except apples and fruits for canning], nuts, tobacco, vegetables [except vegetables for canning] and naval stores. Under the previous act, there was no restriction upon the number or type of agricultural commodities concerning which licenses could be issued.

Are Dry Beans Vegetables?

At least one hour of the debate today engaged the congressmen in a solemn discussion concerning whether dry beans were vegetables and thus came under the secretary's ordering power. Representative John A. Martin [Dem., Colo.] was doubtful and wanted the words "edible dry beans" inserted in the act.

Mr. Martin distrusted the assurances of Chairman Jones that beans were vegetables but finally was quieted by Representative Josh Lee, Oklahoma Democrat.

"The gentleman's beans," asserted Representative Lee with quiet confidence, "are in no danger." The crisis was averted.

Among the amendments approved today was one providing that no marketing agreement or order may prohibit the marketing of dairy products in a market other than where produced.

Another amendment, proffered by Representative Harry Sauthoff [Prog., Wis.], gives Secretary Wallace power to examine copies of income tax reports as well as the books and records of all parties to any market agreement.

An entirely new section is that providing the President with power to limit the importation of any products if he deems the importation is interfering with the AAA program. Such an order by the President shall be rendered only after an investigation by the United States tarif commission. In addition to setting limits upon the quantities of such imported products, the President may impose "such compensating taxes as he finds necessary to prescribe in order that the entry of such article or articles will not materially interfere" with the AAA program.

General Provisions.

In general, according to the official report, the bill proposes to supplement the AAA program as follows:

1. By providing for the so-called "ever-normal granary plan."

2. By providing for payments in connection with the exportation of basic agricultural commodities and products and for removal of quantities thereof from the normal channels of trade and providing for payments on that part of the production thereof which is for domestic consumption.

3. By providing for effective marketing agreements and orders to accomplish the objective of parity prices for certain nobasic agricultural commodities, milk and tobacco.

4. Redefining parity prices so as to include increases in tax and interest payments in the computations for determining parity.

5. By providing a fund which is in addition to and apart from AAA funds, which is to be used for exportation of major agricultural commodities and products.

6. Authorizing restrictions on imports from abroad which threaten the AAA program.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Soy Bean Planting

THE soy bean field of 35 acres that soon will be planted on the Yorkville experimental farm may be called the "rainbow field" by fall because of the different colors that will be in this acreage. When the crop is ready for hay there will be yellow, black, brown, and other colored pods on the soy beans, because Clarence Thurow, manager of the Yorkville farm, is planting a mixture of soy bean varieties this year. Each develops a different colored pod.

Last summer the farm experimented with many different kinds of soy beans to see which produced the best hay mixture. As a result of these practical tests, five varieties were selected for this year's hay mixture. The Wilson, Virginia, Dunfield, Illini, and Ebony soy beans are in the mixture. The boys on the farm expect this combination to turn out a dandy crop of hay. At any rate the varieties will be colorful.

The boys were busy yesterday getting the ground ready for the planting of the beans. Although the ground was wet because of the rain, it was possible to plow and to get it prepared for the planting.

There are no whippoorwill cowpeas planted on the Yorkville farm this season, but the tests conducted with that variety and the black eyed cowpeas showing how they flourished in spite of the drouth has resulted in a farm neighbor's putting in quite a planting of this legume.

Clarence was telling me yesterday that John Cook, who lives near Fox station, is one of several farmers in the area who saw the value of the cowpeas [which were in test plots] and now is growing them. He has planted the whippoorwill variety. THE TRIBUNE tests on legumes now being conducted at the Wheaton experimental farm include whippoorwill and other varieties of cowpeas.

Another shipment of steers for the Chicago market is on the schedule for this week. As usual the animals will be brought to market very early in the morning.

The bobolinks that are nesting around the grounds where THE TRIBUNE horse pulling contest was held last Saturday have calmed down considerably since the event was held. I hiked around the contest grounds yesterday to see how things looked, and I found the nervous bobolinks no longer flying around in a bewildered state as they did Saturday when the crowd was cheering the teams of horses.

Saturday afternoon I noticed the birds flying right over the crowd, complaining bitterly about all the noise and the people that had invaded the peaceful quiet of their meadow nesting sites. There are many of these beautiful birds on the Wheaton farm, taking advantage of the ideal nesting conditions in the fields.

Wild pheasant chicks can be seen on the farm these days if you are lucky enough to run into a hen pheasant and her family while you are going over the farm. "Gamekeeper" saw a brood of these young ringnecks a few days ago. With the abundant rain and some hot days the chicks should not lack for insect food because the weather is ideal for big hatches of insects of all kinds.

Jury Finds Woman Who Slew House Guest Insane

Los Angeles, Cal., June 18.—(AP)—A jury of nine women and three men tonight returned a verdict adjudging Mrs. Gladys Carter to have been insane last April 13 when she shot and killed her house guest, Frances Walker, 20, following the discovery of intimacies between the girl and Archie Carter, her husband. Mrs. Carter thus was automatically freed of the manslaughter charge, of which she was convicted last week by the same jury. Miss Walker was an expectant mother at the time of the shooting.

BANDITS MAKE IT EMBARRASSING ON A COOL NIGHT

Those persons who thought they saw a ghost stalking through the rain at Lehman court and Diversey parkway shortly before 1 a. m. today were mistaken. The apparition was Irwin Linehan, 6426 North Troy street, and he looked that way because two robbers—one a woman—had taken his coat, pants, and shirt and forced him to brave the elements in his underwear only.

Linehan was sitting in an automobile with Miss Anita Bauer, 2679 Orchard street, in front of her home when the bandits appeared. They thrust Miss Bauer out of the car and took Linehan for a short ride before stripping him of his clothing and $1.50 and abandoning him in Lehman court. They left his automobile with him, but took the keys, and he had to get out in the rain to find help.

JUDGE SCANLAN TO TAKE BRIDE, FRIENDS ASSERT

Reports that Judge Kickham Scanlan of the Appellate court and Miss Irene Anderson, 6041 Kenmore avenue, are to be married were verified last night by friends of the couple.

Judge Scanlan refused to confirm the report but declared he would make a statement "when everything is ready." Miss Anderson, reached at her home, admitted they were engaged, but said any announcement must come from the judge. She said she had known Judge Scanlan for 25 years.

Judge Scanlan has been a member of the Cook county Circuit court 26 years. Since 1926 he has served in the Appellate court. He is 71 years old. His first wife died last year.

Robber Shot by Tavern Owner Dies of Wounds

Tony Majcher, 20 years old, 5219 South Winchester avenue, died in the Bridewell hospital early today of wounds suffered yesterday when he was fired on by George Harrington, owner of a saloon at 6852 South Ashland avenue. Majcher had held up Harrington.

FLOODS MENACE SIX STATES; BIG AREAS INUNDATED

300 Families Homeless in Arkansas Section.

Little Rock, Ark., June 18.—[Special.]—The most serious flood danger in half a dozen midwestern states menaced by raging waters today centered in Arkansas and Oklahoma as swollen streams mounted to new highs and devastated thousands of fertile acres.

More than 300 families were homeless in the bottom lands in the Fort Smith, Ark., area, which was entirely inundated. Various sections of Arkansas, totaling approximately one-third of the state, were cut off from the outside world after reporting they had been struck by a destructive storm.

Three Levies Broken.

The rampaging Arkansas river smashed levees at three points in the northwest section of the state. The released water swept over 30,000 more acres of lowlands, raising the estimated total of inundated land in Arkansas and Oklahoma to more than 10,000 acres.

The main river swirled at the door of Greater Little Rock while backwater began creeping into the streets of the lower part of the city. Many residents fled from their homes and sought higher ground. The Pulaski county penal farm outside the city was ordered abandoned and its 85 prisoners brought to the county prison here.

Gov. J. Marion Futrell sent a request to the Seventh corps area commander at Omaha for army tents to house a prospective refugee city to be established on high ground near here.

Three persons have died in the Oklahoma-Arkansas high waters, and 14 are known to be dead in Texas floods. However, waters were receding in the Lone Star state, the Colorado river being the only Texas stream still causing trouble.

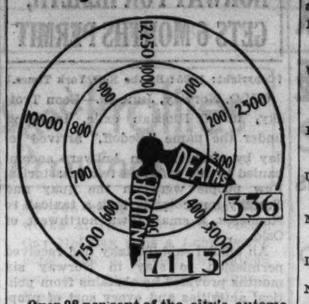
Winds Add to Havoc.

Tornadic storms have added to the great damage caused in the flooded areas. At least six persons were injured by a twister that struck at Muskogee, Okla., late yesterday.

The unofficial death toll of the flood disaster of two weeks ago was raised to 104 with the death today of Mrs. Laura Spalding, 53, at McCook, Neb. Sixty-six bodies have been recovered.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

AUTO INJURES BOY ON EVE OF TRIP TO GREECE

Tuder Alexander, 6 years old, of Jamestown, N. D., was critically injured last evening at Diversey parkway and Ashland avenue by an automobile driven by Frank Hamann, 60 years old, of Palatine.

The boy and his parents, on their way to visit the father's old home in Greece, arrived in Chicago a few days ago and were visiting relatives at 3234 Southport avenue. During the afternoon Tuder wandered away and the police had been asked to search for him shortly before the report of his injury. He was taken to the Children's Memorial hospital.

The Cook county motor toll for 1935 stood at 417 early today. At 4 p. m. 336 persons had been killed in trafic accidents within the Chicago city limits and 7,113 had been injured. The victims:

John Daniluk, 52 years old, 2726 North Mead avenue. Died at the county hospital of injuries incurred Feb. 23, when he was struck by an automobile at Fullerton and Mead avenues.

George Thomas, 39 years old, colored, 5008 South Dearborn street, a relief worker. Killed in fall from truck in Racine avenue between 74th and 75th streets.

Minnie Tols, 62 years old, 3007 Edgewood avenue. Died in the Swedish Covenant hospital early today a few hours after she had been run down at Oakley and Lawrence avenues by a taxicab driven by Louis Steiner, 4741 Monticello avenue. Summerdale police are holding Steiner for the inquest today. This was the second trafic death at this corner within 24 hours.

BATTLES ROBBERS, SLUGGED.

Frank Ganz, 43 years old, 1610 West 17th street, was slugged by two men who fled without loot when he gave battle yesterday at State street and Archer avenue.

FAVORITISM TO ASTOR LAID AT ROOSEVELT DOOR

When the government owned but privately operated Leviathan became a big money loser, Astor, Kermit Roosevelt, and their associates, as operators, obtained from the Roosevelt administration a revised contract in which in lieu of operating the Leviathan they would build a new liner, with a government loan, the operators putting up the amount of money it would have cost them to keep the Leviathan in service. The President pronounced this a good Yankee trade for the government, which had sunk 22 million dollars in the big ship.

The contract was entered into, notwithstanding a protest by Controler General McCarl that it was prejudicial to the interests of the government.

McCarl Refuses Audit.

To rationalize the concession, Roper had asked McCarl to audit the expenses of operating the Leviathan. Declining to make the audit, McCarl replied that the proposed contract would not be binding on the United States because:

"1. The act of 1928 does not require loans to be made to the full extent of 75 per cent of the construction or reconditioning costs of vessels, but stipulates such percentage as a limitation.

"2. Officers of the United States are not authorized to modify the terms of a contract which has been entered into if modification will be prejudicial to the interests of the United States. A contract otherwise proper and authorized is subject always to the elemental requirement that it be based upon a good and sufficient consideration, a quid pro quo."

Of No Benefit to U. S.

Following documentary citation the letter says:

"There would be a total lack of consideration moving to the United States in the proposed agreement, and while this office is willing to coöperate with your department in the matter, an audit of the operations of the S. S. Leviathan would serve no useful purpose.

"The determination of the speculative gains and losses for the next two years would have no bearing on the damages suffered by the United States for failure to operate the S. S. Leviathan in accordance with the agreement of Oct. 30, 1931, for which failure liquidation damages are specifically provided.

"Answering the question specifically it would appear that the further losses to the United States for nonoperation of the Leviathan in the future would be the total amount of liquidated damages stipulated in the contracts for failure to perform, together with the cost of safeguarding and maintaining the vessel in operating condition."

Agree to 13 Trips a Year.

Under a contract with the shipping board, the United States Lines, when they were controled by the Chapman interests in 1929, agreed to make 13 voyages annually for 10 years with the Leviathan.

Penalties for default on this provision consisted of $150,000 for each voyage missed, and if the Leviathan made less than three voyages annually the Chapmans agreed to pay the government, in addition, liquidated damages ranging from 2½ million dollars for the first year down to a fourth million for the tenth year.

The Chapman interests were unable to meet their obligations under this contract and in 1931 the United States Lines were taken over by the Dollar-Dawson-International Mercantile Marine interests under a modified contract.

Write Off 5¼ Million Debt.

This contract wrote off $5,278,500 of the United States Lines' indebtedness, waived all interest for three years, and required only seven voyages annually for five years by the Leviathan, with the penalty for default set at $10,000 for each voyage missed, with additional damages for failing to make as many as five voyages a year of sums ranging from a million dollars the first year to $600,000 in the fifth year.

The controler's letter pointed out incidentally that the Chapman interests in two years paid the government interest and principal amounting to 5 million 600 thousand dollars, while the Dollar-Dawson-International Mercantile interests from Oct. 31, 1931, to Dec. 31, 1934, had paid "less than $300,000."

Cuts Off Two Millions More.

The contract signed last March, which is now under fire, relieved the operating company of paying liquidated damages totaling $2,220,000 for failure to operate the Leviathan.

The letter pointed out that the new operators of the United States Lines were relieved of interest for three years, "which in effect amounted to a subsidy of over $600,000 per annum for the continued operation of the vessel for a period of five years," and added that "now it is proposed to subsidize the nonoperation of the vessel for the remaining years by waiving liquidated damages that would accrue for failure to operate the vessel during the years of 1935-'36 to the extent of $1,300,000 in addition to $920,000 accrued for the years 1933-'34."

Offers to Help Clean Up.

Mitchell made public a letter he wrote to the President today offering his services as a $1 a year man as special assistant to the attorney general "to clean up the graft and waste" in the commerce department.

Referring to the statement of the President in dismissing Mitchell that it was desired "to make more effective the transportation service" of the government Mitchell said:

"Perhaps you did not know, Mr. President, that you already have a 'transportation expert' in the department of commerce. Some time ago Secretary Roper hired such an expert at a salary of $8,000 per year. It is true that so far he has functioned only as a publicity man, even though he is being paid to advise on transportation problems. It is a further fact that this 'transportation expert' has an assistant at a salary of $5,000 a year who also devotes himself to publicity."

MRS. DORIS CASE.

Mrs. Doris Case, president of the Case-Moody Pie corporation since last September, yesterday signed a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, motion picture producers, for a part in a film to be called "Star Dust Road," she revealed. She will resign as president of the company and return to the stage career she followed for fourteen years, she said.

Mrs. Case is the widow of Elmer Grant Case, 69 year old former president of the corporation who shot and killed himself in the basement of the pie plant on July 12, 1934.

She plans to leave here Friday for Hollywood. Accompanying her will be Margretta Curry, her daughter by a previous marriage, who was a child actor on the screen at the time her mother played in the old silent films. The daughter played with Mary Pickford, Bebe Daniels, Clara Kimball Young, and other stars, Mrs. Case said. She described her own part in the coming picture as "prominent."

RESCUE OF FRANC PULLS N. Y. BANK CASH FROM FIRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau pulled a 65 million dollar chestnut out of the fire for a big New York bank, reputedly dominated by J. P. Morgan, when they risked millions of government money to keep France on the gold standard. This was disclosed today.

The bank was the Guaranty Trust company of New York, which was the only institution backing France during the recent crisis in her fight to stay on gold. By saving France, the President and Secretary Morgenthau also saved millions of dollars which the Guaranty Trust had advanced to help that country.

Interested in Silver, Too.

This appearance of the Guaranty Trust as the joint beneficiary of President Roosevelt's intervention in the French monetary crisis is not the first time the bank has been closely identified with the administration.

Guaranty is reported to be deeply interested in silver, the price of which President Roosevelt is pushing upward. Guaranty's directorate interlocks with those of four big silver companies, the Sunshine Mining, Anaconda Copper Mining, American Smelting and Refining, and Hudson Bay companies.

In addition, James P. O'Neill, one of Guaranty's vice presidents, has just been appointed acting administrator of the skeletonized NRA by President Roosevelt. Two members of the Guaranty Trust company board are Morgan partners.

Guaranty Trust evidently advanced 65 million dollars to France during the gold crisis and was in grave danger of having this huge loan impaired until President Roosevelt and Secretary Morgenthau stepped in with approximately 100 million dollars of treasury funds and saved the day.

For some reason the Guaranty Trust was the only bank which during the crisis was willing to buy gold from France, giving France foreign exchange in return for it. France in turn was using foreign exchange to support the franc and keep it on the gold standard.

Technically Guaranty appears to have been lending France money with the gold as security and leaving the gold in France. Other banks were unwilling to do this lest France go off the gold standard and embargo gold exports before the precious metal could be shipped. Guaranty alone was taking this risk and was continuing its operations in France.

Limit Nearly Reached.

On May 30, however, Guaranty was advised by its lawyers that it could not have more than 25 per cent of its capital and surplus in French gold loans, and this limit had been nearly reached. Since Guaranty's combined capital and surplus is 260 millions, it must have advanced 65 millions to France by May 30.

If it were forced to drop its fight for France the franc would be left without support, the gold standard would be abandoned, and Guaranty's 65 millions would be in jeopardy. At this juncture President Roosevelt and Secretary Morgenthau, answering a plea from the president of the Bank of France over the trans-Atlantic telephone, stepped in and saved the situation by buying French gold and thus making available the foreign exchange to continue support of the franc.

Walter Urich Appointed U. S. Probation Officer

Walter K. Urich, 33 years old, of Park Ridge was appointed chief probation officer of the United States District court yesterday by judges of the court. Mr. Urich succeeds William A. TROTZKY ARRIVES IN NORWAY FOR HEALTH; GETS 6 MONTHS PERMIT

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

OSLO, Norway, June 18.—Leon Trotzky, noted Russian exile, traveling under the name "Sedoff," arrived today by steamer from Antwerp accompanied by his wife and two secretaries. Few people were on the quay and Trotzky immediately took a taxicab to Hoenefos, a small town northwest of Oslo.

An official said Trotzky had received permission to stay in Norway six months provided he abstains from political activities and every sort of propaganda. He promised to live in a place acceptable to the government. The new labor government admitted Trotzky, whose application some years ago to stay in Norway had been refused. No special police protection will be given Trotzky during his stay in Norway, the ministry of justice wishing to demonstrate Norway's absolute freedom for refugees.

Trotzky is suffering from advanced tuberculosis, according to evening papers here, which declare a change of climate is a question of life or death for him because his last sojourn in France was bad for his health. Trotzky, who has grown somewhat stouter, has altered his appearance by shaving off his beard, wearing thick horn rimmed glasses instead of the usual pince nez.

VANDERLIP CALLS TAXATION VILLAIN IN REALTY DRAMA

Brands Government as New Threat.

New York, June 18.—(AP)—Frank A. Vanderlip, the financier, declared in an address tonight that recent developments in the real estate scene have added a new "villain" to the traditional American melodrama of saving the old homestead from the mortgage holder.

"He is less tangible than the old time mortgage holder," he said. "He is 'the government.'"

The new "villain," Vanderlip said, was threatening the "very foundation of American life" through excessively heavy real estate tax charges, and forcing home owners—even those with homes free and clear—to let their homes go because of too heavy real estate taxes.

Must Be Geared With Income.

The principal problem in "just taxes" at the present time, he asserted, was to gear taxes with national income.

"Under our present unstable monetary system which allows our whole national income to gyrate like a thermometer," he said, "our system of taxation becomes unworkable.

"It is perfectly silly for the government to effect stable revenues from taxation when every one knows the whole national income has declined disastrously from 80 billions in 1929 to around one half [44 billions] that sum last year.

"That is our main problem; until that problem is solved I do not see how we can expect to pay taxes on 1929 vaulations out of a 1935 income. Yet, sadly enough, that is what is being expected of most property holders today."

"It seems evident," he said, "that further increases in our present forms of taxation will amount to such a great confiscation of wealth that they will defeat their own purposes. That is what is hapening in real estate taxation, and the same is true of income taxation."

FREED IN GAMBLING RAID.

Michael Weiner, 36 years old, 3600 West Roosevelt road, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden because police who arrested him in a raid on an alleged gambling house at 210 West Lake street did not have a search warrant.

CHICAGOLAND USED CAR WEEK

SURE!—AND A LOT OF OTHER FOLKS ARE GOING TO start driving better cars tonight! Here's the reason why:

This is Chicagoland Used Car Week. The motor car dealers of Chicago and suburbs, in co-operation with the Tribune, are staging a used car sale the like of which has never been conducted before at any time.

Late model used cars—32s, 33s, 34s—even 35s—many of them reconditioned and bearing liberal guarantees, are being offered on all sides of the city at prices and on terms which have created the biggest auto-buying rush in years.

The best values in this carnival of used car values are described in the Tribune want ad section. If you have been hankering for a better automobile, a later model with the newest improvements which make for greater driving pleasure and comfort, take advantage of the unusual offerings in today's want ad section.

Go through today's want ads and make up a check list of those which appeal most to you. Then visit the showrooms and inspect the cars.

Douglas Home to Be Opened for Bates Sale

Lake Forest Landmark Has Been Renovated.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVER since she moved out to Lake Forest in the early spring Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr. has been busy renovating the charming old house which she and Mr. Douglas bought last year, and now that it is almost finished she has been persuaded to open it for an Eli Bates sale next Tuesday.

The board members of the settlement house maintain a shop on East Delaware place in town so as to have a market for the handiwork of the women at the settlement. But the members feel very much pleased that Mrs. Douglas is giving the use of her house for the sale, for they know that every one is anxious to see what has been done to the old landmark at 1 North Stone Gate road. It was in this house, built about forty years ago, that the five daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Day spent their girlhood and young ladyhood so many Chicagoans have happy memories of hours spent in it.

The Eli Bates board, also, is very much pleased with some new boy baby sweaters they have in their stock, for they are finding that they are selling like the proverbial hot cakes. They have the letters H, Y or P knitted into the design of the front, not for the baby's name but for the college from which its proud father was graduated and to which the baby will go eventually, perhaps. Garden and breakfast table and tray accessories are featured this year, too.

A dozen or more luncheons have been planned for the day of the sale with each hostess taking her guests later to Mrs. Douglas'. Among the hostesses will be Mrs. Donald F. McPherson of Winnetka and the following Lake Foresters: Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Wesley M. Dixon, Mrs. Charles C. Haffner, Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, Mrs. Henry N. Rowley, Mrs. Robert Hixon, Mrs. Laurence Robbins, Mrs. John H. Hamline Jr., Mrs. Samuel J. Walker, Mrs. J. Andrews King, and Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr.

Niece Will Attend Miss Theodora Shaw.

Thirteen year old Alice Judson, daughter of the Clay Judsons, will be her aunt's only attendant when Miss Frances Theodora Shaw is married to John Lord King on Thursday, June 27, in the library of the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw of 2450 Lake View avenue.

Only the two families and near relatives will witness the ceremony which will be performed by the Rev. Dudley Stark of St. Chrysostom's church. A reception will follow the wedding. Joseph H. King will serve his son as best man.

Next Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams and their son, Cyrus III., will give a luncheon at the Onwentsia club for Miss Shaw and next Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. King will entertain at dinner for their son and his bride-to-be and the out-of-town relatives who will be here for the wedding. Rogers and Mitchell D. Follansbee Jr. are planning a dinner for some night next week.

The Clay Judsons already have moved out to Ragdale, Mrs. Shaw's Lake Forest residence, for the summer, but Miss Shaw's other sister, Mrs. John T. McCutcheon, and her family will not open their Lake Forest house until after the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon and their two older boys, John Jr. and Shaw, are motoring home now from the east where they attended the graduation exercises at the Milton academy. John Jr. was a member of the graduating class and Mr. McCutcheon was the commencement speaker. John Jr. is planning to enter Harvard next fall. Barr, the youngest of the family, is with his Grandmother Shaw while his parents are away.

John C. Howards in Lake Forest.

After ten days in Chicago with the Harold A. Howards, the John C. Howards now are in Lake Forest for a fortnight with their old friend, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings. The John Howards moved away from Lake Forest a quarter of a century ago and two years later they returned for a visit but that was their last trip here until this summer so they find many changes on the north shore as well as in town.

Their days are full of merry welcome home parties for their many friends here hope that they again will call Lake Forest, instead of Dinard, France, home, but the Howards' plans are indefinite. Later they will go to Bar Harbor for a visit with the Harold Howards who left for there last Saturday.

Among the many parties that have

A FRIEND back from Detroit tells of the magnificence of the Edsel Ford estate at Grosse Pointe; also of the new photographer engaged by a Detroit newspaper. He came with a reputation for taking beautiful pictures, and one of his first assignments was to take some pictures of the Ford home.

"Just spend the day at Grosse Pointe," said his boss. "Take all the time you want and bring back some good pictures."

The next day the new man laid his prints of the various shots of a handsome building on the picture desk. His employer looked them over, then addressed the photog:

"This is lovely work," he said. "Beautiful work. But tell me, why did you only photograph the garage?"

Philipp, Noted French Pianist, Guest in City

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Isador Philipp of France bears his 73 years blithely, and when he and Mary Garden surround each other with clouds of mutually congratulatory French, one hears the workings of two highly alert minds. They met at a tea in the Cordon club yesterday afternoon.

M. Philipp is as much of a personage of the piano as Miss Garden is of opera. He is editor, pedagogue, and interpretive artist all in one. It is the Chicago Musical college that brought them together, though he will remain here only until tomorrow. He is to be granted the honorary degree of doctor of music at the college commencement exercises at Orchestra hall tonight. Tomorrow he departs to finish his teaching engagements in New York and Boston, and likewise to fill a few other assignments of playing for the radio.

Miss Garden will start in on Monday upon the summer course in opera and the art of song that she will conduct at the college. Incidentally, she and a group of judges will select a scholarship pupil for the course on Saturday afternoon.

Pianists frequently see on a piece of sheet music the words, "Edited by I. Philipp." Some of them also make the acquaintance of some peculiarly difficult and tricky exercises. They are all from the pen of this man. But when you hear him play, or, perhaps more convincingly, one of his pupils like Guiomar Novaes, you realize that there is something in these same crabbed exercises which produces a certainty, a flexibility, and suavity of touch which should be the possession of all pianists.

He enjoys playing on the radio, because, he says, it gives him the chance to give wide hearing to music that we in America ought to know better. He requested me earnestly to tune in on New York June 29. He is then going to play the piano part in a Saint-Saëns sonata for piano and cello, and he says that it is an amazing work, never before heard in this country.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If there's one thing we treasure above rubies for its virtues as a skin beautifier it's the homely complexion brush. We have an idea that if every youngster was handed one when she was an adolescent and at that stage where skins begin to go either for better or for worse there'd be a general move toward better complexions. We might add that this goes for boys as well.

The grown woman shouldn't pass them up either. The exercise a complexion brush gives a skin is the best thing in the world for it. And as a cleansing medium it can't be beat. We especially recommend the use of one when the skin is sluggish and muddy looking. That skin needs good cleansing and considerable pepping up.

The newest one on the market is a winner. It's an egg-shiped affair with long and resilent white bristles—but the resiliency doesn't mean that those bristles aren't firm enough to open pores and remove excess oil, bacteria, blackheads, makeup, and the general débris collected in the course of a day. The bristle ends are rounded so there is no stabbing at the skin.

Because it's egg-shaped, tapered at one end, there's good basis for claiming that this brush is shaped to the face. You can easily get at the troublesome nose corners where blackheads and large pores are the big problem.

The use of this little brush—which has a celluloid guard in which to pop it when you've finished using it—kills three complexion birds with one swoop. It cleanses, it massages, and it stimulates. And there, ladies, you have three impressive aids to skin beauty.

It isn't expensive, even though it is of such high quality. It's rather attractive, too, since the white bristles are set in a bright plastic back that may be tomato red, lemon yellow, a cool green, or white, as your heart or the color scheme of your bathroom dictates. You'll find it in a couple of shops about town.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"I am kidnaped and out of the picture for about five reels—and they tell me the film is rawthah good along about the—ah!"

Ben Bernie speaking.

THAT'S what he told me about "Stolen Harmony" when he was here awhile back. And he filled me with alarm. For I am an admirer of the old maestro and couldn't imagine a cinema featuring him as being much to yammer about IF he were out of it for "about five reels." WELL—

Far be it from this polite department to call anybody a—stretcher of the truth! BUT—

Fact remains that Mr. Bernie is QUITE in evidence—and most ingratiatingly so!—through practically the entire film. So that is THAT! True—he and his lads are kidnaped, but you go right along with them to the den of the thieves and are considerably entertained—in more ways than one—while you're there.

"Stolen Harmony" has the distinction of possessing a unique idea. If an entire band, on a cross-country tour, was ever before stolen and carried awa'—down to its last piccolo player—why, I've never seen the movie that showed the feat.

George Raft as Ray Angelo, ex-convict, is a member of the band. Mr. Bernie knows his record, but he has taken the kid in because he thinks Ray's clever and is convinced he means to go straight. And Mr. Bernie is 100 per cent right. Ray does mean to and does GO—straight. But fell circumstance is not playing the cards his way.

For a time it looks as if he's reverted not only to BEING a villain, but to being one of deepest dye. Even the girl [his dancing partner], who loves him, believes the worst—there being, really, nothing else left FOR her to believe. But Ray comes through in spectacular fashion, winning fame by the way, and the finale is just too sweet for anything.

The picture has scenes that are exciting and many that are ludicrous. It gives music and maestro lovers ear and eyefuls of band and bandmaster in action. AND—if you don't get a kick out of that showy, shiny, streamlined cross-country bus, with a face like a fish, tearing through the night—why, I DID . . . !

Mr. Bernie is utterly at ease before the camera, and his peculiarly winning personality and gentle humor never showed up to greater advantage.

George Raft scores both as a hoofer and the gangster he pretends to be—in the cause of right. Grace Bradley is charming, and Goodee Montgomery and Charlie Arndt are amusing as the comics.

The music's nice and direction's aces. A bit COULD have been chopped out along in the middle without hurting the piece—but leaving the bit IN doesn't hurt the opus any, either.

My congratulations to Mr. Bernie. As a band leader he's a swell actor, and as an actor he's still a swell actor. Yowsah!

THE CAST.

Cecilia Parker.
Carlyle Moore Jr.
Noel Warwick.
Helen MacKellar.

ACTING: Cecilia Parker as the girl, Carlyle Moore Jr. as the boy, Crane Wilbur as a biology teacher who Understands and proves a Friend in Need, and the colored maid of all work are excellent. Helen MacKellar and Mahlon Hamilton do a heap of overplaying in the mother and father rôles.

SETS, SCENERY, PHOTOGRAPHY, SOUND: All right.

DIRECTION: Not bad.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Not much. The piece is one of those outmoded things. Giggles were the response it drew—and a host of "O, my LANDS!" —from the adolescents who composed most of Saturday afternoon's audience.

See you tomorrow.

Cotton Clothes Are Brightest Things in Town

Tailored Smartness Features Street Ensembles.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Summer cotton street ensembles are the brightest things in town! Much originality, even daring, has been achieved with such simple stuff as seersucker. Seersucker made with all the lavish care that is usually expended on satins and silks.

Other cottons are cut as suavely and fitted with as much care as a broadcloth creation for fall or winter. Cottons that do not sag in any seam or in the back or at the sides; in short, the smartest costumes you see are the clever new get-togethers of cool, crisp, and comfortable tub materials.

In one shop we found a gay plaid seersucker suit in raspberry red, deep blue, and a bit of white. The one piece dress was as smart and slim as though it were of satin. The long sleeved jacket was full at the backline, and expertly tailored. Topped with a white brimmed big hat and accented with snowy white costume accessories, it is the ideal outfit for hot weather.

If you like eyelet embroidery you'll like the tobacco brown affairs contrasted with dusty pink collar, cuffs, and a belt, also a couple of dusty pink fabric roses at the high neckline.

Cotton dresses with capes are just as cleverly designed as the cape costumes of silk, and are popular for sultry summer shopping trips. Most of the dresses teamed with these capes have low cut backlines and all of them are practically sleeveless. Cotton crash as bumpy and stunning as linen fashions some grand street dresses that button down the front with high colored big buttons. Others are made in a two piece effect with a hip peplum simulating the jacket, and these, too, use out-size buttons in eye catching colors for trimming.

Fashion photograph 1 . . . a dotted sheer with a huge frilled, cool white bow at the neckline to accent the white dots of this filmy summer street ensemble comes in a slim one piece dress with a matching long sleeved jacket. Front pleats achieve fullness in the skirt. White costume accessories are used for contrast. This outfit is available in a Chicago shop.

Actors Equity Votes to Require Expense Money for Rehersals

New York, June 18.—(AP)—abandoping an understanding as old as the American theater, the Actors Equity association and the Chorus Equity association today voted to require producers to pay rehersal expense money. Reduction in the number of annual productions and the increase of short runs was given as the reason for the move.

Under the terms of the resolution which, it is expected, will become effective before the opening of the next season, producers of dramas will be allowed a probationary period of seven days for which they will not have to pay, while musical show producers will be allowed ten days.

Expense rehersal money of $20 a week will be paid after the probationary periods to all senior Equity members with more than two years' experience, while juniors and chorus members will receive $15.

Uses Microscope, Doubles His Life Insurance.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 18.—[Special.]—Harold Lloyd became interested in the experiment of full length films in color à la "Becky Sharp" with unexpected developments. Lloyd got Jack Davis, his wife's [Mildred Davis] brother, to assist him, and they fitted up a room for color experiment and study. Davis, who is a pre-medic student, brought his microscope along as part of the equipment.

The first thing Lloyd knew he was peeking at germs and bacteria and spores that are ordinarily invisible, and the net outcome is, according to Lloyd's staf, that Harold has doubled his life insurance. Lloyd is 42 years of age.

Dave Gould, who has been dance director with Maurice Chevalier and at United Artists and other studios since leaving the same work on the stage in New York, submits a rating of the best dancers in the movies. Here is the list: Fred Astaire, Bill Robinson, Eleanor Powell, Joan Crawford, Clifton Webb, Harriet Hoctor, Ruby Keeler.

Joan Bennett spent the week-end in Good Samaritan hospital for observation for a stomach disorder and now is under treatment at home, her part of the current Bing Crosby film, "Two for Tonight," being held in abeyance until she gets better.

Part of the pre-nuptial agreement between Lyda Roberti, comedienne of stage and screen, and Bud Ernst, whom she is to marry at Yuma next week, is that Bud quits flying. He used to be a pilot and now is a Hollywood radio station announcer and manager. He had planned to fly Lyda and their wedding attendants, Lili Damita and John Flynn, to Yuma for the ceremony, and even had a plane being tuned up, but Lyda said, "Bud, sell that plane," and now there is a for sale sign on it.

The current comment about new lineups in the moneyed ranks of movie producers here is that Dave Selznick, at present a producer with M. G. M., will team with his brother, Myron Selznick, an actors' agent, and organize a production unit to join United Artists in the place of the withdrawing Twentieth Century [Zanuck-Schenck] unit.

Walter Wanger, now producing independently for Paramount release ["President Vanishes" and "Private Worlds"], is dickering on a contract to associate himself with Mary Pickford in producing other United Artists stories.

Helen Dell is singing in a Hollywood night club. Helen is the younger sister of Dorothy Dell, the blythe young singer and actress whose death in an auto accident last year nipped one of Hollywood's most promising careers.

The property man in John Weissmuller's and Maureen O'Sullivan's current picture, "Tarzan Returns," at M. G. M., has to wear a diving suit and work under sixteen feet of water in the pool fixed up to seem like a jungle river. Weissmuller is supposed to be swimming under water to escape a forest fire. The prop man has to move the reflectors around at the bottom of the pool so that light can be directed on the swimmer's figure in order that the camera can register properly. Cheetah, the famous monkey of prior Tarzan movie appearances, does his customary nip ups in this one.

Celestial Sphere.

BY NANCY CABOT.

It is a rather amazing experience to view hundreds of quilts and patterns and to note how many people designed so many different patterns and made use of the same little diamond patch. "Celestial Sphere" is a combination pieced and applique block which bears a similarity to at least half a dozen star patterns. "Blazing Star," "Eight Pointed Star," "Shooting Star," "Star of Tennessee," are only a few. There remain dozens of others. Color arrangement of this block is especially beautiful because a sky blue background blends smoothly with the rose, yellow, and white of the star.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Robert Ardrey of Chicago Shares Sergel Drama Prize

Robert Ardrey, Chicago playwright, and Emjo Basshe of New York divided equally the $500 prize in the Charles H. Sergel contest for American dramatists, which is sponsored by the University of Chicago, it was announced yesterday. Ardrey's play, "House on Fire," and Basshe's "Thunderlock" were found equally good by the judges. The prize was established in memory of Charles Hubbard Sergel, Chicago publisher, in the will of his widow.

SYNOPSIS.

Chris Jackson is sent by Bill Benton, new sheriff of Monterey county, to put an end to the Ortega-Alvado feud, which has resulted in numerous murders. Both families believe California to be still Spanish and want Americans kept out. Pietro Sanchez runs the general store at the Big Sur valley. While calling there Chris encounters Guido Ortega, Ramon, his dare-devil son, and Ysabel, his beautiful, sad eyed niece. He falls in love with Ysabel at first sight, and has a quarrel with Ramon and publicly spanks him. Chris outfits himself for a supposed lion hunting expedition. He receives a note sent by messenger from Ysabel Ortega, hinting of a mysterious danger, begging his aid, and asking him to meet her in a fortnight. Chris camps in a canyon on the northern boundary of the Alvado ranch. A shot from an unseen hand gives him warning to leave. He is saved by Rocky, an old Indian hunter, who advises him to leave the country. Next day Chris meets Francesca Alvado, flirtatious Spanish beauty, who warns him her father welcomes no strangers. Chris tells her of his encounter with Ramon Ortega. She invites him to call on her father.

INSTALMENT IX.

THE FEUDAL STRONGHOLD.

Reason quickly stepped in to control emotional foreboding. In the first place, he might make matters much worse for her by turning up before he was expected; and in the second place, he owed it to Bill Benton to stick to his investigation first.

An amused gleam at himself came into Chris' eyes as he realized the order of importance in which he was placing these two future lines of action. Bill Benton would be none too pleased to realize that he came second on the list!

A heavy step in the hall pulled Chris out of his musings, and he rose to his feet as the door was pulled open, and Señor Alvado faced him.

He was a rather short, thickset man, but with a commanding presence that gave the impression that he was taller than he actually was. His nose was sharp and bold, and his black eyes had a spirited keenness. Above his mouth was a short, stubby white moustache.

"My daughter has told me of your encounter with Ramon Ortega." He broke off with a short laugh, that was incongruous with the general sternness of his countenance. "I congratulate you, señor, and the Alvados make you welcome."

"The Alvados have a strange way of showing their welcome!" A wave of anger at the memory of Jerry's suffering eyes and his wrecked camp led Chris to ignore the hand the señor held out. He faced him with a grim look, and came directly to the point. "By your order my camp has been demolished, my horse stolen, and one of my dogs injured."

Raising his arm in an angry gesture of dismissal.

A soft cry of dismay broke in on them before the señor could recover from his surprise to answer the charge so boldly flung at him. A moment later Francesco Alvado stepped out beside her father and laid a pleading hand on his arm, which he was raising in an angry gesture of dismissal.

"Padre mio! It must have been one of the vaqueros who did not understand that you were ready to receive the señor!" She turned her dark eyes on Chris. "You must realize that this happened before we knew that we were to be friends! We will gladly make restitution, and in the future you will not be disturbed."

The dark flush that had died the señor's cheeks gradually faded while Francesca made her appeal, and his eyes narrowed as he studied Chris' defiant attitude.

"My daughter is right," he bowed to Chris. "I apologize, señor, and will do my best to replace what you have lost." He glanced at Bingo. "One of your possessions has evidently found his way back without my help."

Realizing that as a matter of fact the outrage about which he was complaining must have taken place while he was talking with Francesca, and that it had been done in pursuance of the señor's general policy toward strangers, and not to him personally, Chris gravely accepted the apology.

"Your daughter explained to me your feeling about strangers," he ended, "so I suppose I should have been warned; but I found it hard to fit in what she said with my ideas about Spanish hospitality."

The señor gave a short laugh at this thrust. "You are a bold young man, Señor ——" he waited for Chris to supply the name.

"Jackson," Chris filled the pause. "Chris Jackson."

"Señor Jackson," the señor went on, "but I like boldness in my friends." He motioned to the chair from which Chris had risen. "Won't you sit down again? And now that this unfortunate incident is behind us, tell me of your meeting with the Ortegas."

Chris sank back in the chair, with a wary feeling that he must go slow with this "friendship" that was being taken for granted. But there was no resisting the eager and flattering attention that both Francesca and her father turned on him, as they settled down to listen.

"There's not much to tell, beyond the fact that I spanked Ramon Ortega." Chris joined in their laughter, then added quizzically, "apparently that's all the introduction I need here, but I reckon it won't stand me in such good stead farther down the coast."

"You are right!" the señor exclaimed triumphantly, "whatever your intention you have now sided with the Alvados in the feud."

"I'm not taking sides at all," Chris announced. "I'm here on a hunting trip, and I'm not getting involved in any feuds."

"It is not as simple as that, my friend," the señor countered gravely. "Down here he who is not with me is against me. You must make your choice."

"But you are not giving the right impressions, padre," Francesca interposed anxiously as she noticed the determined tightening of Chris' lips, "you're not asking the Señor Jackson to fight for us. That we can do for ourselves! You only want to know that he will not join with the Ortegas."

"No danger of that," Chris answered, then hastened to make his position plain before the señor had a chance to speak. "All I ask is to be let alone. I know nothing about the situation down here, so I could not take sides if I wanted to. If you feel that unless I throw in my lot with you, you must be against me, then I must protect myself as well as I can. And I am not afraid to fight, señor."

Chris looked his host squarely in the eyes as he stated his position, and after a few seconds of drumming on the arm of his chair, his eyes fixed on the distant hills, the señor nodded his acceptance of Chris' decision.

"You are within your rights," he admitted, "and you will not be molested again by any of my people, but you would be far wiser to hunt elsewhere."

"I'm afraid I have a kind of a stubborn streak," Chris smiled. "I've had so much of that kind of advice that I've made up my mind to get one or two mountain lions, anyway, before I clear out."

A flash of pleasure and approval came in Francesca's eyes, but she demurely dropped them as Chris glanced her way.

A sudden commotion in the hall attracted his attention, and the next moment a young Spaniard stepped out, his arm in a sling, and a scowl of ill temper on his handsome face.

"This is my cousin, Roberto Gomez," Francesca made the introduction.

The newcomer nodded and bowed with a tight lipped smile. "Excuse my hand, señor," he indicated his right arm. "I was thrown yesterday and broke my arm."

A sure instinct told Chris that the man was lying, and the certainty flashed over him that this Roberto Gomez was the one who had fired at him, and received Rocky's short reply in reprisal.

"You have not heard the letter of introduction this stranger brings," Señor Alvado smiled with grim amusement. "Call Guido and José; they will want to hear it, too."

Still scowling, but obeying his uncle's order with alacrity, Roberto disappeared, and called up the darkened stairway for his cousins to come down.

A moment later the three of them came on the veranda, eyeing Chris with ill concealed surprise as he chatted with the señor.

"Just once more tell us what happened," the señor begged, after the introductions were accomplished.

With a shrug, Chris complied, and watched with amusement the hostile attitude of the three young men thaw as they laughed with delight at the recital of their enemy's discomforture.

"But you have accomplished a miracle, señor!" Guido, who was the eldest, seized his hand. "What did Ramon do to bring about such a well deserved lesson?"

"Yes, I have been wanting to ask that," Francesca chimed in, "just how was he uncivil?"

"He seemed to think he owned the place," Chris evaded. He had no intention of mentioning Ysabel Ortega in this company, and had been prepared to parry this question if it came up. "So I showed him he didn't."

"Was his cousin Ysabel there?" José spoke for the first time.

Appreciation Is the Secret of Popularity

Girls Must Show That They Enjoy Dates.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Never a day goes by but that some girl writes to inquire why it is that she does not register with boys when she is just as good looking, as smart, as well dressed as girls who seem to make the grade.

Perhaps we might begin the analysis with reference to the basic lure known as sex attraction. But here we "come a cropper" since what is one man's lure might be another's distaste. And in between are all manner of disconcerting facts concerning the sex appeal theme. But there's no question that a girl who knows how to appeal to the opposite sex has the drop on the girl who never made a study of what men like about women.

We think of two sisters known to us, each good looking in the smart, modern manner. One, a blonde, who by all the standards should be the more popular. The other is a brown haired girl who has a couple of chaps hot on her trail. The blonde can't understand it. But we could tell her that, while she is an admirable sort of person, wouldn't do a mean or underhanded thing for anything in the world, her demeanor has a certain formidableness that stands like a Chinese wall between her and the boys. The latter won't be bothered climbing said wall, because there are girls like her brown haired sister who manage to get across, at once, the message to boys that their company is a great deal of fun. Even when an occasional boy does take out the blonde sister she never gives him the impression that she's having the time of her life.

The brown haired one somehow can make the chap, with only a flivver to take her around, feel that he and his car have more fun to offer than Montague Parkavenue has with his low-swung foreign car. Of course, later, Montague gets the same sort of thrill. It's just the simple trick of showing appreciation that keeps the brown haired one's phone calls going. She can meet a chap halfway without, of course, going farther than that. She wouldn't go over half so well if she didn't show that she was pleased with the attentions bestowed on her.

BY MARY MEADE.

Nothing like a good spice cake, come summer, for hurriedly planned picnics and emergency refreshments. Better than any other cake, it keeps moist and fresh—a quality which endears it to far seeing hostesses who "like to have something around the house."

A long time ago we printed a recipe for such a moist, spicy cake made with tomato soup. However, we'd like to give another now, either to remind you of the idea, if you've tried it before, or to spur you on if your innate conservatism has shied away from the thoughts of soup in cake.

Never would the unknowing feaster guess that this cake actually contained tomato soup—and in such a generous quantity! It does have a rich warmth of color and an unusual richness of flavor, but there really isn't any actual taste or aroma of tomatoes about it. But that's enough of talking about it. Here's the way it's made—try it and convince yourself if you're in need of being convinced:

Tomato Spice Cake.

1 cup sugar
1 egg
¾ cup canned tomato soup
¼ cup water
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup nutmeats
½ cup raisins

Cream the butter, add the sugar, and cream to a fluffy consistency. Add the well beaten egg and continue beating. Then add the tomato soup and water mixture alternately in thirds with the sifted dry ingredients. Beat well, stir in the nut meats and raisins (part of the flour may be reserved for flouring these if that's your usual custom), and bake at 375 degrees F. The recipe makes two rather small layers or one generous dripping panful of cake. Frost with a caramel frosting or an uncooked icing made with powdered brown sugar.

Another picnic favorite is a coffee spice cake, in triumphant layers with a coffee frosting betwixt and on top. Here's a recipe for that 'un, if you're lacking a sure-fire hit:

Coffee Spice Cake.

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
3 tablespoons molasses
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¾ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon nutmeg
7 tablespoons cold coffee

Cream the butter thoroughly, add the sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add the well beaten whole eggs and molasses and beat well. Then add the sifted dry ingredients in small amounts, alternately with the coffee, beating until smooth after each addition. Bake in two greased nine inch layer pans in a moderate oven for 25 minutes. Frost with:

Coffee Butter Frosting.

3 tablespoons butter, creamed
Few grains salt
2 cups sifted confectioner's sugar
2 tablespoons strong coffee

Blend the sugar and salt with the creamed butter and add the coffee slowly until of spreading consistency. Cover tops of the two layers and decorate with pecan halves.

Delicate Coat of Tan Holds Precedence for This Season

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

This is the time of year when the big question of tanning arises. Last year some were arguing against the bronzed skin, but little attention was paid to the suggestion that the fair flower of femininity would lead the vogue. She didn't and she never does in competition with those gorgeously tanned lovelies with bronzed skin against a white sports or evening frock. The fair one just looks a bit too washed up to stand the competition well. Her flower-like delicacy of coloring apparently serves her best in spring, fall, and winter.

BUT not all tans are a success. Some of them can be downright ugly. This year what's being asked is that you tan, but tan beautifully. A creamy café au lait shade is the desired one. The deep mahogany somehow is more becoming on the male than on one of our sex, except for a rare exception.

Of course, you can do just as you please, even to preserving your camellia-white skin if you choose. If it's you, it will be just as much your good asset in the summer time as in the winter. But you'll need your protective preparation, and you'll need to use it regularly. And you'll need your immense beach hat. And this year, if you please, you may indulge in that feminine frivolity, a gay and giddy parasol.

But the real object of this tanning topic today is to remind you that this year, as never before, you can regulate your tan. Turn it on to a certain degree of tanness and then turn of the darkening process. Look into some of the creams and emulsions that are protective but still will let you tan, and into the sunburn oils that will give you an even tan. I have never known, in the history of cosmetics, such a volume of protective and tanning oils, creams, and emulsions. It seems every cosmetic house is vying with the other to produce a better and better tan.

And you freckle minded girls, here's your chance to escape the deluge if ever you had one. Take to your protective creams as you would [or might] take to Gary Cooper in a Bengal lancer's full dress uniform.

Lake Forest Landmark Has Been Renovated.

Dinner-Dance Saturday for Miss Audrey McGrath.

Miss Anne O'Brien of Highland Park has planned to take a party of young people to the dinner-dance at the Exmoor Country club Saturday night to compliment Miss Audrey McGrath who will be married to Charles F. Cutter on Friday, June 28. Miss O'Brien will be one of Miss McGrath's bridesmaids and so will Mrs. William Pope of Winnetka, who is entertaining the bridal party at dinner in the Empire room of the Palmer house next Tuesday.

Mrs. John M. Kohler, who will be Miss McGrath's matron of honor, will be hostess at a cocktail party Sunday at her home in Schiller street. Mr. and Mrs. Maurice DeKalb McGrath will give the bridal dinner for their daughter the night before the wedding at their residence, 20 Cedar street.

The wedding will take place in St. Chrysostom's church at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon with a reception following at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Miss Betty Cutter, the bridegroom's sister, will be the third bridesmaid, and John McDonough will be best man. Mr. Kohler, Harold Ferris White Jr., Worthington Walters, Benjamin Troxell Jr., John Anderson and William Sills will usher. Miss Cutter, the Walters, and the Troxells already have entertained for Miss McGrath and Mr. Cutter.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is planning to leave a week from Sunday for her usual summer stay at the Biltmore in Santa Barbara. She will return to her apartment at the Ambassador East the middle of September.

The Arthur Meekers, who also spend their summers in Santa Barbara, will leave for there late next week. They will occupy their beautiful home, Constantia, in Montecito.

More Chicagoans Are Going Abroad.

There's never been a greater exodus to foreign highways and byways than this year. The plans of those who are embarking daily on the big liners make the stay-at-homes want to delve into travel folders and bundle themselves off to England or the continent for a vacation.

When the Berengaria moves out of New York harbor today it will have a number of Chicagoans among its passengers. The Sterling Mortons are going over for six weeks leaving their daughter, Suzette, here since she prefers to be on this side of the water this summer. Others on board will be Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Castle who are taking their twin daughters, Josephine and Caroline across, and Mrs. George W. Dulaney Jr., who is going with Mrs. Leon Liebes of California.

Miss Anna Morgan is going to visit the Mediterranean this summer aboard the Roma. She leaves June 29 and in two months' time she will visit all of the glamorous Mediterranean ports and enjoy many interesting inland excursions.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison L. Gardner Jr. enjoyed their trip over to Europe in the late spring so much that they are repeating the boat ride now on the Majestic. They left New York last Thursday and after a few days in England will return on the same ship.

Young Girls Will Enjoy Trip to France.

Even the most blasé adults look forward with keen anticipation to foreign travel, but when one is in her early teens and is planning her first trip abroad the last few weeks seem endless. So think a trio of young Winnetka misses and two from Geneva who are sailing on the Normandie July 10 to spend the summer in France and England, chaperoned by Mrs. Elsa Bookwalter.

Barbara, the Blair Baggaleys' child; Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walsh, and Zada, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel D. Craft, are the north shore girls, and Jane Rockwood, daughter of the Charles Rockwoods, and her cousin, Peggy, daughter of the Herbert Zimmermanns, are the Geneva ones. Most of their time abroad will be spend in Normandy, but they will have a week in Paris and another one in London before returning on the Ile de France to dock in New York on Aug. 27.

Fourteen year old Marian Allport, daughter of the Hamilton Allports of Glencoe, is crossing with Mrs. Bookwalter, but she will spend the summer with some French friends of her family's in Vineuil in the department of Oise. Only three of the Allports' six children will be at home this summer, for Davies is summering with his maternal grandparents in Lower Waterford, Vt., and Hamilton Jr. will attend a Boy Scout camp in northern Wisconsin. The youngest of the family, Walter Frank, now is three months old.

Cecil Barnes Family to Live on Sailboat.

For several weeks this summer the Spindrift, a small sailing vessel, is to be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Barnes and their family. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes will leave for the east immediately following the Fourth of July and then pick up their boys, Cecil Jr. and Edward, Harvard students, and Benjamin, who has been in school at the Milton academy, before boarding the boat at Gloucester.

Now that school is over for the summer the boys are with Mrs. John de Koven at her home on the seashore. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes plan to have no hired hands aboard the Spindrist because they are interested in the boys becoming real salt water sailors.

Today Miss Peggy Wiley, daughter of the Stanley Wileys, and Miss Barbara Eldridge, whose parents are the Harold Eldriges, are leaving New York by motor to drive home. They have been in the east for more than a fortnight visiting and having a generally good time.

Miss Eldridge was a bridesmaid in the wedding of one of her school friends and Miss Wiley attended her reunion at Sarah Lawrence college. Miss Wiley and her sister, Virginia, are planning to go up to Minneapolis over the Fourth of July for a house party at the home of Mrs. James Ward Bell.

Miss Eloise Requa, daughter of the William B. Requas, will be back at home the end of this week. Miss Requa has been doing graduate work the last year at Bryn Mawr college. Finishing there more than a week ago, she went up to Briarcliffe lodge on the Hudson for a short stay before coming west.

Since Miss Jean Dunbar and her fiancé, Lawrence Eugene Denman, are still students, they will not be married before a year from this summer. Miss Dunbar, who returned last Wednesday to spend her school vacation with her parents, the David O. Dunbars in Wheaton, is entering upon her junior year at Wellesley. Mr. Denman, son of the Burt J. Denmans of Wilmette, has another year at the Harvard school of business administration.

Mrs. John T. Agar and Miss Julia Martin will be hostesses to members of the Chicago Wells College club today at Mrs. Agar's home, 5857 Blackstone avenue. Miss Alice Barler is in charge of a rummage sale the club will hold on Friday at 2146 Lincoln avenue to raise money for a gift to the Wells senior who has collected the most worthwhile library during her years at college.

Woman's Club Program.

Mrs. J. Dick Anderson, dramatic interpreter, will present a program on modern poetry at the summer activities hour of the Chicago Woman's club at 11 o'clock this morning.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

THIS WEEK'S PROBLEM.

Men have always been interested in puzzles and problems. That this is not purely a human attribute, however, is evinced by recent experimentations with anthropoid apes. Given lengths of sticks that fitted together, an intelligent chimpanzee managed to join them in order to reach a banana that had been tied to the roof of its cage. The same simian also piled boxes on top of each other and scrambled up to the top of the pyramid, with a succulent coconut as the object of its endeavor.

Whereas the animal wants a tangible reward for its mental concentration, the perplexing genus homo spends hours on a puzzle merely for the joy of solving it. It takes a logical mind to solve problems quickly, and the same kind of mental probing that is brought to bear on any odd, inexplicable fact, such as scientists, inventors and detectives encounter daily. Robert Fulton wondered about the kettle sitting on the stove. The result was the steam engine.

We bridge and chess experts cannot claim that any such benefit to mankind will result from working out our problems. Game puzzles are merely mental exercises, usually without even the prospect of a prize to reward the struggling would-be solver. But if you are a victim of the same sort of mental quirks as I, you will enjoy these five and eight card problems.

My offer of last week to come to the aid of any enraged reader who has ripped this column into tiny shreds in the belief that the problem cannot be solved still holds good. When you write to this newspaper, please give the South hand in the problem. It will save me a great deal of trouble in checking back.

Keep to Baby's Routine During Train Journey

Regular Schedule Makes Him Happier Traveler.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Now, when we're planning that long train journey with the baby let us consider that part of the baby's life so important to him—his routine.

The younger a baby the more he functions by the clock. In the maternity wards the nurses are often amused because the hunger wails of their tiny human charges have such a regular rhythm.

So in traveling, keep your baby to his schedule as faithfully as possible. The routine of food, rest, exercise, drinks, bath, and sleep will make him a healthier and therefore a happier traveler, and that means a happier mother and a happier journey.

It is well to take him out of his basket frequently so that his position is changed. This is restful. By putting a sheet over the chair or seat he can have a larger place to exercise in.

Bathe the baby's hands and face frequently. This is soothing and cooling and sanitary.

Protect him from drafts, sun, and glare.

If it is financially possible, even at considerable sacrifice, a stateroom for a long journey is a great comfort. The baby can be kept quieter and there is more space and greater convenience in taking care of him.

If your journey is for over night have the berth made up early. Then you will have more room to attend to the baby when it is time to get him ready for the night. A good brisk rub or massage all over his body will rest him and help him to sleep well.

If the baby has been used to simple toys like a big soft ball or washable animal, take those along with you.

Care of the baby's food while traveling will be taken up next week.

If you have missed the preceding articles on traveling with the baby, they may be obtained by writing us and enclosing a self addressed envelope having on it DOUBLE postage.

YOUTHS QUIZZED IN GIRL SLAYING AT PEORIA FREED

Police Declare Both Have Perfect Alibis.

Peoria, Ill., June 18. — (AP) — The slayer of Mildred M. Hallmark, 19, pretty café hostess, remained unidentified tonight after police brought face to face the girl's sweetheart and a youth accused of having paid her unwelcome attentions, only to have both produce what authorities described as perfect alibis.

Questioning of a half dozen youths following the discovery early yesterday of the girl's bruised and almost nude body in Springdale cemetery failed to produce a single lead on which police could press their search for the killer, Acting Police Chief Fred Nussbaum said.

Ross Porter, 20, sought over several central Illinois counties after police were told he had at various times attempted to force his attentions on Miss Hallmark, was found at his home here today.

Both Account for Time.

Facing Vincent Pilgrim, 19, suitor of the girl, Porter declared that he was nowhere near the scene of the attack. Pilgrim likewise accounted for his whereabouts during the supposed time of the attack—about midnight Sunday.

Several other youths, among them one who had accompanied Miss Hallmark to a picture show a few hours before her death, and one seized after he had washed his automobile with gasoline to remove what police at first believed were bloodstains, were freed today.

Porter, located after police traced him to Dixon and Kewanee, where he had gone with his father to set up and remove convention decorations, claimed that he was out of town Sunday night.

Cloth, Blanket Clews.

A piece of bloodstained cloth, apparently torn from the left front of a man's shirt, and a gray and white blanket upon which the girl's body was lying when found by William McGarvey, a teamster, were the meager clews to which police turned tonight after questioning of the several youths failed.

The cloth was found under a wooden wash trough about 50 feet from the body. Nussbaum said the killer had apparently washed his hands at the trough after slaying the girl and then wiped them on the cloth.

Miss Hallmark was struck on the head and neck, choked and then raped, police said. Investigators were unable to reproduce from bruises on the girl's throat usable finger prints with which to check those of suspects, they said.

The girl, who was a native of Evansville, Ind., and who came here eight years ago from Henderson, Ky., with her parents, was last seen alive as she left a street car near her home after attending a movie with a fellow employé of the café where she was hostess.

CALLES LEAVES MEXICO CITY TO RETIRE IN NORTH

His departure by plane for his home at El Tambor, in Sinaloa, was regarded as an admission he has lost power. President Lazaro Cardenas emerged the victor in a recent dispute over the government's labor program.

Shortly before Calles left the new Cardenas cabinet went into office. The group was considered more conservative than had been expected. Only two of the secretaries had ever held important public office before.

PAROLEE GIVEN LIFE TERM AS HABITUAL FELON

Everett Heath Caught After Loop Raid.

Everett Heath, alias John Smith, 27 years old, who was paroled from Joliet penitentiary in September, 1934, after serving six years of a robbery sentence, was sentenced to life imprisonment under the habitual criminal act yesterday by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court.

Heath and a companion, who escaped, entered Vaughn't Seed company, 10 West Randolph street, on April 26, threatened employés with revolvers, and seized $1,967. They fled when the cashier screamed.

Heath fired several shots at police pursuing him and was himself wounded. Police seized him as he tried to get into an automobile parked in Dearborn street.

Quality of Arsenal.

In this automobile, testimony showed, the police found four shotguns, a cartridge belt, six boxes of shells, four revolvers, and two blackjacks.

Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie told the judge, who heard the case without a jury, that the bullets had been "dum-dumed," that the shells had been replaced with "shrapnel," and that the bullets and shells had been rubbed with garlic in order to produce poisoning in any one they hit.

Heath told Judge Sullivan that he had gone to the loop to attend a moving picture show. When he passed the seed store, Heath testified, someone shouted "run," and he was seized with an epileptic fit, and did not remember anything more until he awakened in a cell.

Leniency Sought for Robber.

"It is only through the mercy of God that he is here," Judge Sullivan told O'Hara, "or that he is not facing death in the electric chair. It is fortunate that he did not reach his arsenal. With the loop crowded at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, a massacre would have ensued. I am going to place him where he will not have a chance to shoot at any one else."

Prosecutor McCurrie said that two other charges against Heath would be prosecuted in order to assure his presence in prison for the rest of his life.

Tells of Experiences in Cemetery.

Lansing, Mich., June 18.—[Special.]—Garnet Emerling, 17 year old high school girl, today told from the witness stand in Municipal court her story of events of May 30, in a local cemetery, on which are based rape charges against three Michigan State college students.

The girl haltingly related her version of a midnight ride to the secluded cemetery after she and her escort, James Jackson, 21, of Buffalo, N. Y., had been picked up by the two other accused students, Alexander Varsoke, 20, and Spencer Rogers, 20, varsity basketball star, both of Amsterdam, N. Y.

She exonerated Jackson of any active part in the assault but declared that Varsoke, owner of the car, raped her after she had fought Rogers off.

Sergt. Harold Mulbar of the state police testified Varsoke admitted the attack. A week's adjournment was taken on motion of Jackson's counsel, who said he would move for dismissal of the charge against his client.

BUNDESEN WARNS OF MAD DOG; FOUR PERSONS BITTEN

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, yesterday warned persons bitten by a mongrel terrier at large on Monday in the Hyde Park police district to immediately seek medical attention if they have not received the Pasteur treatment. A health department test of the dog yesterday showed he was infected with rabies. Four persons are known to have been bitten Monday afternoon. They are Miss Anita Barnes, 5210 Woodlawn avenue; Sergt. John Boreszky of the Chicago Park district police; Herman Marcouici, 1207 West 47th street, and the Rev. R. V. Gallaway, 5471 Ellis avenue. Sergt. Boreszky shot the dog. The victims were given medical attention at the Illinois Central hospital.

CALIFORNIA RETAINS POUGHKEEPSIE TITLE

WHITEHEAD TO PITCH AGAINST MACKS TODAY

Sox Will Open Five Game Series.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, finding that their yard still was more or less in a submerged state, weren't able to put in their scheduled quota of work again yesterday. The Sox, being slightly embarrassed what with Luke Sewell injured and the pitching staf considerably shaky, didn't object even though it was their third straight day of leisure.

JOHN WHITEHEAD.

But the pace-making Yankees from New York didn't take the same view. They left town last night, peeved to think they had played only one of five scheduled games and that weather prevented them from picking on a cripple.

Starting today, weather permitting, and for three days thereafter, the visiting half of the current Comisky park baseball act will be Connie Mack's Athletics. They are slated for five games, two of them being on the books for tomorrow afternoon.

Whitehead to Pitch.

In hope that he can show the Macks in the first affair this afternoon that they needn't look for any setups while loitering around here, Jim Dykes, the Sox boss, is going to turn loose John Henderson Whitehead. Thus Raymond Babe Phelps, who has been waiting since Sunday for a chance to make his second start of the season, will have to await another call. He'll get it tomorrow in the double header. Vernon Kennedy will pitch the other half of the bargain bill.

Whitehead, after shocking the league by winning his first eight starts as a major leaguer, has dropped his last three, but this is no cause for alarm. He pitched good ball in at least two of the beatings but was given no runs by his mates. He was only fair last Saturday against the Yankees, who gave him his worst trimming so far as hits were concerned; but that treatment didn't prevent Joe McCarthy, manager of the New Yorkers, from rating Whitehead as one in a hundred. It was McCarthy's first glimpse of the Texas league graduate.

Jones' Arm Sore.

Some of Dykes' worries about pitching will be lifted as soon as old man Sam Jones is able to do an occasional turn. He's been troubled with a sore arm since around May 24. He pitched a 13 inning game at Boston and then started again at New York without having proper allowance for rest. The soreness developed and he hasn't been any good since. He worked out a few days ago and reported no bad effects. When he thinks he's ready he'll let the manager know. That may be in about another five or six days.

As it stands now Dykes has only Lyons, Kennedy, Phelps and Whitehead for regular turns and Lyons, being 34 years old, must have more than the customary rest. Double headers also complicate the situation. There is bound to be a real pinch from Thursday to Sunday when six games must be played on four days so Dykes may have to gamble on Tietje, Fischer or Wyatt.

HOUSE PASSES TWO BILLS FOR SMALLER TRACKS

Springfield, Ill., June 18.—[Special.]—Racing laws for downstate tracks were lightened by the house today through passage of two bills. The first, sponsored by A. B. Lager [Dem., Carlyle], in the interest of the Fairmount track near East St. Louis, would increase the pari-mutuel take from 6½ per cent to 10 per cent. Aurora and Chicago tracks would not benefit from this measure. Being a house bill, it must receive senate approval.

The second bill, introduced by Henry Knauff [Dem., Ladd], would permit pari-mutuel or certificate wagering on harness racing at county fairs. Licenses would be obtainable at $150 per day for Cook county and $50 per day for downstate counties, proceeds going to the agricultural premium fund. This bill also must go to the senate.

TWENTY GRAND RUNS SEVENTH IN ENGLISH DEBUT

ASCOT, England, June 18.—Twenty Grand, owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney, American sportswoman, which shared the 3 year old championship with Mate during the 1931 season, failed to make a good showing in the Queen Anne stakes today. Twenty Grand, making his first start on an English track, finished seventh and never appeared in the running.

The race was won by J. A. Dewar's Fair Trial. Solerina, owned by Mrs. C. L. MacKean, finished second, while Lord Carnarvon's Monico was third. Fair Trial was at 9 to 4 in the betting. Other American owned horses entered in the feature events of the opening day's program also failed to land in the money.

JIMMY BRADDOCK SHOWS A STOOGE CAN PUNCH BACK

Griffin and Lasky Learn He's No Set-up.

[This is the third article of a series on the career of Jimmy Braddock, new world's heavyweight champion.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 18.—James J. Braddock, heavyweight champion, owes his success to Corn Griffin—and he admits it. Griffin was the stepping stone that enabled Braddock to climb to the heavyweight throne. Jim's boxing days were behind him—or so he thought—and he was slinging a bale hook on the docks last June when Joe Gould, a canny Italian-American if there ever was one, went to see him just two days before the Carnera-Baer bout.

"I can get you a prelim spot with some hot shot who has just come up from the south," Joe told his old buddy, Jim. "This bloke's name is Griffin and he's supposed to be a comer. He's been belting Carnera all over Pompton lakes with the big gloves and he can hit like a mule. The Garden wanted to put him in with Dynamite Jackson, but Griffin wants a softer touch for his first New York showing, so somebody suggested you. How about it, pal?"

Anything Is Better Than the Docks.

"Let's go!" grinned Braddock. "Anything is better than trundling these packing cases for $4 a day!"

Jim, who hadn't had a glove on in more than a year, had two workouts in Stillman's gymnasium. He did a little road work around the Central park reservoir, bought himself a haircut, shave, and shine, and headed for Madison Square Garden bowl to keep his rendezvous with the phenomenal Griffin.

The rest is ring history. The boys began boxing listlessly, but the newcomer from Georgia, observing Jack Dempsey, Jack Sharkey, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, and other celebrities watching his northern debut, decided to bear down against his supposed setup. Corn clipped Jim on the chin and dumped him in the first round. Braddock took a nine count and rose groggily to his feet. The banjo eyed longshoreman saw three Griffins before him, so he set himself and let fly at the middle one.

It was a case of the lamb killing the butcher. Jim gave Griffin a two fisted shellacking from then on out that blasted a promising career. Corn was braced against the ropes so that he couldn't fall, but he was out on his feet and Braddock was hammering away in his best Pier 6 manner when the referee intervened to save Griffin from serious injury.

Despite the shopworn Braddock's splendid comeback he got no more work thereafter until John Henry Lewis, clever colored 175 pounder who had just finished bashing Champion Maxie Rosenbloom all over a western arena, came to New York to show his stuff at the Garden. Lewis also was looking for an adversary who would make him look good.

Braddock Shows Foes He's Nobody's Stooge.

Jimmy Johnston, the Garden matchmaker, decided that Braddock would be a perfect stooge for the brilliant Lewis. Jim had a tarnished record, but his name meant something to the Garden clientele. So they dusted off James Jay and led him to the slaughter. Again Braddock crossed the cognoscenti. He stepped inside a zooming right hook the colored boy tossed at his head and pegged him on the chin with a short left hook that sent him flying across the ring. Lewis went down and was very nearly out. He managed, however, to weather the round, but it was Braddock's hand, and not John Henry's, that was elevated at the finish.

Art Lasky came to town and still the suckers didn't realize that Old Man Braddock was bad medicine for visiting firemen. Lasky, then an outstanding contender for the title, chose Braddock and once again a 6 to 1 shot came through. Jim punched Lasky into obscurity and folks began to take him seriously.

Meanwhile the going wasn't so good financially. Jim had been paid $750 for the Lewis fight. He had been

ROMAN SOLDIER RATED 8 TO 5 IN AMERICAN DERBY

Owner Glad He Rejected $25,000 Offer.

BY FRENCH LANE.

While the rain peppered down at Washington Park race course yesterday, Phil Reuter, Chicago trainer, dropped into a big chair over in barn Y on the back stretch and went into a conference with himself.

"Wasn't I a sucker last week when I offered to sell Roman Soldier for $30,000?" Reuter upbraided himself. "Indeed you were and the rankest sort of a chump," replied Mr. Reuter to himself.

"Well, let's forget about it and enjoy this fine downpour of rain," said Reuter in a comforting tone. "Maybe I did put a $30,000 price tag on the Soldier last week, but I did not lose him and right now he's worth $60,000. He's worth $40,000 for the things he can do on a fast track and he's worth another $20,000 more because he can do his chores just as well when it is raining and muddy. Come on, Mr. Weather Man, and bring us more rain, for there's that American Derby coming up on Saturday." Again Trainer Reuter smiled contentedly.

Advance Guard Agrees.

And while the rain clouds continued to hover in the neighborhood of the race course Mr. Reuter appeared to be talking to himself in a very wise manner. At least the advance guard of American Derby visitors thought so, for they backed Roman Soldier so stoutly that he became the 8 to 5 favorite in the early Derby speculation.

It was Mrs. R. B. Fairbanks of Indianapolis who attempted to purchase Roman Soldier a week ago. Her offer was $25,000 and she said it would hold good until Tuesday night of last week. Reuter held out for $30,000.

In the meantime came word from New York that Omaha was passing up not only the Detroit Derby but also the American Derby. Reuter hunched the price on Roman Soldier up to $35,000 and that brought the end of the negotiations.

Reuter sent Roman Soldier to Detroit where he won the Derby and $17,775. He moved him back to Chicago and if he wins the American Derby his share of the purse will be slightly more than $20,000.

So within the space of eight days in the event he wins the American Derby Roman Soldier will have won some $37,000 and still he will be Reuter's horse.

Needs Little Work.

Is it any wonder that Reuter has to console himself over his willingness to peddle off the star 3 year old at such a low figure? All his friends say is "You're a lucky stiff they didn't buy him."

Reuter is in the happy situation of not having to call on Roman Soldier for any serious workouts this week. He will probably bring him out on the muddy track this morning for a speed sharpener and do the same thing with him on Friday. A horse that has been racing from January to June doesn't need to have his stamina tested at this stage of his campaign.

Reports are around that Bloodroot from the Bradley barn can also run as well in the mud as on a fast track. Still the betting odds against her drifted up and up. "Don't bet on Bradley in the mud" seems to be a slogan which the racegoers cannot forget.

While the Washington Park track was well saturated by yesterday's rains, two days of sunshine will change the going from muddy to fast, so it isn't at all certain that Roman Soldier will get his favorite muddy track to run over.

Mud May Increase Field.

It was in the mud that the biggest upset in recent American Derby history came about. That happened back in 1930 when Reveille Boy won the old fixture at odds of more than 70 to 1.

Track conditions are not expected to have much effect on the size of the Derby field. A muddy track might enlarge it because there are several noted mud running 3 year olds on the grounds which will be sent into the rich race should they get their particular brand of going.

That the Derby will draw the record crowd of the season to Washington Park was indicated yesterday when an inquiry at the ticket office revealed that less than 100 of reserved box seats were unsold. All reserved seats probably will be gone before noon today.

Braddock Is Sought for European Bout

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

POTSDAM, Germany, June 18.—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight boxer, who formerly held the world's title, is eager to fight James J. Braddock, new champion, in the United States, but he is going to attempt to bring the conqueror of Max Baer to Europe for the title bout.

"I would like to meet Braddock in Europe," Schmeling said today. "I am under contract to Walter Rothenburg until Sept. 17. I am just making tentative plans now and after my bout with Paulino Uzcudun I shall announce definitly what I will do."

Rothenburg, German promoter, also is in favor of bringing Braddock to Europe and plans to present the fight in a neutral country in September. Rothenburg said he would reimburse Braddock for any losses suffered in breaking his contract with Madison Square Garden.

"If Braddock accepts my offer to fight in Europe I shall give him $150,000," Rothenburg said.

"NO CHANCE—" JOHNSTON.

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, today said there is no possibility of James J. Braddock, new heavyweight champion, fighting Max Schmeling in Europe. Johnston said Braddock and his manager, Joe Gould, are not thinking of breaking their contract with the Garden.

"Jimmy doesn't have to make his first title defense until next year," Johnston said. "But if Schmeling comes to America for a bout in September I am sure Braddock and Gould will agree to it."

Johnston also revealed that he received a telephone call from Max Baer, who lost the title to Braddock last week. Baer, according to Johnston, is seeking to meet the champion under the auspices of the Garden.

"Baer is signed to meet the winner of the Joe Louis-Primo Carnera bout," Johnston said, "and after that fight we'll see if we can arrange a title match."

Morris Sets Record in Southern Amateur Golf

Richmond, Va., June 18.—(AP)—Bagging seven birdies as he set an amateur course record, 20 year old Johnny Morris of Birmingham shot a 68 today to grab a four stroke lead over the field in the first half of the two round qualification test of the southern amateur golf tournament.

Happy Cubs Open Boston Series Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 18.—As Vice President Charles John Grimm was leaving the Brooklyn playing field yesterday after directing his Cubs to their third victory in the series with the Dodgers, Casey Stengel, manager of the Brooklyns, came alongside, saying: "Better pack them trunks of yours for if there are as many as three drops of rain between now and 3:15 tomorrow there won't be no game."

True to his word, Mr. Stengel called off the scheduled final between the Cubs and the Dodgers when he arose this morning and found there had been some precipitation during the night.

Charles Is Happy.

Mr. Stengel, famous as a fashioner of bon mots and miscellaneous wisecracks, has not been in his best form recently. His team, which supplanted the Cubs in the first division on June 8, has lost six out of seven games since opening its home stay. You can't expect even a Stengel to think up bright sayings under such a terrible load.

On the other hand Vice President Grimm, the saddest of men a week ago, right now is loping on the fleecciest of the clouds. His team is three games out of the second division and during the last week has been more alert than at any time in two seasons. P. K. Wrigley is riding with the team and telling Charley what a good manager he is and how secure his job is.

Chuck Klein made six home runs in six days and others are hitting even against good pitching. The boys haven't been so dumb on the bases and in three days have let only two balls drop between fielders on their famous "stupidity play." Vice President Grimm is indeed a happy man.

Boss Does Wonders.

No matter how pressing his other affairs P. K. almost has to stick around as a mascot if for no other reason. He appears to be helping the spirit of alertness around the ball outfit immeasurably and probably has visions of getting more folks to come out to his ball park when the team gets back home. If things keep up, Mr. Wrigley has no greater chore than seeing that Chicagoans again start to drop in at Clark and Addison.

Mr. Wrigley hasn't taught any of his athletes anything about the technical side of baseball. But being the gent who pays the salaries, his presence in the presidential box has done wonders at keeping the fellows going.

There is to be a double header here tomorrow. Lon Warneke and Ken O'Dea will be the Cub battery in the first game. Bill Lee and Gabby Hartnett are scheduled to work the second game.

CORNELL EIGHT FINISHES 2D; WASHINGTON 3D

Huskie Freshmen, Jarvees Win.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 18.—In a finish so close that official announcement was delayed nearly 10 minutes, University of California's varsity eight, for the third year in succession, won the four mile race in the 37th annual intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson this evening. The time was 18:52, compared to the course record of 18:35 4-5 set by California in 1928.

California's victory, attained after a desperate struggle against Cornell's surprising crew throughout the last mile, after Washington had surrendered its early lead, completed a sweep of the regatta by Pacific coast crews. Washington won the two mile freshman and three mile junior varsity events earlier in the afternoon.

Coast Reign Continues.

Triumph of the Berkeley oarsmen marked the seventh success of far western shells in the last 12 years. On four other occasions within that period the coast has furnished the runner-up.

Within memory of those who ride the observation train with its tiers of circus seats, jolting four miles along the west bank of the river, no such desperate contest had been seen. These observers knew not which eight had won until the numbers went up.

To add to the confusion, five bombs were exploded from the railroad bridge denoting a Cornell victory as the Ithacans were rowing in No. 5 lane. This mishap resulted from a signal incorrectly flashed from the finish line a mile distant.

In the official timing Cornell was placed 3-5 second behind California. Oarsmen know how slight is that margin [approximately ten feet]. The other crews finished in this order: Washington, third, two lengths behind Cornell; Navy, fourth by a length; Syracuse, fifth by two lengths; Pennsylvania, sixth by eight lengths; Columbia, seventh only a few feet astern of Penn.

Weather Stunts Crowd.

Gusts of cold wind swept out of the massed clouds to the northeast. The rain had died away to an occasional sprinkle and drizzle, but the day was colder and more raw than any the regatta has known since four crews sank in the stormy passage of 1929.

The weather had a most depressing effect on not only the spirits but the numbers of the crowd. Where upward of 50,000 usually line the shores, pack the observation train, there semed to be less than half that number braving pneumonia half an hour before the five freshmen crews were ordered to the starting line.

Course Is Smooth.

The fleet at the finish line, usually a colorful, beflagged line stretching far up the river, was likewise the scantiest in years. Grey navy and coast guard patrol boats, fitting into the cloudy picture, tore busily about the river, supposedly to keep all in there places, but there was nothing for them to do.

The crowd on the shore was the drabbest in years. A few hundred at the most, their usual bright colors shrouded in slickers and top coats, shivered on the banks.

The wind blew fresh, diagonally across the river from the northeast, but the tide had turned and was rolling down ahead of it, leaving the water fairly smooth. It flattened out further as the ebb of the tide increased. Aside from the general gloom, visibility was fairly good.

Bears Ride Easily.

When the seven shells, far up the river above the big bridge, received the starter's gun, Washington pushed out in front, followed by Syracuse and Cornell. California, strong advance favorite, was in fourth position. The Bears, a boat full of big strong fellows, were taking things easily, seemingly not worried over their position. At least their coxswain did not whip up their stroke until more than two miles had been covered.

At the end of the first mile Washington was first by a half length, Syracuse a quarter-length ahead of Cornell, and California a full length farther back on practically even terms with

'OUR LUCKY DAY,' SAYS COACH OF CALIFORNIA CREW

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 18.—(AP)—Coach Ky Ebright of California milled among his tired but happy crew after its hair raising victory tonight and said he had enjoyed the "most thrilling moment of my life."

"In all my years of rowing I've never seen a race just quite like it," said the bespectacled westerner. "There was no doubt in my mind as to the winner, although it was mighty close. I guess it was our lucky day. The boys rowed a wonderful race and every man performed beautifully."

California had planned its slow start, Ebright said.

"But," he added with a broad grin, "we hadn't planned to stay behind quite so long as we did. After all, in a long race its the push at the finish that counts."

Ebright and his crew will leave tomorrow for New York City to entrain on Thursday for the coast and their next competition—the sprint races on June 28 and 29 in which Syracuse, fifth in today's race, will also compete.

PACKARD ENTERS DASHES IN A. A. U. MEET SATURDAY

Robert Packard, Rockford, Ill. High school sprinter, yesterday entered the open dashes and high school events in the 34th annual Central A. A. U. outdoor track meet to be held at Dyche stadium, Northwestern university, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Relay teams have been entered by Rockford, Oak Park, and Glenbard of Glen Ellyn. Green Bay and Milwaukee high schools also will be represented.

John Chudzekiewicz, member of the American team which competed in the Polish games at Warsaw, Poland, last year, will represent Jacksonville School for the Deaf in all weight events.

California Is Poughkeepsie Race Victor

Navy. Pennsylvania and Columbia were trailing.

When the half way marker was reached, Washington was in front by a length and its small number of partisans on the observation train, mostly members of the freshmen and junior crews who had completed their day's work, had visions of a sweep of the river, a feat not accomplished by any college since three races were made a day's program.

At this point, Cornell was second, rowing strongly as if with plenty in reserve. It was only a deck ahead of California and Syracuse. The latter was stroking higher than the first three to maintain its position. Navy, Columbia and Pennsylvania followed in order.

Shortly after the 2 mile mark Coxswain Watts of California stepped up the beat. Cornell responded and the two shells began to cut down Washington's margin.

Washington Drops Back.

By the end of the third mile Cornell and California were in the lead on practically even terms. Spectators were unable to determine which led, but the Ithaca crew was perhaps a few feet in the van. Washington now was a quarter of a length astern. Apparently it had shot its bolt, leaving the race between the two leaders. Syracuse and Navy were having a hearty struggle for fourth place, with Pennsylvania and Columbia in the rear.

Then followed that grueling final mile. First Cornell, then California held an advantage as eight muscular backs in each shell moved in rhythm, their oars in precision as they shot back and forth on their sliding seats, exerting every ounce of strength. Those accustomed to that sort of thing say it was one of the greatest races ever rowed. To a freshman observer it seemed all of that.

Then the final desperate spring, both crews at high stroke, and the moments of tense waiting for the official decision.

Huskies Win Twice.

Washington opened the program by winning the freshman 2 mile race from California, Navy, Columbia, and Syracuse, which finished in that order. After the first mile the Huskies pulled away to win by 2½ lengths. The time was 10:29.

The Seattle collegians repeated in the junior varsity at 3 miles by an almost similar margin, rowing with confidence, taking the lead at the start, holding off Navy's challenge for two miles and then finishing with plenty of reserve power. Navy was second, Cornell third, and Syracuse fourth. The time of this race was 14:58 4-5. The victorious Washington Jayvees were the same eight men who early in the year defeated the California varsity in a match race on the coast.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE LETTER BOX.

NEW YORK, June 18.—[Special.]—Dear Wake: Nothing is now too harsh to say of Max Baer. Why? Because he lost his title to a good game fellow, perhaps not a great fighter, but always trying, who did not figure to beat Baer. They even say that Max was not trying. Fiddlesticks!

No one can make me believe a champion is not trying. That title is too hard earned to be thrown away. Baer was not the murderous puncher of old. Perhaps, as claimed, his hands did bother him. That would be reason enough. He complained about them before the battle.

Of course, a boxer should not risk his title if he is not in good condition. Physically Baer was better conditioned than when he defeated Carnera to win the championship. No doubt, as he stated in an interview, he thought his bruised hands would stand up long enough to stop Braddock. Such confidence is not unusual.

I never was an admirer of Baer's clowning, but I do think he should get a fair deal now. His title meant more to him than it did to the critics abusing him. My prediction is that Baer, his hands permitting, will be back in the limelight again, quite likely again champion. Chicago Fight Fan.

Before going east you gave considerable discussion in this column to whether a person should bet at the race track or in handbooks located all over Chicago. The writer has played the races at the track and in poolrooms for over 40 years and still gets quite a kick out of it.

Here is one of the reasons why I do not go to the race track as often as I would like: Cheese sandwiches, 35 cents—anywhere else in Chicago, with more cheese, 10 to 15 cents; cut of pie, 20 cents—anywhere else, with more pie, 10 to 15 cents; hot dogs, 15 cents—anywhere else, 10 cents; nationally known soft drinks, 10 cents—elsewhere, 5 cents; bourbon, 50 cents—elsewhere, 35 cents. Let the managements think it over. J. L. Jones.

Miniature Golf.

We thought miniature golf had gone out everywhere, superseded in many places by the "Stop and Sock" variety. Abandoned courses in Chicago and Los Angeles, many built at heavy expenses, substantiated that theory.

Not so at Asbury Park, where miniature golf thrives, getting steady patronage from the week-end crowds, only there they call it "Obstacle Golf," with many gadgets to obstruct the normal progress of the little pill. One reason, we suppose, is the small area required for tracts bordering the boardwalk, with not much else except bathing for amusement of tourists.

Sleeps by Radio.

Max Baer turns on a radio before retiring and goes to sleep by its droning. Several times others of the menage went in and turned it off when they "heard" Max sleeping. Invariably he awakened, and the radio was turned on again. One observer was unkind enough to remark that Max must have heard a radio in the ring the night he fought Braddock.

* *

Games of Chance.

The most absurd games of chance also flourish at Asbury Park, which we visited when Baer was training for Braddock. "Radio Ball," a euphemism for keno, was not so bad at a nickel a card, except that the prizes were merchandise more suited for the attic than any other part of the house.

But the wheel and horse games were impossible so far as odds were concerned. At one contraption were 15 horses. Chances were a nickel each. If your horse won you received a carton of 50 cigarets, retail price 30 cents. Odds were 14 to 1 against the player and payoff was 5 to 1. Still patronage was brisk.

Braddock, the Setup, Smacks Griffin, Lasky getting $24 monthly from the Northbergen, N. J., relief funds and he was into those charity coffers for nearly $300. As soon as the Garden paid him, he repaid the relief outfit and tossed in $50 extra, saying:

"Use this to stake some fellow who can't make the grade."

James Jay, who had been wearing his hair long, poet fashion, whose shiny blue suit had seen better days, and whose shoes were run down at the heels, came out of the barrel after the Lasky bout. Jim had to guarantee Lasky $5,000 to get him into the ring and he himself wound up with about $3,800. So Jimmy broke out with a polo coat, a dinner jacket and other signs of affluence, the three Braddock youngsters were togged out in new duds from head to foot, and May Braddock and Betty Gould, the wives of Fighter Jim and Manager Joe, bailed their modest jewelry out of hock.

Braddock weighed 182 pounds for the Lasky fight. He was ten pounds heavier for Baer. He explained this thus:

"I trained on hash for Art, but I was packing away the sirloins in my preparations for the champion. For a long while there wasn't any too much to eat in the Braddock home, but that won't happen again—if I can help it."

Louis Rests, Talks About Battle Plans

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 18.—[Special.]—Joe Louis, 1934 Chicago Golden Glove champion, rested today in his preparations for his bout with Primo Carnera, the most important fight of his career, at the Yankee stadium Tuesday night.

Louis did five miles of road work at dawn and light exercises in the gymnasium before a crowd of visitors, but he abandoned his usual boxing—to the great relief of his battered sparring partners.

Louis Becomes Talkative.

After having maintained a tactful silence since the match was made, Louis today entered into an analysis of Carnera's prowess.

"Carnera has nothing but his size to recommend him," Louis said. "Max Baer demonstrated that he can be hit and floored.

"If Carnera steps on my feet I'll hit him on the chin with a left hook. When he wrestles with me and tries to club me down, I'll just keep on punching until I make him quit. Carnera, I am told, gets panicky when clipped and forgets what little boxing he has been taught. I intend to clip him often and hard."

Joe Well Protected.

Louis and his managers laughed at reports along Broadway that a strong arm squad of gamblers, anxious to put over a betting coup, had tried to intimidate him. It was rumored that these hoodlums had convinced Louis he shouldn't try too hard.

"Nobody can fix me—unless they kill me," said the 21 year old colored boy. "I am to be the next heavyweight champion of the world—and I don't scare easily."

Louis, whose entourage now includes a few armed bodyguards, will remain in his camp until Tuesday noon. He is well protected.

BROWN PICKS CARNERA.

Owasco Lake, N. Y., June 18.—[Special.]—If Joe Louis defeats Primo Carnera Tuesday night, the most surprised man in the audience will be Natie Brown, Washington, D. C., heavyweight, who went ten rounds with Louis at Detroit last March.

Brown joined the Carnera staff yesterday and sparred with Carnera today. After the workout, Brown said: "For a man of his size Carnera is remarkably fast. Louis won't hit him. Primo knows too much and, too, he can punch with either hand. It has been said that he doesn't have the dynamite in his right. Well, that's all wrong. That punch, in fact, probably will bring him victory over Louis. The colored man, I think, will tire from his early efforts to stop Carnera and then will be at Primo's mercy."

250 COMPETE IN HULLABALLOO AT BOB O' LINK

Second Round Will Be Played Today.

Nearly 250 golfers participated yesterday in Bob o' Link's 14th annual Hullaballoo, 163 playing the first 18 holes despite a heavy rain and soaked course. The second 18 holes, which carry with them the big list of prizes, will be played today. A silver service for 12 persons, valued at $500, will be given tonight for the low net score in today's round.

Jimmie Miller was low yesterday, having 33—37—70, two under par. He had four birdies and went over par twice, being short at the 14th and in the rough at the 15th. Chick Evans, with two birdies, scored 35—38—73, and Johnny Lehman posted 38—37—75. Other good gross cards were 77 by E. A. Howard, 78 by William Potts, and 79 by Paul Curtis.

The list of yesterday's prize winners will be announced tonight with the grand awards. Scores:

GOLF STUDENTS ATTEND CLASSES IN SPITE OF RAIN

Graduation!

DATES and sites for the finals of THE TRIBUNE Golf school were announced last night by officials of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association. The eighteen hole medal play tournament will be held Sunday at the Cog-Hill Golf and Country club, 119th street and Archer avenue, and the final form contest will be decided at the Mid-City Golf club, Grace street and Western avenue, on Friday, June 28.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Major league baseball was not the only sport to encounter wet grounds yesterday, for the women and girls scheduled to take their fifth lesson in THE TRIBUNE'S third annual free golf school last night ran into the same problem, but met it differently. Where the ball players went to the movies or played pinochle, the fair students of THE TRIBUNE school appeared in goodly numbers on the thirteen courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, despite steady showers which made the giving of lessons outdoors an impossibility.

Such was the enthusiasm of the pupils, however, that many of the Daily Fee professionals responded by giving them brief lectures and answering their questions indoors. In most cases, the classes were carried over to the sixth and final night for women and girls—tomorrow night. Others announced that they would combine the ladies' classes with those for men, scheduled for tonight.

Pupils Attend Despite Rain.

Mel Thompson and his assistants at Mid-City, which has been carrying the heaviest enrollment, found a class of 400 ready for their lesson in spite of the rain. Thompson gave them a short lecture and then announced that the fifth lesson for women and girls at Mid-City will be given at 7 p. m. tonight, one hour before the class for men and boys begins there.

Jack Daray and Clarence Moeller of Mission Hills had 50 pupils present, but they too will combine the classes for all divisions tonight. Julian Strud of Vernon took 50 pupils who appeared into the club's dance pavilion and gave them a demonstration there. Vernon will hold its women's fifth class in conjunction with the sixth lesson tomorrow. Al Megeff and Frank McNamara gave an indoor lecture at Evergreen, where 200 eager pupils awaited them. Evergreen asked its feminine pupils to appear at 6:30 tomorrow night. The fifth lesson will be given then, with the sixth and final one following immediately.

Class Is Postponed.

Otto Dumke and Jack Norton of Big Oaks also found a good percentage of the enrollment at Big Oaks ready for work, but postponed their classes for women and girls to Thursday, when two will be given and the winners for the finals named.

Tom Walsh, his brother, Packy, and Charley Blasgen gave a brief lesson to 150 pupils at Westgate Valley, but will repeat the fifth instruction for women and girls with the class for men and boys tonight.

The fifth lesson for all divisions is to be devoted to the stroke saving departments of chipping and putting, while the sixth lesson, scheduled for women and girls for tomorrow night and for men and boys on Friday, will be devoted to a review of the entire course of instruction, as well as to the naming of the four best pupils at each of the thirteen courses, who will take part in final medal play and form competitions.

Aurora Rain Light.

Johnny Moran of the Aurora classroom, Wabansee, encountered less of a downpour than his colleagues, and so was enabled to give the lesson to a class of one hundred last night. Moran and his staf gave their fourth lesson on Monday night indoors

Elmgate also was able to give its fifth lesson for women and girls last night outdoors, the rain somehow skipping the north side course. Buck Kelly, Jim Dwyer, Dick Martin, and John Gertenrich handled the teaching job.

Tom Geary of Indian Head lectured to a class of 130, but will combine the two lessons for women and girls tomorrow night at 7 p. m. A demonstration of shots will open the class at 6:30. Harry Kinnell of Edgewood Valley will name the winners at Indian Head.

Northbrook also was obliged to postpone its classes. Harold Johnston, professional, announced that the fifth and sixth lessons for women and girls will be held tomorrow night.

Jock Anderson of Techny Fields has invited Al Lesperance of Westmoreland to name his winners in a joint class for all students at Techny Fields on Friday. Slow motion pictures of Bobby Jones, Joyce Wethered, Harry Vardon, and other stars will be shown.

Illinois Open Golf Event to Start Monday

Illinois' biggest golf show, the annual state open and amateur tournament, will begin next Monday at the Rockford Country club, Rockford, Ill., with one of the largest fields in the history of the event, which is conducted each year by the Chicago District Golf association.

Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, who has won the open crown for the last two years, will defend his title, while Larry Moller, former Notre Dame star from Quincy, will be back to match the amateur title against the Chicago district's best.

The open tournament will form the first portion of the program, with eighteen holes of medal play on Monday afternoon and another eighteen on Tuesday morning. The winner will receive $500 in cash and the championship trophy. The professionals will then join with the amateurs Tuesday afternoon in a special best ball tournament.

Amateurs will go to work on determining the match play field for their title on Wednesday, when 27 qualifying holes of medal play will be held. From there on through Saturday match play will hold the stage for championship, consolation, and three other flights. The victor will receive a gold medal and custody of the Louis L. Emmerson championship trophy for the next year. There will also be awards to the winners and runners-up in the various flights.

The entry fee is $5 and may be mailed to the Chicago District Golf association, 14 East Jackson boulevard, Chicago. A. W. Hale is chairman of the tournament committee.

One of the most popular events in present day golf, the annual open championship of the Women's Western Golf association, will begin next Monday at the Sunset Ridge Country club in Winnetka. Mrs. Howard D. Raymond of Evanston, president of the association, announces that a large entry is expected, including such stars as Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, and Mrs. June Beebe Atwood, all former champions.

Babe Didrikson, the star girl athlete from Texas who recently turned business woman golfer, is a possibility in the field, and a certainty to give a driving exhibition. The tournament is open to all players with a handicap of 18 strokes or less, whether from private clubs, public courses, or unattached. The entry fee is $3.00. All checks should be made payable to the Women's Western Golf association, Mrs. C. B. Willard, 277 Linden Park place, Highland Park, Ill., is the treasurer.

The qualifying round will be held Monday, with match play opening Tuesday and continuing through Saturday. Thirty-two players will qualify for the championship flight. Additional flights will be added to take care of the remainder of the field, with consolation rounds for all flights. The final match will be at 36 holes.

The annual Frolic, invitational tournament of the Southmoor Country club, postponed from last Wednesday, will be held today. A large field is expected to appear at the course, which is in excellent condition.

The Chicago Hotel Men's Golf association will journey to Rockford tomorrow for a tournament at which Member Zach Jenkins of the Foust hotel will be host.

Heading the schedule of the Women's Golf club of Lincoln Park is the annual state public parks event to be held on the new north course the week of Aug 12, and a pro girls events for public parks players with a handicap of 20 or less on July 29. Mrs. John B. Avery is president, and Mrs. Loren R. Darr chairman of the sports and postimes committee.

A. public links section, yesterday announced dates for the Chicago district qualifying rounds for the national public links championship, which will be decided at the Indianapolis, Ind., municipal course July 29 to Aug. 3. Sixteen places for the final Chicago playoff will be open at Big Oaks on June 25, sixteen more at Evergreen on July 2, and sixteen more at Mid-City on July 9. The forty-eight winners of places at these trials and ties will then meet at Westgate Valley on July 11 to fight for the four berths on the Chicago team which will go to Indianapolis. The entry fee for each trial is $1, payable at the tee, and each contestant who fails to win a place at the first trial may still try again. The entry money will be used to pay the expenses of the team to Indianapolis.

Omaha, Neb., June 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lillian Zech of the Tam O'Shanter Country club near Chicago, was among the favorites who triumphed in the opening round of the trans-Mississippi women's golf tournament at the Field club today.

Mrs. Zech, who reached the semi-finals of the Illinois state meet last week, eliminated Mrs. J. J. Truscott, Oklahoma City, 5 and 3. Other stars who advanced to the second round included Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City, defending champion; Miss Marion Miley, Lexington, Ky., and Phyllis Buchanan, Denver.

Mrs. Hill, who won medalist honors yesterday, defeated Mrs. E. Devilbiss also of Kansas City, 7 and 6; Miss Miley eliminated Indy Morton, West Okiboji, Ia., 6 and 5, and Miss Buchanan routed Mrs. C. L. Meyer, Omaha, 8 and 6.

Other contenders for the title who won their first matches were Betty Botterill, Salt Lake City, who won from Mrs. P. L. Pepper, Kansas City, 3 and 2; Mrs. Leo Solomon, Kansas City, who defeated Mrs. C. R. McCubbin, 1 up, and Lucille Robinson, Des Moines, who won from Jean Saint, 2 up.

Hits Silence Complaints on Hornsby Deals

St. Louis, Mo., June 18.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Browns, whose managerial astuteness was under considerable question following recent deals, saw himself vindicated today in the records hung up by two of his recent acquisitions, Julius Solters and Ed Coleman.

There were howls aplenty when Hornsby let Philadelphia have the veteran right hand pitcher, George Blaeholder, in exchange for Sugar Cain and Coleman. There were still more when Hornsby announced he had improved the club's financial status by trading Oscar Melillo, second baseman, to Boston for Solters and cash.

The two fielders, however, almost at once ranked at the top of the Brownie batsmen. Their impressive showing on the road and their performance at the plate during their last nine home games has silenced all criticism.

In the first three weeks after joining the Browns May 27 Solters, one of the huskiest hitters in the major leagues, batted a .397 clip and knocked five home runs—three more than Melillo, for whom he was traded, turned in all last season.

In their nine home games the new outfielders, with Coleman batting in the "cleanup" position, have between them accounted for 30 of the 45 runs scored by the last place Browns. In that time Coleman has hit four home runs and Solters five.

Evers to Seek Full Pardon for Alabama Pitts

Albany, N. Y., June 18.—[Special.]—A full pardon for Alabama Pitts, now that he is about to become a professional baseball player, was the hope and aim today of the athlete's counselor, Johnny Evers, general manager of the Albany International league club, and former Chicago Cub star.

Armed with information that a majority of the parole board, as well as Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison, are in favor of wiping out the smirch on Pitts' record, Evers said he will go before Gov. Lehman when he returns to Albany tomorrow and ask him to act.

Pitts Ready to Sign.

Before he does that, however, Evers will fulfill the lone condition by which baseball's commissioner, K. M. Landis, agreed to permit Pitts to enter professional baseball. He will draw up and present to Pitts for his signature a new contract for one year. Pitts' salary will be $200 a month and the contract will contain the stipulation that Pitts is not to play in exhibition games.

Pitts probably will not play until Sunday, when he will hold down right field for Albany against Syracuse. Evers made this decision to give the youth the advantage of playing his first minor league game in daylight. Albany plays at night, except on Sundays and holidays.

Addresses Kiwanis Club.

Pitts today pledged himself to Albany business men to justify the faith this city has reposed in him. Bashful and shy, Alabama stood blushing before several hundred members of the Albany Kiwanis club and bowed to their deafening applause.

"What can I say?" stammered Pitts, winking back the tears. "What is there for me to say, except I'm going to play my best for this town which has been so good to me?"

It was a short speech, but it satisfied the business men who gathered to hear George Wriston, the Kiwanis president, laud Pitts as "an asset to any town."

STELLA WALSH DENIES RUNNING OUT; SAILS TODAY

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—Stella Walsh of Cleveland, who holds several women's track records, today denied charges that she "ran out" on Helen Stephens, Fulton, Mo., sprinter in a meet at St. Louis two weeks ago. Miss Walsh, who will sail for Poland tomorrow, said she notified sponsors of the meet nearly a month ago that she would not compete because of failure to obtain permission to leave school.

Miss Walsh's statement followed an announcement that the St. Louis Athletic club, sponsor of the meet, requested the Ozark A. A. U. to demand the suspension of Miss Walsh.

"I accepted the invitation to compete in the meet on May 5, but on May 20 I wrote Dr. Norman F. Ratherty, president of the St. Louis Athletic club, and told him I couldn't compete. My principal also wrote Dr. Ratherty," Miss Walsh said.

Rain Again Postpones Lexington Harness Meet

For the tobacco fields are just like the vineyards—they depend on the whims of nature. Only when nature favors—in a Vintage year—is the tobacco crop at its best—then the leaf becomes richer.

That's where White Owl is unique among cigars. The filler of this mild, mellow cigar is always made from Vintage quality tobacco... and a Vintage mark on the inside cover of every box is your guarantee. No other cigar—at any price—gives you this assurance.

▪ The first requirement for Vintage tobacco is pure seed. To get such seed, we grow a few acres of finest tobacco in certain years. As each bud forms, it is covered with a paper bag... preventing contamination from inferior pollen.

▪ Our Crop Inspection System, the only known organization of its kind, keeps a check on growing conditions in the finest filler-tobacco districts in America. We know where Vintage tobacco is maturing and buy the best of it for White Owl.

▪ Even in Vintage years, our buyers classify all filler tobaccos into seven grades. Only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades is ever used in a White Owl. That's what we mean when we say Grade A Vintage tobacco.

▪ If all the tobacco crops were ruined for the next two years—it wouldn't affect the quality of White Owls. At present, we have enough Grade A Vintage filler tobacco mellowing in our warehouses to make nearly one billion White Owls.

Taste This!

Drink it straight or in a high-ball! The first taste will tell you that WOOD-STOCK is an outstanding whiskey. The delicious flavor and rich mellowness of this fine Kentucky Bourbon have made it a popular favorite wherever good whiskey is served.

MICHELL KEEPS UP STREAK; HAS 2 MORE WINNERS

Trainer Bert Michell was in the limelight at Washington Park again yesterday. He saddled two winners—Ralph C. in the first race and Merry Go Round in the seventh. Mabel Krasa, which he also saddled, was beaten not more than an inch by Irish Wake in the second race.

Merry Go Round was a life saver for the players of favorites. Six heavily backed choices went down in defeat in the first six races. The players of favorites were ready to start a retreat when Merry Go Round stepped out in the seventh race and made the pace from start to finish.

Among those present on Derby Day will be George Ade, author and long time racing enthusiast. He will be the guest of J. G. Jenks.

Eighteen horses arrived at Washington Park yesterday from Detroit. Gay World was the most noted in the shipment sent here by J. A. Nix and G. P. Morgan of Texas.

Jocky Mack Garner soon will move to the Chicago racing scene from the Latonia track in Kentucky. Garner, plastered with two ten day suspensions for rough riding, has been on the ground most of the Latonia season.

Two year old fillies will get their test in the Homewood purse at Washington Park this afternoon. Most of them were starters last Saturday in the Washington Park Juvenile stakes, won by Joseph E. Widener's Dnieper.

Arlington Has No Connection with Lottery

The Arlington Park Jocky club is not connected with any sweepstakes venture, President Otto W. Lehmann said yesterday upon learning that a lottery on the Arlington Futurity was being conducted and tickets were being sold in Chicago and other cities. "Most of these sweepstakes are bogus and the public should beware of them," Mr. Lehmann added.

Upon completing his check within the next few days of the classifications of horses that will be available for racing at Arlington Park, Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan will issue his program book for the first ten days of the meeting, starting July 1. During this period the features will include the Arlington Inaugural handicap, which will close for entries next week; the Stars and Stripes handicap, and the Lady Rotha stakes.

A majority of the nation's outstanding stables will have representation at Arlington, and McLennan is stressing events for the better classes of horses. "Arlington's policy of $1,000 minimum purses will bring them out," was McLennan's comment yesterday.

McLennan has been instructed by President Lehmann to offer a race over the turf course on alternate days. Turf racing was inaugurated at Arlington Park last summer and proved an immediate hit with public and horsemen alike. Contests over the grass course offered patrons a pleasing diversion from racing over the main track, while numerous trainers found some members of their stables better campaigners over the turf.

NEW YORK PRO ELEVEN SIGNS QUATSE, GONYA

New York, June 18.—(AP)—John V. Mara, president, and Coach Steve Owen of the New York Giants returned today from the National Football league meeting in Chicago with the contracts of two new players. They are Jess Quatse, former tackle at the University of Pittsburgh, and Bob Gonya, 210 pound former Northwestern tackle.

Quatse comes to the Giants in a deal by which the Pittsburgh Pirates will receive Swede Ellstrom from the Philadelphia Eagles and the Giants will send Hank Reese, former Temple center, to the Philadelphia club. Glenn Campbell, veteran end from Emporia, Kas., who did not play last season because of an operation, also will be sent to the Eagles.

PARK DISTRICT OPENS CLASSES IN BASEBALL

V. F. Hernlund, physical activities director for the Chicago Park district, announced yesterday 50 free four-week baseball schools will be in operation in small park recreation centers by July 1. Classes in west side parks started yesterday under the direction of Tommy Rickman of Austin Town Hall. The west side schools are located at Altgeld, Douglas, Franklin, Harrison, Columbus and Union parks.

According to Hernlund the general plan of the baseball schools is to have two sessions a week for four weeks. "A different phase of the games will be considered at each session. There will be sessions on pitching, catching, batting, in and outfielding and base running," he said.

Quinn to Pitch Sunday for House of David Nine

Jack Quinn, former major leaguer, of Muscatine, Ia., will pitch for the House of David club when it meets the Mills in a double header Sunday at Mills stadium. Dave Levin, former University of Chicago star, voted the most valuable player on the Maroon nine this year, will be in center field for the Mills.

DES MOINES DROPS PAIR.

Brisko to Drive Midget Car at Hammond Sunday

Frank Brisko, Milwaukee auto race driver, who deserted small car racing for the 500 Indianapolis race, will return to the miniature sport at the Wolf Lake speedway in Hammond Sunday night. Rain postponed the races scheduled at Wolf lake last Sunday, but Midwest Racing association officials feel the heavy downpours of the last few days will settle the track and make for faster racing. When the track dries out it will be oil treated to eliminate the possibility of annoying dust.

RALPH C., on inside early, came out entering stretch and, closing with fine belated speed, won drawing out. CARDARRONE, a factor from the start and raced wide throughout, worked his way to front under strong riding, but could not hold the winner. ENGELIC MONK, away fast but forced back, was again blocked on stretch turn and closed well when clear.

T. Watts. Went to post at 2:42½. At post 1 minute. Start good for all but Rubans Choice from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

IRISH WAKE, raced wide throughout and a strong factor from the start, quickly wore down the leaders in final eighth and held on well, but just lasted. MABEL KRASA, also forced to race wide and slow to respond, closed boldly and would have headed the winner in another stride. VERY WELL had speed from the start, suffered light interference in final eighth, and faltered when clear.

GIBBY'S CHOICE, under steady restraint the first half mile, raced to VACILLATE quickly in stretch and, shaking him off after a brief tilt, came away rapidly in last sixteenth. VACILLATE had fine speed from the start, saved ground throughout and held on well to last sixteenth before weakening. BYRDINE swerved out sharply soon after the start, raced through on inside on the turn, and was inclined to bear over while holding on well in stretch.

CHARITIES TO GET BULK OF ESTATE OF HENRY WOLF

$1,000,000 Provided for New Jewish Hospital.

Charitable institutions are the principal beneficiaries of the will of Henry M. Wolf, disposing of an estate estimated at $4,000,000, which was made public yesterday before Probate Judge John F. O'Connell.

Mr. Wolf, a veteran Chicago lawyer, died in the Presbyterian hospital on June 4, at the age of 74 years. He was unmarried and was a member of the law firm of Judah, Reichmann, Trumbull, Cox & Stern, which was named to handle the legal affairs of the estate. The will was filed by Attorney Alexander F. Reichmann.

About $500,000 in addition to the personal effects is bequeathed outright to relatives, friends, and employés. Most of the remainder is left in trust for relatives, upon whose death the income or principal will be divided among several institutions.

Provision for Hospital.

One gift of $1,000,000 is held conditionally for the Jewish Charities of Chicago, for the establishment of a nonsectarian hospital north of Chicago, in Cook county, not more than three miles from Lake Michigan. It is to be known as the Jewish Country Hospital and Convalescent home, and is to have an initial endowment of not less than $1,800,000.

To acquire the gift permanently the Jewish Charities, within the 15 years the fund is to be held, must set aside at least $1,250,000 for the hospital, must acquire a site, and must complete plans for the erection and maintenance of the hospital, in which free beds are to be provided. Nonpaying patients at the Michael Reese and Presbyterian hospitals are to be sent to the new hospital in the discretion of the officials of the two older institutions.

Trust Fund for Niece.

One trust fund of $1,200,000 is set aside for Mr. Wolf's niece, Agnes Wolf Stern. The income is to go to her for 15 years or until her death, if it occurs during that period. At the end of the trust period each of Mrs. Stern's children will receive $250,000, and the income from the rest of the principal is to be divided among the Michael Reese hospital, the Visiting Nurses' Association of Chicago, the University of Chicago, and the Jewish charities.

Another trust fund of $300,000 is to be used to pay an annuity of $1,500 to five cousins. They are: Priscilla Wolf, Henry J. Wolf, and Mrs. Benjamin Tuska of New York; Hattie Judas of Allentown, Pa., and Mrs. Jeanette Wolf of Chicago. Upon their death the money will be divided among the Art institute, to buy books and publications; the Chicago Bar association, for the relief of needy members, and the University of Chicago, for three "Moses, Bertha and Albert H. Wolf" scholarships in honor of Mr. Wolf's father, mother and brother, respectively.

Other Sums Allocated.

A third trust fund is set up for Bertha Wolf Raymondaud, daughter of Mr. Wolf's brother, the late Albert. Upon her death each of her children will receive $100,000 and the rest will be divided conditionally among the Jewish Charities, the United Charities of Chicago, and the Michael Reese and Presbyterian hospitals.

Still another trust fund of $250,000 is created for Mr. Wolf's nephew, Walter B. Wolf, upon whose death the income will go to the Jewish Charities, the Visiting Nurse association, the University of Chicago, and the Michael Reese hospital.

Outright bequests in the will include $100,000 each to Agnes Wolf Stern, Bertha Wolf Raymondaud, and Walter B. Wolf; $10,000 jointly to Mrs. Hattie Judas, and Helen and Mattie Bendet of Newark, N. J.; $5,000 each to Isaiah-Israel temple of Chicago, Prof. William E. Dodd, Valerie Dreyfus, and Frederick W. Gookin, and $10,000 to each of four grandnieces and grandnephews.

Remembers All Employés.

Miss Kaufman will receive $50,000 outright, and Jessie Cook and Guy E. Summers, employés of the law firm, will get $10,000 and $15,000, respectively. All persons employed by the law firm prior to last June 11 will get $100 for each year of their service. Each member of the firm also may choose two pictures from Mr. Wolf's collection in his office.

The personal and household effects are left to Agnes Wolf Stern and Mrs. Raymondaud.

AIRMEN CRITICIZE U. S. FINDINGS IN CUTTING TRAGEDY

Blame Faulty Report of Commerce Employe.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Aviation Editor.]

Conclusions considerably different from those reached by the bureau of air commerce accident board and Secretary of Commerce Roper regarding the crash of the TWA airliner and the death of Senator Bronson Cutting of Arizona and four other persons near Atlanta, Mo., on May 6, were reached here yesterday by observers who completed a careful reading of the 907 page transcript of testimony taken in public hearings at Kansas City and Atlanta.

Airmen here, instead of blaming the United States weather bureau and TWA employés, including dispatchers and Pilots Harvey Bolton and Kenneth Reeson, both of whom were killed in the accident, asserted that the crash could be traced directly to an inexplicably erroneous report that good flying conditions existed at the Kirksville, Mo., emergency landing field toward which the airliner was headed when it was wrecked.

Misleading Report Ignored.

Flyers here declared that failure of either the accident board or Secretary Roper to mention the misleading report that lured the airplane to destruction was strange. They pointed out, however, that the inaccurate record of the Kirksville weather on the morning of the crash was transmitted to the weather bureau at Kansas City and to TWA employés by a bureau of air commerce employé at the emergency field.

The evidence substantiates the following statement of the accident board: that "Pilot Bolton, flying blind through clouds, headed toward the directional radio marker at Kirksville and, confronted with a limited fuel supply and an inoperative two-way radio, brought his plane down under the clouds upon nearing Kirksville in an apparent attempt to complete the remaining distance with the ground in view.

"On breaking through the clouds the pilot found a low ceiling with occasional mist and light to moderate fog. From the evidence of witnesses on the ground it is known that just before the accident the aircraft flew a distance of at least two miles at a very low altitude over slightly rolling terrain.

Safety Signal Flashed.

"During this time the passengers were given the signal, by means of a lighted sign in the cabin, to fasten their seat belts. Almost immediately thereafter the pilot, following the contour of the ground, directed the path of the plane down into a depression.

"In a turn to avoid fog collected in this depression the left wing of the plane dragged into the ground, throwing the plane out of control and into a road bank about 100 feet beyond. This point is 16 miles south of the department of commerce intermediate landing field at Kirksville."

Other findings of fact, such as the position of propellers in high pitch, landing gear retracted, flaps "up" and switches in "on" position, indicating the plane was at cruising speed when it struck, also are verified.

Real Reasons Cited.

In the opinion of those who read the transcript these findings entirely ignore the real reasons for the airplane being in the precarious situation it was just before the crash. Blame for the accident, if it is to be placed, they say, should be placed upon the individuals responsible for putting the airplane, its crew and passengers, into a set of circumstances in which only a miracle could have averted the wreck.

S. D. Welsh, superintendent of the western region for TWA, and John Dugan, meteorologist for the company, both of whom were on duty at the Kansas City field the night of the accident, in their testimony repeatedly explained why Bolton was sent toward Kirksville.

Both men said that "the ceiling just dropped out of the sky" about 2:25 o'clock the morning of the 6th. Bolton was due over Kansas City about 2:36, they said. At that time he would have about 120 gallons of gasoline left in his tanks.

Landing Attempt Futile.

They believed he spent from 18 to 24 minutes making an attempt to land at the Kansas City airport where the ceiling was between 300 and 400 feet and visibility ranging from a mile to a mile and a quarter. When he abandoned this unsuccessful attempt, they said, he probably had enough gasoline in his tanks to carry him 168 miles, or 40 miles beyond Kirksville.

While Bolton was attempting his landing, Dugan was checking alternate fields toward which they could direct him by radio. They picked Kirksville because it seemed to be the closest open field. In the 2:42 o'clock weather report that morning, they said, Kirksville reported: "Ceiling 7,000 feet with broken overcast at 1,200 feet and visibility 5 miles."

Dugan testified he doubted this report and telephoned to the Kirksville field and spoke there with a man named Jacobs, a field attendant who was a department of commerce employé. This man reported about 2:50 a. m., Dugan said, that ceiling was 5,000 feet with broken clouds at 4,000 and 5 mile visibility.

On the basis of that telephone conversation messages were broadcast to Bolton to head for Kirksville. These messages were sent continuously from about 2:50 to 3:15 a. m.

The transcript contains about 100 pages of testimony by farmers who saw the big Douglas DC2 airliner when Pilot Bolton brought it through the clouds near Kirksville in an effort to find the field. They all testified the ceiling was "about 200 feet" with patches of fog and mist even lower. This was the "good weather" he found too late, with his gasoline supply too low to turn back.

Readers of the transcript say it is strange that "Jacobs" was not called before the accident board. He never appeared before the investigators and apparently there was no attempt upon the part of the board to summon him.

Dwell on Radio Fault.

The accident board was preoccupied with the disclosure that Bolton's transmitters on both day and night frequency had failed him before he reached Kansas City from Albuquerque, N. M., his previous stop.

Tests of the radio equipment found in the wreckage of the plane, according to experts who testified at the hearings, proved that Bolton had been able to receive all radio messages sent to him during the flight. The receivers, battered in the crash, still were found to be operating.

Pilots say his fate would have been no different if he had been able to hold perfect communication with the ground.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For the fellow who is always howling because he finds nothing worth listening to on the air, here's a chance to register a kick that will do some good. A radio testing laboratory has been set up by Henri, Hurst & McDonald, Chicago advertising agency, on W-G-N with the view of ascertaining audience reaction to radio entertainment and advertising. Through a 1-minute program at 6:45 o'clock Sunday evenings, Joe Du Mond, new radio director of the agency, who is also a well known radio singer, dramatic actor and writer, is seeking to find out what the public wants and why.

This program is unprecedented in several ways. So far as is known it is the first in which an advertising agency is a commercial sponsor, paying the regular rates for time. And it is the first time that a radio program has been built with the specific view of ascertaining listening habits and preferences. This agency handles, among other radio accounts, the one featuring Bob Becker's dog chats. It recently completed a series presenting Mrs. Roosevelt.

Through this new laboratory program Mr. Du Mond will seek answers to such questions as: What does the public want. . . . music, comedy, drama, public service, education? To whom does the public want to listen? How long should a program be? What is the best hour for a certain type of program? How frequently should an advertiser go on the air?

Other questions that will be asked: Why do you buy? What kind of advertising is most effective so far as your buying habits are concerned? What kind of commercial copy appeals to you—the kidding stuff Jack Benny and Ed Wynn go in for? Dramatized incidents such as are used on the Fred Waring show? Or straight, hard hitting sales talk? For those who send in most illuminating answers there will be substantial prizes.

In addition Joe Du Mond sings songs to the accompaniment of Len Salvo, organist, and James Higgins, a character who suggests both Seth Parker and Tony Wons, dispenses good cheer and friendly philosophy.

Father Coughlin, the radio priest, has discontinued his Sunday midnight radio series and will be off the air until October. . . . Jean Paul King, Chicago free lance announcer, has gone to New York. He will continue introducing Clara, Lu, 'n' Em from the east and is also heard on Music at the Haydns, the House of Glass, and Minute Mysteries. . . . Alex McQueen is back on WBBM-CBS at 5:15 Tuesdays and Thursdays with his feature, "Nothing but the Truth."

Bill Thompson, Greek impersonator and all round funny man, is returning to the cast of the Hoofinghams, heard at 10:45 p. m. over WMAQ-NBC. . . . Beginning next Tuesday at 10:15 a. m. and also on Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, Wendell Hall will broadcast from Radio City studios for several weeks. . . . John Weigel, who yesterday joined the local CBS announcing staf, has just been graduated from Ohio State university. He was an announcer at WAIU at Columbus as an undergraduate and distinguished himself in football and track while on the campus

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 18.—A distinctly firm tone ruled in the general bond market today. Utility holding company bonds were in strong demand today as Washington dispatches continued to convey hope that the federal legislation would meet stiff opposition in the house.

Market observers recalled that similar firmness in utility bonds prevailed last week almost on the eve of passage of the senate bill. That rise in bonds reflected a belief, current at the moment, that the bill would be materially softened. Actually, the measure as finally passed was more drastic than the original draft.

Gets Other Support.

Today's market derived some comfort from another quarter, as far as utility bonds are concerned. The compromise TVA bill proposes to limit and direct the activities of that body.

Treasury issues were exceptionally quiet, on the exchange and in the outside market, but most issues showed slight gains.

Second grade and speculative railroad bonds were irregular on the receipt of conflicting news on the subject of reorganizations. Declines of more than a point were recorded in some obligations of Southern Pacific and Nickle Plate.

Reach New Highs for Year.

Cleveland Terminal 5s and Louisville and Arkansas first 5s, were bid up to a new high for the year. International Telephone issues were firm. Kelly Springfield 6s were freely offered and declined sharply. Bush Terminal consolidated 5s were strong.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today. More sales of wide goods for mechanical uses were reported this week. Finished lines sold in small lots for quick shipment. Rayon fancies were in better demand from mills. Hosiery mills are buying raw silk lightly, but broadsilk weavers are buying better. Wool goods were firm with dress worsteds in better call for fall cutting. Burlaps ruled firm.

Fairbanks, Morse.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give us your report on Fairbanks, Morse & Co.?—G. D. M.

Answer: Fairbanks, Morse & Co. is a hundred year old Chicago manufacturer of a varied line of products. Its oldest product is scales, but it now is a leading manufacturer of Diesel engines, and also turns out electrical equipment, pumps, power engines, stokers, water supply equipment, radios, and railroad supplies. It does an international business.

Improvement in all divisions, especially Diesel engines, during 1934, with the exception of the railroad scale branch, enabled the company to report its first profit in four years, although prior to 1931 the company had an excellent record of earnings. The four year record follows:

	Net sales.	Net loss.	Loss per com. shr.
1934	$12,551,000	*$ 564,000	*$ .28
1933	8,908,000	1,147,000	4.36
1932	8,585,000	2,547,000	8.16
1931	15,618,000	5,168,000	15.18

On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets, including cash of $3,064,000, totaled $12,527,000 and current liabilities were $1,506,000. Funded debt was $5,634,000, down about $400,000 from the year before.

There are outstanding 65,657 shares of 7 per cent cumulative $100 par preferred and 368,863 shares of no par common stock. Nothing has been paid on the preferred since Dec. 1, 1931. Accumulations were $24.50 a share on June 1, 1935, a total of about $1,641,000.

The preferred is speculative and the common more so.

Canadian Pacific Railway.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly tell me if Canadian Pacific railway 5 per cent bonds, due 1954, are sound? Thank you in advance.—Mrs. W. L. A.

Answer: This $30,000,000 issue of bonds is secured by deposit of $37,500,000 4 per cent consolidated debenture stock. The bonds are considered sound in view of the record of the company in covering fixed charges in each of the last five years, its favorable capital setup, good current position, and moderate capitalization.

The bonds are not callable until Dec. 1, 1939. From then until Dec. 1, 1944, they are callable on 60 days' notice at 104, the call price decreasing as maturity date approaches.

Holland Furnace.

Investors' Guide: Please send me the address of Holland Furnace.—M. M. M.

INSURANCE PLAN MIGHT CLOSE 20 TO 30 BANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 18.—Between 20 and 30 banks holding several million dollars in deposits might be forced to close and liquidate if the so-called "permanent" federal deposit insurance system is allowed to go into effect July 1, officials admitted today.

Depositors in the score or more weak banks would not suffer any large loss, however, because all of the banks are in the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation on a "temporary" basis, and the FDIC will have to make good each deposit up to a maximum of $5,000. The banks involved are too weak to qualify for "permanent" insurance.

Plan to Avoid Crisis.

A new plan to avoid this banking crisis by postponing "permanent" insurance was being worked out today, however. At present the administration banking bill, which repeals the "permanent" insurance plan and would thus dissolve the banking troubles, is stymied in the senate banking committee because of certain sections giving the New Deal increased powers over the federal reserve system.

The new plan is to compromise on these controversial sections of the bill, bring the measure out for senate consideration early next week, and seek to pass it before the end of the month, thus repealing the "permanent deposit insurance which otherwise, under existing law, would take effect automatically July 1.

Have Additional Program.

If this last minute drive to get the entire banking bill through congress in time appears in danger of breaking down, a joint resolution will be pushed through independently postponing the effective date of the "permanent" insurance. There is a possible hitch even in this scheme, however, because some obstreperous senator might filibuster against the resolution.

The compromise which the administration leaders hope will clear up objections to the federal reserve sections of the bill and thus enable the passage of the entire measure, including those sections repealing the "permanent" FDIC plan, has two main points.

First, the open market committee will be made up of six federal reserve board members and either four or five federal reserve governors with the secretary of the treasury and the controler of the currency off the board. Second, the reserve board's power to increase reserve requirements would be limited to 25 per cent.

Sends Out Warnings.

Because this compromise and a last minute joint resolution may fail to pass, and because "permanent" deposit insurance would go into effect on July 1, the FDIC has sent out warnings to all the 6,442 banks in the federal reserve system telling them they must have their solvency certified to and must buy class A stock in the FDIC before July 1, as required by the "permanent" plan, in order to guard against eventualities. Otherwise receivers would have to be appointed for them on July 1.

The 20 or 30 banks which may have to close are in this group. Their solvency cannot be certified to by the controler of the currency. Thus they would be thrown into receivership, and the FDIC will have to make good each deposit up to $5,000. The total deposits involved are estimated between 10 and 25 million dollars.

Banks Are "Given Up."

These banks are definitly the "culls" and have been "given up" by the administration. Even though a postponement of the "permanent" insurance plan might save them temporarily the FDIC feels that eventually it might have to take them over.

In addition to the 6,442 federal reserve member banks, there are in the FDIC at present 7,800 state banks which are not members of the federal reserve system. Their solvency does not have to be passed upon again, but they must subscribe for FDIC stock before July 1 or be ejected from the insurance fund under the "permanent" plan.

The senate banking subcommittee considering the administration banking bill today virtually completed revision of the title III, making scores of technical changes in the national banking laws. It then recessed until Thursday when Chairman Glass returns from New England before proceeding with the main section of the bill, which transfers control of the nation's credit from private to public hands.

Acting Chairman Bulkley [Dem., Ohio] denied reports that the bill would be abandoned unless President Roosevelt brought pressure to bear on the senate. "No one on the committee had agreed to such a course," he said. "What we have agreed to do is to take up title II, and see what agreement we can reach."

American Rolling Mill Plans $3,500,000 Plant

Middletown, O., June 18.—(AP)—Calvin Verity, vice president of the American Rolling Mill company, announced today plans of the concern to erect a $3,500,000 cold reducing mill here. The mill is intended to produce steel sheets up to approximately 72 inches in width. Verity said it was planned to meet the needs of the automotive industry.

New Dealers Burn in Heat Put on Banks

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Heat which the New Dealers have been applying to the bankers of the nation to get them to submit willingly to the radical provisions of the administration's omnibus banking bill is now scorching the New Dealers themselves.

At first the New Dealers were confident that opponents of the banking bill, in congress and out, would grudgingly assent to its passage before July 1, because the authors of the bill had cunningly tied in with the things the bankers did not want, a few things that they did want a great deal—notably the modification of the deposit guaranty plan.

* *

Now they have suddenly discovered that the bankers are not as worried about the deposit guaranty scheme as are they, the New Dealers, themselves. Hence the sudden and frantic move in Washington to provide for the amendment of the guaranty plan even if such legislation has to be separated from the rest of the banking bill.

The omnibus banking bill is well named. "Omnibus," freely translated from the Latin, means "all." The bill is a big carryall for the things that the administration wants to do to the banks and to money and credit. Its provisions are so many and varied that even financial experts do not pretend to grasp all its implications.

The provisions dearest to the hearts of the New Dealers are those which tighten the politicians' grasp on the banks and facilitate increased borrowing from the banks by the government.

Knowing that there would be strenuous opposition to this attempt to grab complete control of the country's banking and credit, the authors of the bill cleverly bound up with the things they demand the things that the banks themselves want and need. The bitter had to be taken with the sweet.

* *

The most important item of the legislation desired by the banks was the modifying of the guaranty of deposit scheme. Under the provisions of the 1933 banking legislation which established the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation the guaranty of deposits was to advance in two stages. The first, or temporary stage, was a $2,500 maximum guaranty for each depositor [later expanded to a $5,000 maximum, now in force]. The second, or permanent stage, called for extending the deposit insurance so that all deposits of $10,000 or less should be covered 100 per cent, those from $10,000 to $50,000 by 75 per cent, and all deposits of more than $50,000 by 50 per cent.

Practically all banking experts, even among the New Dealers, soon discovered that the "permanent" plan was financially unsound and dangerous, and last year the temporary plan was extended by act of congress to July 1, 1935. According to the original act, it was to have gone into force a year earlier.

Now the bugbear of the "permanent" plan is coming up again. Unless congress takes further action between now and July 1 the "permanent" plan automatically would go into effect on that date. The banking bill contains a provision which virtually would make the present "temporary" plan the permanent plan. The administration thought that this would insure passage of the banking bill by July 1.

But the opposition has not been deterred by this ruse. It has stood pat. Hence, it now appears that the administration will either have to consent to separating the deposit guaranty legislation from the rest of the banking bill or give way on some of the other provisions of the bill to prevent the dangerous permanent plan automatically going into effect July 1.

REGISTRATION REQUIREMENTS ARE EASED AGAIN

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Further modifying amendments to form A-2 for the registration of securities under the securities act of 1933 by seasoned corporations were adopted today by the Securities and Exchange commission. This is the simplified form prepared after many corporations had complained that the tremendous amount of data previously required made filing impractical and expensive.

The latest amendments make the form available for use by any corporation filing profit and loss statements for three years, if it has furnished financial statements to its security holders annually for ten years, or has shown a net income for any two of the last five years.

The exception is made, however, that a corporation may not use the form if it was organized within ten years and issued a majority of its capital stock, or paid more than one-half of the proceeds thereof, to promoters for property or services.

WARNS CANADA AGAINST UNTRIED ECONOMIC PLANS

Canton, N. Y., June 18.—(AP)—A general warning against untried national experiments was voiced tonight by Fred I. Kent, director of the Bankers Trust company, New York, before the first unofficial conference on Canadian-American affairs.

The reference came after the speaker had referred to the "unfortunate political forces that are prevalent today as a phenomenon of the times, and from which we [the United States] have not been able to escape ourselves.

"There is one important phase of the situation that should have the concentrated attention of all nations," Kent said. "That is, that no country should imitate or put into force any of the experiments that might be undertaken by any other country unless and until they have proved their soundness and their worth through actual operation."

J. Courtland Elliott, economist of A. E. Ames & Co. of Toronto, made a strong plea for revision of the United States securities act of 1933.

STOCKS CLIMB AGAIN DESPITE LIGHTER BUYING

Rail Section Shows Most Strength.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 18.—Cheerfulness was again the watchword of operations on the stock exchange. Buying continued highly selective and leading industrial issues were not greatly changed on the whole, but the market's performance was roundly encouraging to the bull contingent. Dealings fell to 885,430 shares, or considerably below the total of the previous session.

Railroad shares made about the most impressive group showing under the leadership of such high grade issues as Union Pacific, Atchison, New York Central, and Delaware and Hudson, all of which were marked up a point or so. Demand for the shares of this division was quite pronounced for a while in the early trading and again toward the close.

Utilities Gain Slightly.

Growing belief in the "street" that the house will put through a utility bill without the "death penalty," thus forcing the issue back to the senate, promoted some fresh demand for light and power descriptions although the net gains were generally fractional. Utilities Power and Light was conspicuously active and Public Service of New Jersey achieved a new high on a slight advance.

The liquors, which a week or two ago presented gloomy forebodings over the trend to price cutting, advanced fractionally on rather quiet dealings.

Special constructive attention was given to a number of miscellaneous stocks, including some of the truck, building, and machine company equities. New highs were established by American Can, du Pont, Woolworth, and Tobacco "B" on gains generally held within a point. Reports of better earnings for cigaret manufacturing companies helped the tobacco shares.

Fertilizer Shares Stronger.

Some interest was taken in the fertilizer shares. Earnings last year were good and the AAA program has encouraged the use of crop stimulants. American Agricultural Chemical and the various classes of Virginia Carolina Chemical rose 1 to 3 points.

A mild demonstration of strength was made in the motor shares but it did not get far. Briggs Manufacturing, Young Spring, and Kelsey Hayes scored new price peaks.

Irregularity was the order most of the day in the oil, metal, and food groups. The newly listed Cleveland Graphite Bronze advanced nearly 2 points to a new high, but eased from its best figure before the close. Merchandise issues were well liked.

N. Y. CENTRAL LINK SOUGHT BY GREYHOUND BUS

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—The Greyhound corporation, holding company for highway omnibus companies operating in many parts of the country, has submitted to the New York Central railroad a plan for coördinated passenger transport. Under the plan the New York Central would purchase full or part control of the eastern Greyhound Lines, Inc., of Delaware, which operates lines from Chicago and Cleveland to New York and other points.

The omnibus company would provide highway service to replace branch line trains and local main line trains where this would prove economical to the railway. The service of the New York Central in the New York region would be unaffected by the plan.

Given regulation highway omnibus service would prove more attractive to railroad managements than is the case now, with highway rates determined by competition from many sources, it is contended in railroad circles.

The Greyhound corporation has contracts such as are sought from the New York Central with several other railroads. The Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc., operating from Chicago and St. Louis to Washington, Philadelphia, and New York, is jointly owned by the holding company and the Pennsylvania railroad. It is also reported to be negotiating with the Santa Fe.

AVIATION CORP. GIVES DETAILS ON STOCK SPLITUP

Details of the distribution of American Airlines, Inc., and Canadian Colonial Airways, Inc., stock to Aviation corporation stockholders were announced yesterday by the corporation.

Under the plan, which was approved at the last annual meeting, the holder of each present share of $5 par Aviation corporation stock will be entitled to receive on July 1, 1935, one new share of $3 par stock of Aviation corporation, one share of American Airlines, Inc., stock for each ten shares of Aviation corporation held and one share of Canadian Colonial Airways, Inc., stock for each twenty shares of Aviation corporation stock.

"Rebel" Runs 762 Miles at $17 Fuel Cost

With an expenditure of $17.08 for fuel, the Rebel, first streamlined train destined for operation in the south, arrived in Chicago last night after completing a 762 mile run over tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad, from shops of the American Car and Foundry company in Berwick, Pa.

This Diesel powered train, which will be placed in operation between New Orleans and Jackson, Miss., by the Gulf, Mobile and Northern railroad, will be the first of the motor driven high speed trains which may be broken up for separate operation in accordance with standard procedure.

The train, a four car unit, which completed the run to Chicago at an average fuel cost of 2.2 cents per mile, is geared for more than 100 miles per hour, according to F. M. Hicks, executive vice president, but greatest results from installation of the new equipment, he said, will result from improved acceleration over the 488 mile run between New Orleans and Jackson, which includes 25 intermediate stops.

Cost Is $350,000.

The Rebel is the first section of two trains which were built with money furnished by the Public Works administration. This four car unit, which will be on exhibition at the Union station here today and tomorrow, will be supplemented by a three car train. Total cots of the two units will be approximately $350,000.

Sleeping cars in the train are air condtioned through ducts in the permanent partitions between sections. Separate currents of air are provided for upper and lower berths. Both berths and seats are lighted by adjustable spotlights.

Use Rubber to Deaden Noise.

Compartments are built-in for hand luggage. Each coach is finished in a different color, with metal parts in satin aluminum. Trucks and all moving parts are cushioned in rubber to deaden noise and vibration. One coach has reclining seats and a buffet.

A sleeping-observation car has six sleeping sections and a stateroom. A six cylinder, 660 horse power Alcotype McIntosh & Seymour Diesel engine with Westinghouse drive provides the power.

At no time during yesterday's run did the train exceed 80 miles per hour. Officials explained that speed was not paramount in operation of the Rebel because of departure and arrival times between the two points to be served.

COMMONWEALTH EDISON REPORTS 20% GAIN IN MAY

Commonwealth Edison company yesterday reported a net income of $576,498 for May, compared with a net of $482,136 in May, 1934, an increase of $94,362, or almost 20 per cent. Gross revenues for the month amounted to $6,314,469, compared with $6,031,402 a year ago.

For the first five months of the year net operating income totaled $4,501,184, compared with $3,819,387 in the corresponding period of 1934. Gross revenues for the period were $33,286,495, compared with $31,795,010.

Net income figures for 1934 do not include the 2 per cent sales tax and allocation for certain adjustments. Directors yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the outstanding capital stock, payable Aug. 1 to stock of record July 15.

INCOME TAXES MAY BE $60,000,000 ABOVE ESTIMATE

Washington, D. C., June 18.—(AP)—Income tax returns today indicated a possible bounce of $60,000,000 above January budget estimates for the financial year ending June 30. For the 12 month period President Roosevelt forecast income tax payments of $1,050,000,000. On June 15 $930,836,524 had been collected.

But the treasury estimate of total June collections on the basis of the first 15 days was $272,000,000. Thus far only $85,425,413 actually has reached the cash till, although large sums are in the hands of collectors. If the remaining $186,574,587 of the estimate comes in as expected, the year's total would reach $1,117,411,000.

June is the month of second quarter instalment payments on 1934 incomes.

DEMANDS RFC RULE OF BRITISH UTILITY CONCERNS BE ENDED

London, June 18.—(AP)—Thomas Levy, conservative member of parliament, said tonight that he would demand in the house of commons tomorrow that Premier Stanley Baldwin introduce legislation to free various "statutory undertakings" in Great Britain from the control of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of the United States and, indirectly, from the partial control of a foreign government."

Levy, serving notice of his intention, stated that the RFC had taken over the management of the Public Utilities Securities corporation "and this latter corporation, through various subsidiaries, controls many statutory undertakings in the United Kingdom." The company controls a number of utility concerns.

News to Jones.

Washington, D. C., June 18.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, said today reports from London that efforts would be made in parliament to free the English companies controled by the Public Utilities Securities corporation from "partial control of a foreign government" was the first word he had of such a move.

It was learned elsewhere, however, that Harley Clarke of Chicago, who formerly headed Utilities Power and Light, had been negotiating for the sale of the English properties.

The RFC obtained control of the Clarke utilities system came through a loan of $2,000,000 which Clarke obtained form the Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago four years ago, the note for which was pledged with the Reconstruction corporation as part of the security for the $90,000,000 loan made to the Dawes bank in 1932.

BOOKS CLOSED ON CASH OFFERS FOR LAND BONDS

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—Cash subscriptions for that portion of the $239,000,000 issue of 3 per cent federal land bank bonds offered today were so heavy that books were closed almost immediately upon opening, Charles R. Dunn, fiscal agent, announced today.

He stated, however, that books on the exchange offering probably would be kept open throughout the day. Subscriptions on a cash basis were of such proportions that dealers here were satisfied that allotments would probably would be scaled down to little more than a 5 per cent basis.

In other words, a dealer subscribing for $1,000,000 of the bonds would do well, it was said, to secure a final allotment of $50,000. The bonds today were ruling at a premium of ½ to ⅝ above the offering price.

The funds obtained by the sale of the bonds, combined with cash already on hand, will be used to call an issue of $269,020,440 of 4½ per cent bonds of the individual banks on July 1.

WINTERFRONT CO. TO DISCONTINUE SOME OF LINES

Benjamin F. Stein, who assumed the presidency of the Pines Winterfront company a month ago, yesterday informed stockholders at the annual meeting that some lines will be discontinued and that the firm will concentrate on manufacturing its heavier products, including winterfronts for automobiles and trucks. Mr. Stein said that he has been doing some "housecleaning" in the last few weeks. The making of several new products is under consideration, but still is in the "conversational stage."

All directors were reelected and the board renamed the present officers.

For the fiscal year ended April 30, 1935, an operating loss of $11,838 was shown, compared with $15,809 the preceding twelve months. Heavy special charges carried net operating loss down to $183,638 compared with $53,477 the preceding year. Net loss, after depreciation, was $263,089 or 85 cents a share, as against $80,969 or 26 cents a share the preceding year.

State Building Totals in May Exceed 1934

BY AL CHASE.

Building throughout Illinois for the month of May increased 20.2 per cent in number of permits and 37.8 per cent in dollar cost as compared with the same month last year. The summary of prospective building operations, made public yesterday by the Illinois department of labor, based on reports from sixty-five cities, shows a decrease of 30.2 per cent in cost and 2.9 per cent in number of permits during May as compared with April of this year.

There were 1,608 permits issued during May of this year as compared with 1,656 during April. The estimated cost of these projects for May, 1935, was $2,798,000, as compared with $4,008,000 for April. In May, 1934, there were 1,338 permits issued calling for work costing $2,030,000.

Although the April-May comparisons for this year are not encouraging as a whole, an analysis shows several optimistic features. The dollar value of new residential building increased 3.6 per cent, and additions, alterations, repairs, and installations gained 27.5 per cent. Nonresidential building decreased 61.8 per cent.

Permits were issued during May for 97 new residential buildings, containing 102 dwelling units, as compared with 114 buildings with 116 units during April.

Dollar Volume Drops.

In Chicago building construction in dollar cost declined 23.8 per cent in May as compared with April, or from $2,207,000 to $1,681,000. Chicago permits dropped from 559 to 524. May totals for Chicago, compared with the same month last year, were a few less in number, but considerably greater in dollar value.

Residential building in Chicago showed a gain in dollar value of 17.9 per cent in May as contrasted with April, and a 102.2 per cent increase in additions, alterations, repairs, and installations. In nonresidential construction a loss of 59.6 per cent was registered.

OIL JOBBERS ASK PROBE OF LARGE COMPANY PRICES

Washington, D. C., June 18.—(AP)—Asserting independent gasoline and oil jobbers "are being squeezed out," a delegation of the National Oil Marketers association today asked Attorney General Cummings to "investigate the major oil companies to determine whether they are fixing prices for gasoline in violation of the anti-trust laws."

The delegation handed Cummings a resolution which said the "operating margin allowed jobbers, distributors, and wholesalers of petroleum products have been gradually and drastically reduced" and "there are possibilities of secret agreements existing between refiners and producers, which are in violation of the anti-trust laws."

Meanwhile Secretary Ickes said he would seek a deficiency appropriation to continue the oil administration after its funds are exhausted on June 30.

Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 80,750 barrels in the week ended June 15, totaling 2,724,050 barrels, the American Petroleum institute announced today.

Lira Crashes to New Low in Paris Market

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 18.—The confidence of European financiers in the solidity of the Fascist régime in Italy as measured by foreign exchange rates on the lira touched a new low today as the lira dropped on the Paris money market to 1.2455 francs, corresponding to a depreciation of 3 per cent from the par value of Italian currency.

This depreciation is not significant in itself, since Italy for all practical purposes suspended the gold standard last December, therefore the exchanges quoted in Paris, where hardly any actual transactions in lire take place, are arbitrary, like those of the German mark.

Control Fails to Halt Fall.

What strikes financial observers, however, is that the lira, unlike the mark, which remains stable at its fictitious exchange rate, has been steadily falling, despite the Draconian exchange restrictions applied by Fascist authorities.

On June 13 the lira hit a record low and hung there several days. Yesterday it fell again and today dropped even more sharply, although it recovered a bit toward the close.

Cite National Troubles.

The conservative financial paper, Information, which, like all the semi-official French press, is very cautious about handling anything unfavorable to France's ally, Italy, carries a long pessimistic article inspired by the fall of the lira, saying significantly that "unlike the crises of the belga and the franc, the difficulties of the lira are not due to external attacks, but are national in character."

Information attributes the weakness of the lira to preparations for the Ethiopian war coming at a time when Italian finances are in a bad way through the piling up of deficits.

Brazilian Milreis at New Low.

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—Leading foreign currencies closed higher against the dollar in trading here today. After reaching a new record low of 5.30 cents during the day the Brazilian milreis closed at a nominal quotation above yesterday. Gold bloc currencies and pound sterling were slightly improved and the Italian lire showed a gain of 2⅝ points to close at 8.25¾ cents.

French francs were up ⅜ point at 6.61 cents, reducing the value of the dollar against francs to $1.0035 from $1.0041 yesterday. Based on the old parity of the franc the dollar was down to 59.27 cents, compared with 59.30 cents yesterday.

Gold Still Leaves France.

Heavier purchases of gold in London today suggested that money is still leaving France, although the outflow has been definitly checked as the result of the support given the franc by the United States treasury stabilization fund.

Swiss francs gained 1 point at 32.70 cents and Dutch guilders rose 6 points to 67.93 cents. The pound closed at $4.93⅛, up ½ cent for the day.

The record low in the milreis was reached about the same time that July Santos coffee futures sold at 7.30 cents a pound, the lowest since April, 1932, but coffee also recovered later with the milreis.

Pressure on the milreis was not severe, it was stated, and the slump was attributed more to the demand for other currencies than to any active offering of the Brazilian monetary unit.

TWO MORE BIG PACKERS PLAN TO REFINANCE

Wilson and Cudahy Seek Interest Cut.

Plans for refinancing by two more of the big packing companies became known yesterday. Thomas E. Wilson, president of Wilson & Co., announced that the company will redeem its present funded debt of approximately $17,000,000 through the issuance of a new bond issue of $20,000,000 which will be offered about Aug. 1.

E. A. Cudahy, president of the Cudahy Packing company, said that stockholders of the company will be asked to give directors authority to negotiate for the refinancing of two bond outstanding issues amounting to $17,000,000.

Other Packers Refinance.

Swift & Co., largest packing concern, recently refunded $43,000,000 of outstanding debt, and Armour & Co. is now completing details of a program calling for the retirement of $42,214,000 of present bonds and the marketing of a new $43,000,000 issue bearing lower interest rate.

The Wilson issues to be retired are $16,222,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent bonds of the parent concern, due in 1941, and $893,000 of 5 per cent subsidiary company bonds.

The interest rate on the new $20,000,000 refunding issue will "not exceed 4 per cent," Wilson said. Stockholders will be asked to authorize a total issue of $30,000,000, with $10,000,000 remaining unissued at present, Wilson said.

May Call Meeting July 20.

A special meeting of stockholders will probably be called for July 20 to pass on the plans. The company expects to file registration papers on the new issue with the Securities and Exchange commission on July 5.

According to plans, Wilson said, the present outstanding bonds will be called Oct. 1. Notice must be given eight weeks in advance of the redemption date. The call price on the parent company bonds is 107½ while the subsidiary issue may be redeemed at 103.

The maturity of the new bond issue, which will be a first lien with a sinking fund provision, has not been definitly fixed. Wilson said that the plans call for an issue running at least 20 years.

Field, Glore & Co. and Edward B. Smith & Co. will head the banking syndicate which will market the new bonds.

May Have $25,000,000 Issue.

The Cudahy financing plans are not as far advanced as those of Wilson. President Cudahy said the company may issue up to $25,000,000 of new bonds.

The two issues to be retired are $10,600,000 of 5½ per cent debentures maturing in 1937 and $6,400,000 of 5 per cent first mortgage bonds due in 1946. If funds in excess of the maturing issues are raised they will be used for working capital and possible expansion, it is understood.

The Champion Coated Paper company of Ohio was also listed as a new financing prospect, in the amount of $11,000,000. Directors will soon call a meeting of stockholders to consider refunding the debt of the two companies with a single issue, it is said.

Reports from Los Angeles indicated that the Associated Telephone company's directors were considering the refunding of $8,500,000 first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, series A.

The story of Chicago's live stock industry is a story of astonishing achievement . . . of growth and expansion that is still going on.

Only two generations ago, Chicago meat products were sold largely to local trade. Today, Chicago packers are shipping their products to all parts of the world. Latest available figures set their output for a single twelve-month period at $450,000,000. Tonnage increased 13% over the previous year.

Paralleling the growth of this industry, has been that of Live Stock National Bank. For 67 years it has been located in the Union Stock Yard. For 67 years it has shared the activity and aided in the development of the live stock industry.

And in common with the industry it was founded to serve, Live Stock National set new records of achievement during recent years in spite of economic changes.

Significant of the bank's progressive policies and really helpful service is the fact that today thousands of firms and corporations outside the live stock industry have found it advantageous to establish banking connections here.

UNCLE SAM, AS COLLECTION MAN, DUNS 105,911

Has Debt Claims Totaling $449,129,124.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—(AP)—The United States government as a unique collection agency was disclosed today to have debt claims of $449,129,124 outstanding.

The amount is owed by 105,911 persons. The average business organization would list the sum as bad debt, despair of collecting it, wipe it off the books, and probably go out of business with the debt.

By and large, the sum is not what a banker might call quick assets. But by slow and tedious processes the government is collecting it. At the present rate of collection it will take something over 400 years to bring it all in.

For the sum comes about through putting together the claims and debts to the government, big and little, of various kinds that the regular departments have not been able to collect.

How Debts Originate.

A man does not pay his income tax. The bureau of internal revenue, failing to collect, reports the matter to the records section of Controler General J. R. McCarl's office. A contractor, doing work or selling goods to the government, is overpaid. A reclamation settler falls behind with his water rent payments.

All these and dozens of other debts, little and big, go down on cards in the filing cases at the controler general's office. The amounts range from $10 to $11,000,000.

When the debt is first reported to the controler general, requests for payment are sent out in the same way any other business would. Failing collection this way, federal officials on the ground look into the situation. If necessary, they bring suit.

Lingers in Files.

Then at any time in the future, if the individual or concern owing the money presents a claim to the government, obtains a contract from it, or receives any money from it, the transaction is checked against the debt and the amount deducted before payment is made.

There are upward of a hundred open accounts on the books now—persons who are paying five dollars a month, twenty dollars a month, or more to clear away old claims.

CORN EXCHANGE BANK SHARES ARE REGISTERED

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—Application to the SEC by the Corn Exchange Bank Trust company for registration on the New York Stock exchange of 750,000 shares of $20 par value capital stock has been ordered effective immediately by the commission.

Monsanto Chemical company's application for registration of 3,333 shares of $10 par value common, unissued, was ordered effective upon official notice of issuance, unless the date of official issuance is prior to the effective date of the registration statement filed under the securities act of 1933.

The committee on stick list announced the addition of 10,139 shares of $10 par value common and 5,760 no par common of Monsanto.

Other registrations ordered immediately effective were issues of Wisconsin Central Railway company, Mobile and Ohio Railroad company, seven stocks already issued, and one unissued by the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville Railway company. The unissued stock may be registered as soon as issued.

The Louisiana Oil and Refining Oil corporation has notified the New York Stock exchange that it will not register its common and preferred stock. The action is taken by order of Judge Ben C. Dawkins of the United States District court for the western district of Louisiana.

PRICES OF CORN, WHEAT ADVANCE MORE THAN CENT

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The interplay of a variety of influences yesterday brought about a further rise in wheat and other grains in the Chicago market. At its closing price of 81⅞ cents a bushel, July wheat, the principal future, was selling 1⅝ cents above Monday's level, while the corresponding future in corn was 1⅝ cents higher at 82 cents a bushel.

Weather conditions over the grain belt and the steep upturn of 2½ cents a bushel in wheat prices in Winnipeg were the principal factors behind the market's advance. The action of the Canadian market, which is dominated by the government financed pool, caused speculators here to buy in their short pledges in the market because of apprehension of a further advance in prices.

Must Report Position.

Members of the Winnipeg exchange yesterday were ordered to report the nature of their short position in that market. Chicago commission houses received telegraphic requests to designate the character of their short commitments in the Canadian market. Each transaction must be reported as speculative, hedging, or spreading. The order was interpreted as indicating that the Canadian wheat authorities are preparing to force the speculative short interest out of the market.

Dominion officials have frequently charged that international bear raiding in the Winnipeg market has taken place on a large scale. With the Canadian government facing a crisis in its attempt to hold up wheat prices it appears that the "international bear" may again be used as a convenient scapegoat.

Causes Uneasiness Here.

The meaning read into the Canadian developments caused uneasiness here. Wheat in Winnipeg is now selling over 2 cents above the Chicago price, although Canada must depend on foreign buyers to take the bulk of its wheat.

The domestic weather situation combined with the Canadian news caused short covering. Continued wet weather is delaying harvesting operations in the southwest and is delaying the corn crop in the middle west. In some sections the rain is still a beneficent crop influence, but over a large section of the grain belt warm, dry weather would be welcomed. There have been no reports of actual damage to the crop. The forecast for the southwest gave promise of more favorable weather.

Closing Prices of Grain.

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .81⅞	$ .80¾	$ .83½
Corn	.82	.80¾	.81⅞
Oats	.35⅝	.35	.35
Rye	.47¼	.45⅞	.47½

The strength in the corn market was due in a large measure to announcement that Chicago elevator interests will not mix Argentine and domestic corn. It had been anticipated in some quarters that such a mixture would qualify for delivery against future contracts in Chicago. With this possibility out, however, the stocks of corn available for delivery are extremely small.

AM. SMELTING PAYS $6 A SHARE ON 6% PREFERRED

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—The American Smelting and Refining company today declared a dividend of $6 a share on the 6 per cent second preferred stock on account of accumulations. The dividend is payable Sept. 20 to holders of record Aug. 9 and reduces arrears on the issue to $6 a share.

Three months ago the company paid $3 a share on the second preferred stock, prior to which no payment had been made on the issue since one of $1.50 on June 1, 1932. Accumulations at one time amounted to $13.50 a share.

The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share was declared on the 7 per cent first preferred stock of the company. Accumulations amounting to $10.50 a share on the 7 per cent issue were cleared up in 1934.

RFC BANK STOCK TAXABLE, SAYS MARYLAND COURT

Annapolis, Md., June 18.—(AP)—The Maryland court of appeals tonight ruled that the state has a right to tax preferred bank stock owned by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The case was one involving the Baltimore National bank which was incorporated Aug. 4, 1933, under a reorganization by the stockholders of the Baltimore Trust company, with the aid of the subscription by the RFC to an issue of preferred stock.

—ANSWER—
We don't believe in sales—but we are LOADED WITH CARS and we think it is the only sensible thing to do—to cut prices and sell them out now. THIS IS NOT AN AUCTION SALE OR TRICK SALE, or one of those 99c sales or $10 down payment sales—BUT bona fide Sale of Automobiles where the prices have been drastically reduced—and backed by Studebaker's 53 year old reputation for fair dealing — and by Studebaker's famous nationally advertised pledge.
